PREMIER PROPOSES HOME RULE BILL EXCLUDING ULSTER

Would Apply the Act at Once to All Ireland Except Six Counties.

SUGGESTS IRISH COUNCIL

Compromise Body to Pass Private Bills Affecting Ulster and the Home Rule Area.

CONVENTION LAST RESORT

If Proposals Fail, He May Call All Irish Parties to Draft a Self-Governing Scheme.

LONDON, Thursday, May 17.—The British Prime Minister yesterday sent a letter to John Redmond, leader of the Irish Nationalist Party, outlining the Government's project for the settlement of the home rule question. He asked Mr. Redmond to state his views on the Government's suggestion in order that the Government might be able to consider the matter before Monday.

As soon as the Premier's proposals were available the Irish Unionists met to discuss the document. The Nationalists will hold a meeting this morning for the same purpose.

The Government, the letter set forth, has been desirous of effecting an immediate settlement which will concede the largest possible measure of home rule that can be secured by agreement at this moment without prejudice to the undertaking by Parliament of a further and final settlement of the most disputed questions after the war.

The Government's proposals provide for the introduction of a bill for the immediate application of the Home Rule act to Ireland, but excluding six counties of North and East Ulster such exclusion to be subject to reconsideration by Parliament at the end of five years; for a Council of Ireland, to be composed of two delegations representing the excluded area, as well as the new Irish Parliament; consideration of the bill after its second reading by a special conference under the Chairmanship of some one commanding general confidence.

As an alternative, it is suggested by the Premier that a convention of Irishmen of all parties be assembled for the purpose of arranging a scheme of Irish self-government.

Premier's Letter to Redmond.

Premier Lloyd George's letter to Mr. Redmond follows:

"Dear Mr. Redmond—The Government have been considering for some time what further action they would take to bring about the settlement of the Irish question. They have approached the subject with a deep desire to put an end to a state of affairs which is productive of immense evil, not only to Ireland but to Great Britain and the empire.

"The choice of alternatives open to them, however, has been narrowed by the fact that it is impossible for them in the crisis of a war, in which our safety and the liberty of most of the nations of Europe are at stake, to take action which would revive a violent political controversy and so weaken or imperil the unity which is essential to the supreme necessity of winning the war. They have, therefore, felt that any settlement which they could propose during the war must be one which would be substantially accepted by both sides.

"The desire of the Government has been to try to effect an immediate settlement, conceding the largest possible measure of Home Rule which can be secured by agreement at this moment, without prejudice to the undertaking of Parliament of a further and final settlement of the questions most in dispute after the war. They are therefore prepared to put forward proposals on the following lines with a view to present action:

"Firstly, they would introduce a bill for the immediate application of the Home Rule act to Ireland, but excluding therefrom the six counties in the north and east of Ulster, such exclusion to be subject to reconsideration by Parliament at the end of five years, unless it is previously terminated by the action of the Council of Ireland, to be set up as hereinafter described.

Plans a "Council of Ireland."

"Secondly, with a view to securing the largest possible measure of common action for the whole of Ireland, the bill would provide for a Council of Ireland, to be composed of two delegations consisting, on the one hand, of all members returned to Westminster from the excluded area, and on the other, of a delegation equal in numbers from the Irish Parliament, this council to be summoned on the initiative of any six members. It would be empowered by a majority of the votes of each of the delegations to pass private bill legislation affecting both the included and excluded areas; to recommend to the Crown the extension to the excluded area, by an Order in Council, of any act of the Irish Parliament; to agree to the inclusion under the Home Rule act of the whole of Ireland, subject to the assent of a majority of the voters in the excluded areas, the powers to be vested in the Crown in that case to extend the act to all of Ireland by an Order in Council; to make recommendations on its own initiative upon the Irish question, including the amendment of the Home Rule act as finally passed. The President of this Council of Ireland would be elected by agreement between

Over 100,000 Men in Navy; Marine Corps Has 21,864

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, May 16.—Recruiting for the navy passed the 100,000 mark today when Richard Farris Cannon, who enlisted at the recruiting station at Jackson, Miss., was enlisted as the one hundred thousandth man.

President Wilson on March 15 signed an order increasing the enlisted strength of the navy to 87,000 men. On that day there were 61,881 men in the navy.

Besides the 87,000 men authorized as the enlisted strength the law allows the enlistment of 6,000 apprentices, hospital corps, reserves, and other auxiliary services, bringing the total authorized strength to 100,657, which number will be reached tomorrow.

Both branches of Congress have passed the bill authorizing an increase in the navy to 150,000 men and 30,000 for the marine corps. The bill will soon become a law. Meanwhile there is no letup in recruiting. There are now 21,864 officers and enlisted men in the marine corps.

OFFERS ROOSEVELT A GENERAL'S RANK

AWAITS WILSON'S DECISION

Responds to "Paper Army" Cry with Declaration That He Can Raise Four Divisions.

"Let them accept my offer to raise and equip a force to fight in Europe and see whether or not I can get the men," was the answer of Colonel Roosevelt last night to a published statement that his was only a "paper" army; that instead of having, as had been said, 187,000 enlisted men, exclusive of officers, he had not had 5,000 bona fide applications for enrollment.

The Colonel, who had just come from Albany, where he had spent the day conferring with Governor Whitman on the question of his being made Major General under the laws of the State of New York, appeared much encouraged by the prospect of going to the front.

"The Governor offered me a Major Generalship," he said, "in case Washington does not accept my division. I very greatly appreciate this. I did not answer definitely, suggesting as a possible alternative that I be allowed to raise a division to be commanded by General W. W. Wotherspoon, a West Pointer, a retired army officer and formerly Chief of Staff of the United States Army under President Taft, and I take a brigade under him."

In answer to the printed assertion in The New York World that the whole scheme for Roosevelt's divisions was simply a political move, the Colonel said this was "neither a Republican nor a Democratic war, but a war waged by the whole American people." He added that so long as a man was fitted to serve, his political party should not be considered.

"Let them accept my division and see what I can do," said the Colonel with vigor. "If the Army bill becomes law I shall immediately offer to raise two divisions, and I shall state that I believe I can raise all four at once if the President so desires.

"Of course, all the work so far has been done by the expenditure of money raised by private subscription, and by the unpaid work of busy men. All we have been able to do, of course, has been to list the individual applications and the offers of organizations. We have made no public appeal, have put nothing in the papers except in answer to questions. The men who have come forward have come of their own accord, save in a few cases where I wrote men with whom I have been talking over this plan ever since the sinking of the Lusitania, and even before that.

"As regards some offers, my only difficulty will be keeping down applications to the number whose enlistment I can accept. There are other organizations that have been offered, as to which, personally, I do not know enough to speak with any certainty.

"If the War Department will give me the same chance as it did the then Colonel Wood and myself, in raising our regiment for the Spanish War, I will guarantee two divisions, and indeed will be perfectly willing to guarantee four, if they tell me to go ahead and raise them.

"As for politics, the question has never even been suggested by any man connected with the division. As a matter of fact the great bulk of the men whom I hope to recommend for command appointments have no political importance whatever—a host of them are regular army men who notoriously have no politics—and the very few men who have had some political prominence have come forward wholly without regard to that.

"The State of Mississippi offers a case in point. Congressman Stephens has applied to enlist as a private, and ex-Senator Percy has asked to come in any capacity for which he is found fit. To deny such men a chance to serve the country in war merely because they had already served the country in peace would be not only wicked but preposterous.

"As I understand it this is neither a Democratic nor a Republican war, but a war of the American people. So long as the man is genuinely patriotic and able and eager to render good service I don't care a snap of my finger to what party he belongs or doesn't belong, or what public or private position he does or does not hold."

Colonel Roosevelt was entertained at the Executive Mansion at Albany at luncheon yesterday, where his military plans were discussed. It was the first time since he was Governor that the Colonel had been inside the Mansion. Others present were General Wotherspoon, State Commissioner of Public Works; Adjt. Gen. Louis W. Stotesbury, and Major George F. Chandler, the newly appointed Superintendent of State Police.

FIGHT TO RAISE PROPOSED TAXES ON BIG INCOMES

Lenroot and Sherley Lead Movement in House for Additional Impost.

ONE INCREASE IS VOTED

KITCHIN'S APPEALS FUTILE

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, May 16.—The first change in the War Revenue bill was made by the House today, when it voted in Committee of the Whole to increase the surtax on incomes between $40,000 and $60,000 from 8 per cent. to 10 per cent. This amendment, offered by Representative Lenroot, Republican, of Wisconsin, was adopted, 98 to 87. It is, of course, subject to a roll-call vote.

This action marked a vigorous movement to increase the proposed income surtaxes 25 per cent. on all amounts above $40,000 under the leadership of Mr. Lenroot and Representative Sherley, Democrat, of Kentucky. It was over the determined opposition of Democratic Leader Kitchin and Representatives Fordney of Michigan and Hill of Connecticut, Republicans, that the insurgents succeeded in obtaining in Committee of the Whole their proposed increase from 8 to 10 per cent. on incomes between $40,000 and $60,000, and tomorrow they will resume their fight, determined to elevate every division until incomes above $500,000 pay almost 60 per cent.

Should the proposed increase prevail there will be an attempt to strike from the bill the proposed freight, light, and heat taxes, and, possibly, the increased second class mail matter rate. Unofficial estimates are that the proposed 25 per cent. increase would net approximately $100,000,000.

Deaf to Party Calls.

Party lines were obliterated at the outset of the fight. Appeals of Republican and Democratic Ways and Means Committee members for support seemed to fall on deaf ears on both sides of the House.

Representative Kitchin assailed all suggested income tax rate increases over the committee recommendation. He insisted that support of such proposals came only from those who sought to serve certain interests and not to lower taxes generally.

"I haven't heard any one here object to the taxes on necessities," he shouted. "The only taxes it is proposed to decrease are those on second-class mail matter, automobiles and other luxuries."

Representative Lenroot characterized the Democratic leader's remarks as "ingenious," but as failing to get away from the fact that the general 25 per cent. increase would enable the House to strike out the freight, light, and heat taxes.

"These taxes would fall on every home," he declared. "Our real interest here is to make the tax as small as possible on the poor men with families and make it as large as possible on those who are able to pay."

In opposing the proposed increases, Representative Fordney said if taxes on the wealthy were put so high that they felt an injury was being done them they would evade the levy by passing dividends and other methods. He also pleaded against what he termed "class legislation," insisting that the rich were as patriotic as the poor.

Ex-Speaker Cannon suggested that only about $10,000,000,000 of the total wealth of $250,000,000,000 in the United States was in the hands of the "plutocrats," and he saw no reason for trying to place an unfair burden on them.

Representative Hill declared the income tax section should not be changed, as the people it affected would pay, under its provisions and their State income taxes, all they could afford.

One Proposed Increase Beaten.

Representative Sherley led an unsuccessful fight to increase the surtax on incomes between $5,000 and $7,500 from 1 to 2 per cent. This amendment was rejected on a viva voce vote.

Mr. Sherley said the income tax should be fully utilized as a revenue producer and higher income tax rates would be preferable to some of the taxes levied by the bill.

"The tax on incomes," said Mr. Sherley, "is not a tax that can destroy the activities of men. A great deal of criticism of this bill is that it may result in certain cases in totally destroying the particular business of the individual man.

"I am in favor of raising as much money as possible from incomes without doing the unfair thing. I should be glad to see new provisions in the bill whereby we would tax by increased amounts the incomes above $1,000,000.

"I do not think there is any great harm going to come by excess taxes on incomes above $500,000 or $1,000,000. I am not very much concerned about the tragedy that will come into the lives of men whose incomes are of that size. My fourteen years' service here relieves me from any charge of demagogy or appealing to the poor at the expense of the rich. I submit that the rates I am proposing may be levied without any great burden."

Mr. Sherley said he would offer further amendments to increase the income

Mexico May Enter the War, Gen. Carranza Intimates

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

MEXICO CITY, May 16.—President Carranza's speech made at the farewell banquet given to the retiring Minister of War, General Obregon, today has created a great sensation. It is here regarded as a warning that Mexico may eventually be forced to enter the European conflict. President Carranza said that if, owing to unsettled conditions and grave dangers, Mexico should be dragged into the conflict, no man would have the right to retire to private life. He added:

"If Mexico becomes involved in the universal conflict, General Obregon's services will be most valuable. I am sure he will act with the same efficiency and patriotism he has proven in the past, and I want him by my side."

In a statement to THE TIMES General Obregon reiterated that his only reason for leaving the capital was ill health. After recovery he is willing, as always, to serve Mexico in any capacity. General Obregon will probably visit New York and Washington after a short stay at his home in Sonora.

A dispatch to THE TIMES from Monterey, published on April 29, foreshadowed the possible entry of Mexico into the war on the side of the United States.

AMEND ARMY BILL; DOUBLE MEN'S PAY

House Forces Senate Conferees to Agree to $30 Minimum, Then Adopts Measure.

BILL NOW GOES TO SENATE

Upper Body Is Expected to Pass It Today and It May Reach the President Tomorrow.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, May 16.—After forcing another change in the Army Draft bill the House finally adopted the conference report today, and if the Senate acts tomorrow the bill probably will be in the hands of the President by Friday.

The House sent the bill back to conference today because the conferees had changed the section relating to the increased pay of enlisted men. House conferees were instructed to insist upon an increase of $15 a month, which would make the pay of the average enlisted man $30 a month during the period of the war. He will receive an additional 20 per cent. if sent on foreign service.

Representative Good of Iowa moved to recommit the bill, and the motion carried, 199 to 177. The House conferees at once sought out the managers on the part of the Senate and informed them of the House mandate. The $30 a month rate was written into the bill late this afternoon, and the modified bill immediately was presented to the lower body. Chairman Dent asked unanimous consent to consider the conference report at once, instead of permitting it to remain on the Speaker's table for one day, as is customary. Unanimous consent was given and the conference report was at last adopted without a roll call.

When the bill passed the House it carried provision for the pay of enlisted men at $30 a month. The Senate made the pay $29 a month and the conferees agreed upon $25. This action was attacked by Representatives Good, Austin, and other members today, and the conferees were accused of having exceeded their authority in fixing an amount lower than that proposed by either body.

Mr. Dent explained that when the two bodies acted originally many members lost sight of the fact that soldiers receive an additional allowance for service on foreign soil. This allowance, he said, would bring the total pay up to about $30 a month. However, Mr. Good's motion to recommit the bill with instructions prevailed. Once before the House had recommitted the bill because it did not contain the section authorizing the acceptance of the services of the "Roosevelt volunteers."

Chairman Dent said the $30 a month pay for enlisted men would add several hundred million dollars to the annual expense of conducting the war.

"It will cost $900,000 extra for every 150,000 men in the army if you adopt this plan of increasing the pay by $15 a month," said Mr. Dent, in opposing the doubling of the present rate of compensation.

Representative Ferris of Oklahoma opposed any further delay in approving the Army Draft bill.

The Good amendment was reluctantly inserted in the bill by the Senate conferees. It is understood that the Senate managers informed Mr. Dent and his colleagues that if the Army bill were not an emergency measure they would never submit to the dictates of the House on the $30 a month issue.

The amendment applies chiefly to the enlisted man drawing $15 a month under existing law. There are proportionate increases, however, for other enlisted men who now receive more than $15 owing to re-enlistment and continuous service allowances.

SENATORS CLOSE DOORS TO ATTACK ADMINISTRATION

STARTS IN BUDGET DEBATE

LODGE DEFENDS CONGRESS

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, May 16.—Latent feeling, due to the belief that the Administration was not pursuing an energetic war policy, bubbled over behind the closed doors of the Senate today when the bill appropriating $3,390,000,000 for extraordinary expenses of the army and navy was under consideration. After the doors were opened the atmosphere was still warm and there were additional criticisms of the Administration, although tempered to the restrictions of publicity.

Led by Senator Lodge, attacks were made on President Wilson, the Cabinet, and Council of National Defense.

Senators accused the Administration of having tried to jam through Congress huge appropriation bills without taking either the Senate or the House into its confidence as to what was to be done with the money.

The Senate wanted facts as to what had been done by the President and other officials, and what they expected to do. Senators said they did not want to be kept in the dark about the President's war policy, when they were called upon to provide the largest appropriation in the country's history.

Newton D. Baker, Secretary of War, was assailed on the ground that he had failed to give Congress information to back up his demand for war money. Herbert C. Hoover was spoken of as a "man who had emerged from obscurity only a short time ago, and whom the Administration now wants to make a food dictator."

Senate Resents Secrecy.

A growing feeling of impatience with the Administration that has been developing came to the surface. Rumblings of discontent over alleged failure to let the country know what was being done have been heard in the Capitol, but they did not break into a storm of protest until today.

Most of the shafts aimed at the Administration came during an executive session, which followed immediately upon the opening of today's session. But later, when some Senators insisted that the country ought to know what they had to say, and that the Senate ought not allow itself to fall into a policy of secretiveness, the doors were opened, and there was a modified, but still emphatic, protest.

The Senate had just been called to order with the appropriation bill before it when Senator Weeks, Republican, insisted upon an executive session. He said that the Senate was ignorant of many things it ought to know regarding features of the measure, and that it was advisable to have some light thrown on them.

"I don't want to block any legislation that has to do with the prosecution of this war," he said. "But I have no knoweldge of what the details of this bill are, and I don't think other Senators know any more about it than I do. This bill provides more in one lump than it cost this country to run the civil war. I don't feel justified in putting through legislation of such vast importance. Personally, I would like to devote two or three days in studying the details of it. Much of our time might be saved if features of it were explained to us."

Senator Martin, Democratic floor leader, who had moved the bill, was willing to have an executive session over it, and the doors were locked. For three and a half hours the Senate, shut out from the world, devoted itself to a fire of attack upon the Administration.

Republicans Lead Attack.

While the brunt of criticism was made by the Republican members, not a few Democrats expressed sympathy with the idea that thrust itself forward throughout the debate, that the Administration had been slow and that some aggressive move must be made if the country was to play an important part in the European conflict.

"The President has not seemed to think it essential that he take Congress into confidence," said one Senator in effect. "He apparently considers that it's no affair of ours what is done. All we want is to know what steps are being taken to make our country's part in the war something more than that of a spectator."

Another Senator, who said he had managed to get hold of some private scraps of information by "digging around," accused the Administration of using bad judgment in its handling of the problem of getting food to the Allies. He happened to know, he said, that Major Gen. Goethals was against the building of wooden ships, as he believed them to be unserviceable for that work, but he was overruled and the ships would be built.

"Well, it's better to have wooden ships than none at all," he added.

An attack upon the Shipping Board for alleged failure to call upon the ship builders for expert views and carry out "any definite policy regarding any-

AMERICAN DESTROYERS IN WAR ZONE; JOINED BRITISH NAVAL PATROL MAY 4; ONE VESSEL HAS FOUGHT A SUBMARINE

FLOTILLA WARMLY GREETED

ADMIRAL SIMS IN COMMAND

RESULT OF FIGHT NOT TOLD

Beatty and Mayo Exchange Congratulations—More Destroyers to be Sent.

QUEENSTOWN, May 16.—A squadron of American torpedo boat destroyers has safely crossed the Atlantic and is patrolling the seas in war service. The American Navy's actual entry into the war zone has already been productive of a brush between a destroyer and German underwater boat, according to an announcement by the British Admiralty, but the result of it has not been made public.

The destroyer squadron arrived in Queenstown after an uneventful voyage across the Atlantic, but almost immediately after a formal exchange of greetings with the British naval officials, put to sea again for the hard work that is before it.

A crowd of several hundred persons, some of them carrying tiny American flags, lined the waterfront and cheered the destroyers from the moment they first sighted the flotilla until it reached the dock. The crowd cheered again when a few moments later the American senior officer came ashore to greet the British senior officer and Wesley Frost, the American Consul, who had come down to the dock to welcome the flotilla. Everything was done in a simple, businesslike manner. There was an entire absence of formality.

The commander of the British flotilla was waiting on board his ship and sent wireless greetings to the American units as soon as they hove in sight, steaming in a long line into the habor.

"We Can Start at Once."

After the exchange of shore greetings and the British commander had congratulated the American officers on their safe voyage, he asked:

"When will you be ready for business?"

"We can start at once," the American commander replied promptly.

This response, so characteristically American, surprised the British commander, who said he had not expected the Americans would be ready to begin work on this side so soon after their long voyage. When he had recovered from his surprise, he made a short tour of the destroyers and admitted that the American tars looked prepared.

"Yes," replied the American commander, "we made preparations on the way over. That is why we are ready."

The equipment on board the destroyers was found to be in excellent condition and remarkably well suited to the requirements on this side of the ocean. In fact, it was said by the British officer that the only thing lacking in the equipment of the American sailors was heavier clothing. It appears that the Americans were wearing clothing too light for the varying conditions of weather they will encounter in these waters. This want was quickly remedied.

After the formalities had ended and the needs of the men were attended to, the American ships at once put out to sea, the men, from Captains to ordinary seamen, looking in the pink of condition and apparently enthusiastic for their task.

"They are certainly a fine body of men, and, what's more, their craft look just as fit," said the British commander as he watched the destroyers file seaward.

Escorted Atlantic Liner.

One of the American destroyers began war duty even before reaching this side of the Atlantic. This was when it picked up and escorted through the danger zone one of the largest of the Atlantic liners. This action so pleased the passengers on board that they sent a message of greeting and appreciation to the commander of the destroyer. The message read:

"British passengers on board a steamer bound for a British port under the protection of an American torpedo destroyer send their hearty greetings to her commander and her officers and crew, and desire to express their keen appeciation of this practical co-operation between the Government and peoples of the United States and the British Empire, who are now fighting together for the freedom of the seas."

Many enthusiastic persons managed to get snapshots of the American vessels in Queenstown Harbor, but the best pictures, and those that are destined to become famous, are moving pictures taken by the official British Government photographer as the flotilla steamed into port. With his camera mounted on a small tugboat, the operator went out to meet the destroyers, and filmed them from many angles.

26 British Vessels Sunk by U-Boats Last Week; 18 of Over 1600 Tons, Against 24 the Week Before

LONDON, May 16.—Eighteen British merchantmen of more than 1,600 tons were sunk during the last week, says the official summary of shipping losses issued today. Five merchantmen of less than 1,600 tons were sunk, together with three fishing vessels. The statement says:

"All nationalities—Arrivals, 2,568; sailings, 2,552.

"British vessels, sunk by mine or submarine, over 1,600 tons, including one previously, 18; under 1,600 tons, 5.

"British merchantmen unsuccessfully attacked, including five previously, 19.

"British fishing vessels sunk, 3."

PARIS, May 16.—A dispatch to the Havas Agency from Rome says that the losses to Italian shipping during the last week as a result of Germany's submarine campaign were two steamers under 1,900 tons each and seven small sailing craft. Some fishing boats also were sunk.

The statement of the British Admiralty shows the losses for the week have been cut considerably more than half as regards the number of British vessels sunk, last week's report showing sixty-two vessels, as compared with twenty-six in the current statement.

In large vessels the decrease was from twenty-four to eighteen. The most marked drop, however, was in the number of smaller vessels destroyed. Last Wednesday twenty-two merchant vessels of less than 1,600 tons were reported sunk, in contrast with the five in this week's report, while the number of fishing craft dropped from sixteen to only three.

The high-water mark in the destruction of large vessels was reached in the report of April 26, when forty such vessels were announced as destroyed.

PARTIES IN RUSSIA GETTING TOGETHER

Government, Council, and Duma Agree on Basic Program, Including War's Continuance.

MILUKOFF QUITS CABINET

Sazonoff, Recalled as He Starts for London Embassy, May Join Coalition Ministry.

PETROGRAD, May 16.—Important developments today indicate that the moderates and radicals are at last getting together on a basis that has a promise of a satisfactory outcome of the political crisis.

A plenary sitting of the Council of Workmen's and Soldiers' Delegates has indorsed the decision of its executive for Socialist participation in the Government, and a reconstruction of the Cabinet is under way.

Paul N. Milukoff, Minister of Foreign Affairs, has resigned, leaving the Cabinet altogether. M. Tereschtenko, Minister of Finance, has been appointed Foreign Minister, and A. F. Kerensky, previously Minister of Justice, has definitely been named Minister of War and Marine.

Sergius Sazonoff, former Foreign Minister, intended to start today for England, where he was to assume the post of Russian Ambassador. He had reached the railway station when a courier overtook him with a request from Premier Lvoff to postpone his departure. It is believed that he will now be asked to assume an important position in the Ministry.

Cardinal Points Agreed Upon.

Following the publication of the Cabinet changes, so far as effected, the official news agency issued this statement:

"The three cardinal points upon which the Government, the Executive Committee of the Duma, and the Council of Workmen's and Soldiers' Delegates have agreed are:

"The unity of the allied fronts;

"A plenitude of powers for the Government."

Professor Milukoff's decision to retire from the Cabinet was announced at a sitting of the Provisional Government last night. Its immediate cause, the official news agency states, was a difference in views between him and other members of the Provisional Government on the question of reorganization of the Cabinet.

After considerable discussion it was suggested that Premier Lvoff should take charge of the Ministry of Foreign Affairs, but the Premier declined, saying that he did not possess qualifications for the post and that he preferred to retain the portfolio of the interior.

Finally the majority of the members decided it was best to entrust the Ministry of Foreign Affairs to M. Tereschtenko, while M. Kerensky was appointed Minister of War and Marine.

Minister of Labor—M. GVOZDEFF, a Social Democrat.

Minister of Justice—M. NIKITINE, a Moscow lawyer and Social Democrat, or M. MALANTKVITCH, an Odessa lawyer and Social Democrat.

Minister of Munitions—M. PECHEKONOFF, a National Socialist.

No name is mentioned for the portfolio of Public Instruction, which, according to prognostications, was to have been taken by M. Milukoff, shifting from the Ministry of Foreign Affairs.

Socialists Distrusted Milukoff.

LONDON, May 16.—A resolution welcoming the declaration of the new democratic Government of Russia "repudiating all proposals for imperialistic conquest and aggrandizement" was moved in the House of Commons today by Philip Snowden, Socialist member for Blackburn. It was voted down without division after application of the closure. The resolution called on the Government "to issue a similar declaration in behalf of the British democracy and to join with the Allies in restating the allies' terms in conformity with the Russian declaration."

Mr. Snowden, whose declarations were supported by a small group of pacifists, said that if Great Britain was going to maintain its alliance with Russia it would be necessary for it to put itself into line with the policy of the new democratic Russian Government. It was perfectly clear, he said, that the mind of the Russian democracy was now concentrated on peace, and that this object would be pursued.

The necessity of voting down the resolution was explained by Lord Robert Cecil as a technicality, inasmuch as it presented an amendment to the Consolidated Fund bill, and expressions of regret that the House should thus be compelled seemingly to slight Russian aspirations were voiced by Lord Robert, former Premier Asquith, and others, who declared their sympathy with Russia, but deprecated the views of the small body of pacifists moving the resolution in such a manner as necessitated its rejection.

Lord Robert Cecil, on behalf of the Government, and Mr. Asquith were emphatic in their statements that it was impossible at the present stage to enter into negotiations with Germany, and declared that the war aims of the Entente Allies as previously announced still held good.

Paying warm tribute to the manner in which the Russian revolution had been brought about, Lord Robert, commenting on the Socialist plan for peace without annexation, alluded to the German colonies.

"While it is true," he said, "that we did not take them in order to rescue the natives from German rule, but as part of the war operations, having rescued them, are we going to hand them back?" [Cheers.]

He then read a long account of the shocking treatment suffered by the natives in both German East Africa and German West Africa, and said: "If there is any measure of success in the war, I should regard with horror the idea of returning natives who have been freed from a Government of that kind."

Then there were Poland, Alsace-Lorraine, and Italia Irredenta. Could Great Britain commit herself to a policy of nonannexation in these cases? Lord Robert referred to Turkish cruelty and oppression in Arabia, Armenia, and Syria, and said he wished to impress upon Mr. Snowden and his friends that, while there might not be good ground for going to war to accomplish acts of reparation and justice, yet, having done that by war, the nation could hardly be asked to abandon the fruits of such desirable achievements.

Then what about Belgium, Serbia, and Northern France and the destruction of peaceful merchant ships? Was there to be no reparation? He ridiculed the suggestion that the Allies should enter into peace negotiations with Germany. He found no indication in the German Chancellor's speech of an inclination even to state the terms of peace Germany was ready to accept, and until the spirit which characterized the Chancellor's speech was exorcised it would be ludicrous and undignified on the part of the Allies to discuss terms with Germany.

So far as he was able to judge, the same thing had happened to Germany as had often happened before. There was a popular movement and a popular demand for reform, and an appearance of yielding by the Government. Then followed a protest, generally couched in offensive terms, by the Junkers, and received brief shore leave. They were fairly made captives by the townspeople, who insisted on taking them to their homes, where they plied the sailors with good things to eat and drink. They were the first American naval men seen in this region for many years, and they were bombarded with questions concerning the happenings in America by people who have relatives there.

As they wandered through the streets the Americans observed the Stars and Stripes flying from many buildings. They were told that these were hoisted to celebrate the entry of the United States into the war, and had been left there as an honor to the American sailors, whom they had been expecting.

Rear Admiral Sims in Command.

LONDON, May 16.—The Admiralty today announced the arrival of American destroyers in British waters as follows:

"The British Admiralty states that a flotilla of United States destroyers recently arrived in this country to coöperate with our naval forces in the prosecution of the war."

Rear Admiral Sims is in general command of all the United States naval forces that are sent to European waters and is in daily touch with the Chief of the British Naval Staff.

The Admiralty announcement says the services which the American vessels are rendering to the allied cause are of the greatest value and are deeply appreciated.

Vice Admiral Sir David Beatty, commander of the British Grand Fleet, has sent the following message to Admiral Henry T. Mayo, commander of the United States Atlantic fleet:

"The Grand Fleet rejoices that the Atlantic fleet will now share in preserving the liberties of the world and maintaining the chivalry of the sea."

Admiral Mayo replied:

"The United States Atlantic fleet appreciates the message from the British fleet and welcomes opportunities for work with the British fleet for the freedom of the seas."

Immediately after the American residents learned last week that American warships were operating in British waters they began to discuss measures for the welfare of the sailors.

It was decided at an informal conference to provide for the Americans recreation buildings similar to those conducted by the Young Men's Christian Association and other organizations for the comfort of the British soldiers and sailors. The subscriptions were promptly forthcoming. At a meeting of the American Chamber of Commerce several American firms subscribed £100 each, bringing the fund up to £3,000.

It was decided to provide two buildings at ports where the sailors will have their shore leaves, and two representatives of the fund started thither the next day to begin the work. The buildings will have sleeping, eating, and recreation accomodations, including reading rooms. A movement is also on foot to procure a clubhouse suitable for the needs of all American sailors and soldiers who are likely to visit London during the war.

A Surprise to English People.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

LONDON, Thursday, May 17.—The Admiralty announcement last night of the arrival of a flotilla of American destroyers in these waters is welcomed by the people of this country as a near-at-hand and tangible evidence of the entry of the United States into the war.

Although it was known that Rear Admiral Sims since his arrival in London had been in constant and close touch with the British Admiralty discussing Anglo-American naval coöperation, the great majority of Londoners were in ignorance that American naval help was actually on its way across the Atlantic. The Admiralty's announcement will, therefore, be as surprising to them as it is welcome.

On their first night ashore on this side a party of American naval officers occupied boxes at a theatrical performance and when the audience recognized them there was an impromptu demonstration in their honor, which lasted several minutes.

Said one of the brawny sailors of the U. S. S. ——:

"Our destroyers, as the officers put it, 'raced across the pond in record time.' They arrived with their tongues out. All our warships, you know, are 'dry' and the first thing they asked for after quenching a pardonable thirst was a chance to get at a U-boat."

ACTIVE ABROAD SINCE MAY 4.

Daniels Says Destroyers Left American Ports in April.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, May 16.—American destroyers, under command of Rear Admiral William S. Sims, have been operating since May 4 against U-boats in European waters in joint association with British and French vessels.

Announcement of this fact was made by Secretary Daniels tonight after conferences that followed the receipt of a press dispatch from London saying the British Admiralty had announced the arrival of American destroyers in British waters.

The size of the American naval force, the names of the destroyers embraced in it, and movements of these vessels is withheld by the Navy Department. Ultimately the entire American destroyer flotilla will be sent to the war zone.

Secretary Daniels's announcement tonight read:

> United States naval vessels have been operating with the allied naval forces in European waters since May 4. A number of destroyers sailed from American ports in the latter part of April and all arrived at their destinations without accident or delay of any kind. They were ready for operations when they arrived and went into service immediately.
> The United States vessels are under command of Rear Admiral Sims, who went to England and France several weeks ago to arrange for active coöperation between the naval forces of the United States and those of the other nations at war with Germany. Plans formulated after reports from Rear Admiral Sims, made as a result of his conferences with the British and French Admiralties, are now being effectuated.
> It has been the purpose of the United States navy to give the largest measure of assistance to the other countries at war with Germany that is consistent with the full and complete protection of our own coasts and territorial waters.
> The Navy Department has received no reports that engagements have occurred between the United States vessels now in European waters and the vessels of the enemy.

When this statement was issued it was supplemented by the following official request:

> For military reasons the Secretary of the Navy earnestly requests the press that no speculation be made as to the names or number of American ships that are now in foreign waters. If this information is possessed by any newspapers or individual newspapermen its suppression is asked as a duty of patriotism.

The statement is sanctioned that the destroyers are manned only by officers and men who have been trained in destroyer flotilla operations, and that before the vessels left their American ports they were completely overhauled so as to have them in the best of condition.

Reports from London during the last fortnight have indicated that the anti-submarine campaign was meeting with successful results, and tonight's report of the last week's losses through submarine operations is the most favorable in several weeks. To what extent the improvement in the campaign is to be attributed to the presence of American destroyers in European waters cannot be definitely ascertained, but the fact that a large diminution of losses has occurred during the two weeks of their coöperation with the British Navy affords the basis for pleasant conjectures. According to a published report more submarines have been sunk in the last week than in the month previous.

The destroyer flotilla is the first actual contribution of American military power to the Entente Alliance against Germany. Rear Admiral Sims went to London before the decision had been reached to send these vessels. Their going was the result of plans effected in conferences that he has held in Paris and London in the last month with officers of the British Admiralty. Mining operations have been conducted more extensively to block the Germans' North Sea submarine bases, a successful attack has been made against the submarine base at Zeebrugge, and joint scouting operations against U-boats have been made by the Anglo-Franco-American destroyer patrol.

GENERAL STAFF OPPOSES PETAIN

WOULD HINDER PLANS HERE

A Similar French Proposal to the War Department Admitted Need of Men.

MUST FIGHT UNDER OUR FLAG

Army Officers Think the Country Would Not Tolerate Any Other Arrangement.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, May 16.—The proposal of General Pétain, the new Commander in Chief of the French armies, that the United States send to France within three months a force of volunteers to be trained as officers for the great American army to follow, which was contained in the cabled statement made for THE NEW YORK TIMES by General Pétain, printed in THE TIMES today, caused an outbreak of protest at the War Department.

It would be unfair to the department to say that anything of an authoritative nature critical of General Pétain's proposal was furnished, but no room was left for doubt that an effort on the part of the French Government to have the United States adopt the views expressed through THE TIMES will be resisted by responsible military officers on duty in Washington.

It was Marshal Joffre who first suggested, during an interview here in Washington, that a force of American troops should be sent to take its place in the fighting lines in France for the sake of its psychological effect on the French and British armies and its detrimental effect on the morale of the Germans. The suggestion of the hero of the Marne was censored to such an extent that when his statement was given to the press it was considerably changed from its original form.

The censoring was understood to have been done at the request of an American army officer. Subsequently it became known that the French were anxious to have this Government and the American people understand that France wanted American troops to be fighting side by side with Frenchmen, and the fact was published.

The wish of France as expressed by Marshal Joffre at that time was not pleasing to a considerable number of military officers of the United States, who honestly felt that to send American soldiers in piecemeal contingents would be a grave error and would defeat the effort to form a large army of trained troops as provided by the measure authorizing a selective draft. There was also considerable opposition to the proposal elsewhere in official circles because it apparently gave impetus to Colonel Roosevelt's plan to raise volunteers for immediate service in France. There had been no modification of this feeling when officials read in THE TIMES today the statement of General Pétain recommending that a force of American volunteers be sent to France within three months.

Proposal Made Formally.

In connection with the inquiries made to ascertain sentiment in military circles over the Pétain scheme, it became known that a similar proposal had been made to the War Department in a very formal way recently by a French military officer in a position to speak for the Minister of War. The reasons given by this officer for the desire that American volunteers be sent to France at once were somewhat different from those advanced by General Pétain, according to what was said today. He had frankly admitted, it was explained, that France needed men, and that outside of its very beneficial psychological effect upon the French troops, the presence of American soldiers on the western front would be of the greatest value from a numerical standpoint.

It was this reason that military men quoted today as the real reason for the desire of the French to have American troops on the fighting line. While they were careful not to say anything that might be construed as critical of the position taken by General Pétain, it was evident that the advice he gave to the United States through the unofficial channel of a newspaper was not relished.

The plan of General Pétain in substance was that a large number of American volunteers should be sent to France to be organized "for the moment" with French units and later used as skeleton organizations for the arriving American armies.

"Therefore, as soon as volunteers arrive," said General Pétain, "they should be incorporated according to their arm of the service in the French Army, under the Stars and Stripes, naturally." This, according to General Pétain, would insure intensive training and shortly furnish monitors for the regular army of conscription. In addition to these volunteers, who would become commissioned officers and petty officers of the drafted army when it arrived in France, officers of the American regular and militia forces should be sent to France in great numbers. These would go to the immediate front to take their places with French officers of equal grades, and in the course of time the American Army would be formed on French soil, with Americans trained in France to command its units.

Proposal Emphatically Opposed.

No officer who was seen today would concede that the suggestion of General Pétain had any other meaning or purpose than to have Americans take their places in the French ranks and fight as Frenchmen. The statement that the American volunteers to be sent to France to receive intensive training in advance of the arrival of the American Army would fight under the Stars and Stripes was not consistent, it was held, with the other statements of the French commander.

The whole object of his statement, it was asserted, was to induce this Government to send men to France to fight in the French ranks. The point was made by these critics that if the United States Government sent troops to Europe to fight under any other flag than their own the people of the country would not tolerate it. Particular attention was called to these statements of General Pétain as showing that the plan of training American officers with the French army was subordinate to the desire to have American fighters in the French ranks.

In view of all that was learned of the attitude of military officers here, THE TIMES correspondent has no hesitation in saying that General Pétain's proposal or any proposal looking to the employment of American volunteers in France, will be emphatically opposed by officers of the United States Army, whose advice naturally would be sought by the President and the Secretary of War.

What General Pétain and other distinguished military men of our European allies do not understand, according to the view of the critics of his plan, is that their suggestions for sending American troops to France at once run counter to carefully prepared plans of the General Staff of the United States Army.

The General Staff, they hold, is composed of the pick of the commissioned personnel of the American military establishment and has given long study to the matter of organizing the armed forces of the nation for war. As a result of this study, based largely on the experience of some of the European armies, the General Staff formulated a plan for obtaining an army by selective draft which would be in addition to the regular forces and the National Guard organizations of the several States.

It was the conclusion of the General Staff that any force sent by this country to fight in Europe would be wasted unless it was thoroughly trained and went in sufficient force to be effective against the immense masses of trained troops that Germany would be able to hurl against it. To send a division of 28,000 trained men or other comparatively small unit of the regular army or the National Guard, or to send untrained volunteers, no matter how great their numerical strength would be, in its opinion, merely a useless sacrifice of human life.

What action the President will take with reference to the Roosevelt volunteer question is not disclosed. It is not believed here that he will veto the Draft bill on that account as that would retard the organization of the new army. He will be urged to ignore the volunteer provision, as he is privileged to do under the discretionary authority granted to him, but there is strong opinion in Washington that the President will permit his course to be determined by public opinion which has already manifested itself in Congress and in other ways as emphatically favorable to Colonel Roosevelt's plan.

PRESS WELCOMES PETAIN.

New Commander in Chief's Appointment Widely Praised in Paris.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

PARIS, May 16.—"A character and a will" is the Figaro's summing up of General Pétain, the new Generalissimo, and this sentiment is unanimously shared by both press and public. He is also the leader, as General Cherfils writes in the Echo de Paris, whose surprising military record has been faultless throughout, whose merits have always been superior to the task allotted him.

The public generally expected this nomination. Such a change in the chief command is not without precedent, however, as the same occurred during the siege of Sebastopol, in the Crimean war, when Marshal Canrobert handed over supreme control to Marshal Pelissier, who had been serving under his orders.

The appointment of General Foch, who has always been greatly appreciated in military circles, is also unanimously applauded.

Regarding General Nivelle, the following passage from the Temps sums up accurately the opinion of those whose judgment is not swayed by outward appearances:

"General Nivelle takes over command of a group of armies. The conditions under which he abandons the supreme post can harm neither his authority nor his prestige. He keeps them intact, and the decision taken regarding him cannot diminish the confidence of his subordinates."

speech immediately after the revolution when he proclaimed for a continuation of the Romanoff dynasty he has been looked upon with suspicion by the Republican and Socialist parties.

This was the explanation of the Government crisis in the first week of May. This is equally an explanation why the Executive Committee of the Council of Workmen's and Soldiers' Delegates till now have opposed the formation of a coalition Ministry. It was felt impossible to work hand in hand with Ministers they were unable to trust, and it was feared that if the leaders of the council entered the Government the controlling power of the council would be weakened. It is now realized, however, that the formation of a coalition Government is the sole means of saving the situation. It is no longer admissable that those in whose hands power lies should not share the burden of responsibility.

There is every hope that the leaders of the democracy after joining the ranks of the Government will still more clearly realize that, as Gutchoff said, "Russia is on the brink of ruin," and that the Council of Workmen's and Soldiers' Delegates will in that case be merely an organ of control and become the executive organ of the Government's decisions. The leaders of the Executive Committee have already had occasion to exhibit their capacity for statesmanship, and their inclusion in the Government can only be welcomed.

RUSSIA OUT OF WAR, SAYS ONE OBSERVER

New Democracy at Mercy of Germany Unless Miracle Happens, a Correspondent Asserts.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

PETROGRAD, Tuesday, May 15, (Dispatch to The London Morning Post.)—The lukewarm appeal of the Council of Workmen's and Soldiers' Delegates to the soldiers, which amounts to little more than an elementary exposition of the truth that the soldiers should defend their country, but which issues no definite orders on that subject, is again practically canceled by a long address to "the Socialists of all lands." The opening words of this manifesto to all nations are striking and might well have been written amid a flood of crocodile tears by any German General. It says:

"This war is no more than the monstrous crime of the imperialists of all countries who by their greed for aggrandizement and their rabid frenzy for armaments prepared the way and made inevitable this worldwide conflagration. Whatever may be the vicissitudes of the fortunes of war, these imperialists in all countries stand to lose. The Russian revolution of labor workmen and soldiers is a revolt not only against Czarism, but also against the horrors of the worldwide slaughterhouse. It is the first cry of insurrection by one section of the international army of labor against the crimes of international imperialism. It is not merely national, but international revolution, and it will put an end to the disgrace of war and give back to mankind the blessings of peace. The Russian revolution from the first moment of its inception fully recognized it had before it a problem which is international."

The rest of the manifesto follows naturally upon this opening. If all nations engaged in the war insist upon their Governments definitely adopting a platform of "peace without annexations and contributions and on the principle of the self-definition of peoples," the war will cease without the revolutionary Russians being called upon to fight at all.

The group of anarchists who last week seized Prince Leuchtenburgh's palace have been persuaded to evacuate it, but an investigation of the premises by the legal authorities of the new régime have shown that gold and silver objects of art to the value of £250,000 have disappeared, to say nothing of the irreparable injury to the contents of the palace.

The resignations of Generals Brusiloff and Gurko have not yet been accepted, and these officers at the present moment still continue in their commands. The position of the supreme Commander in Chief, General Alexeieff, is very far from stable under the present circumstances.

In dealing with current events in Russia it is very necessary to distinguish between Russia's home interests and Russia's share in international interests, which are at present focused upon one sole point, namely, the war.

In regard to Russia's share in international interests arising out of this unfinished war, no two opinions are held anywhere. Unless a miracle happens, Russia is out of this war and Germany has a free hand in France, leaving Russia to be dealt with at leisure and with ease when it suits the enemy best.

State Council of Defense Named.

ALBANY, N. Y., May 16.—The State Council of Defense will be composed of the following, according to announcement tonight: Governor Whitman, General W. W. Wotherspoon, Superintendent of Public Works; Charles S. Wilson, Commissioner of Agriculture; Frank M. Williams, State Engineer, and Robert M. Bacon, Jr., Chief of the financial division of the Mobilization Bureau. The council is to investigate and report on transportation facilities and military resources of the State.

ALL BULGARS WANT PEACE, SAKAROFF SAYS

COPENHAGEN, (via London,) May 16.—Bulgarian Socialists who passed through Copenhagen on their way to the Stockholm conference described the demand for peace in Bulgaria as virtually universal. The people, they said, were weary of the almost continuous warfare since 1912 and anxious for a return to peaceful pursuits. They hailed joyfully every sign of a weakening in the war fever.

Dr. Sakaroff, spokesman for the delegation, said a majority of the Bulgarians went willingly into the first war against Turkey in 1912, into the second war in 1913 against Serbia and Greece unwillingly, and were fairly dragged into the present world war. Bulgaria's debt, he added, had increased nearly three-fold.

Dr. Sakaroff was unwilling to give figures concerning the casualties in the war, but said Bulgaria's losses had been frightful. Many of the Socialist Party's best men had fallen, he said.

FOR A SUFFRAGE COMMITTEE.

President Says Creation of House Board Would Be a Wise Act.

WASHINGTON, May 16.—President Wilson has written a letter to Representative Pou of the House Rules Committee, suggesting that the creation of a special House committee on Woman suffrage might be a wise act of public policy. The President said he had no desire to interfere with such matters, but pointed out that he had been told that an approval by him of the idea might result in the creation of such a committee. In his letter he did not deal with the merits of the woman suffrage question.

The Senate already has such a committee.

Seizes Beans, Peas, and Pulse.

LONDON, May 16.—The Food Controller, Lord Devonport, has decided to control the importation of all beans, peas, and pulse. He has issued an order taking over from consignees all such stocks not yet sold. This is an extension of the order of May 1 relating to Burmah peas and beans.

PREMIER PROPOSES HOME RULE BILL

Suggests a Conference on New Bill.

Thirdly, the letter says that the financial proposals of the Home Rule bill are unsatisfactory and should be reconsidered. Important objects, such as the development of Irish industries, improvement in town housing, and the furtherance of education, with increased pay for teachers, owing to the war conditions, it declares, cannot be dealt with under the bill without undue burden on the Irish taxpayers. It continues:

"Fourthly, the Government would recommend that after the second reading of the bill embodying the above proposals, together with the Home Rule act, it should forthwith be considered by a conference to be constituted on the lines of the Speaker's Conference on Electoral Reform, though not consisting exclusively of members of Parliament, and meeting under the Chairmanship of some one commanding the same general confidence in his impartiality and judgment as Mr. Speaker himself.

"The Government feel that a proposal which provides for immediate Home Rule for the greater part of Ireland, while excluding that part of Ireland which objects to coming under the Home Rule act for a definite period, when Parliament will consider the matter afresh; which recognizes the profound sentiment existing in Ireland for the unity of the country by creating a common council to consider Irish affairs as a whole, and which, finally, sets up a representative conference to attempt to adjust the most difficult questions involved, is as far as they can possibly go toward effecting a legislative settlement in the crisis of a great war. They are prepared to introduce a bill on these lines.

"But they feel it would be idle, and I am sure you will agree with them, to introduce such a bill unless it were assured of something like a second-reading acceptance from both Irish parties. I sincerely hope that if the Government introduce this bill the party of which you are the head will give this measure of support to the proposals, which will give immediate self-government in Ireland to those who wish for it and will at the same time create and keep continuously in being the means whereby a final reconciliation between the two sections of the Irish people can at any time be brought about.

Alternative Plan in Reserve.

"We earnestly recommend the proposals which I have outlined above to the dispassionate consideration of the men of all parties. If, upon such consideration, a basis for immediate action is found in them, we shall proceed at once with the necessary steps to carry them into effect. If this should not be the case, there remains an alternative plan, which, though it has been sometimes seriously discussed, has never been authoritatively proposed—that of assembling a convention of Irishmen of all parties for the purpose of producing a scheme of Irish self-government.

"As you will remember, the Constitution of the Union of South Africa was framed, despite most formidable difficulties and obstacles, by a convention representative of all the interests and parties in the country, and the Government believe that a similar expedient might in the last resort be found effectual in Ireland. Would it be too much to hope that Irishmen of all creeds and parties might meet together in convention for the purpose of drafting a Constitution for their country which would secure a just balance of all the opposing interests and finally compose the unhappy discords which have so long distracted Ireland and impeded its harmonious development?

"The Government are ready, in default of the adoption of the present proposals for Home Rule, to take the necessary steps for assembling such a convention. I should be much obliged if you found it possible to give me your views on this letter in order to allow the Government to consider the matter before Monday."

Think Unionists Get Best of It.

While neither Nationalists nor Unionists were willing to discuss the Home Rule proposal, gossip in the Parliamentary lobbies indicated that Lloyd George's plan would find a more favorable reception with the Unionists than with the Nationalists. The morning papers have little comment, most of them professing a desire to withhold criticism until Irishmen of both parties have had an opportunity to express themselves.

The Unionist papers intimate a belief that the Premier's scheme ought to result in a settlement, while the Liberal organs, without condemning the proposals, point out that in some respects they favor the Unionists and are consequently unlikely to be relished by the Nationalists.

The Daily News, a stanch home ruler, alone indulges in prophecy, and fears that the scheme is foredoomed to failure owing to the exclusion of the six counties.

The six counties which are to be excluded from the Home Rule area under the plan offered by Lloyd George are presumably Antrim, Cavan, Donegal, Down, Londonderry, and Monaghan. There are three other counties—Armagh, Fermanagh, and Tyrone.

SENATE ATTACKS ADMINISTRATION

thing" was made by another Senator. It had seemed to be a hit-and-miss policy everywhere, said this Senator.

Another Senator wanted to know where the Administration got its idea that Mr. Hoover was the only man on earth capable of handling the food problem. Mr. Hoover was characterized as a man who had done the work of a commissariat for Belgium, and had done it well, but who was not the lone food expert on earth.

The Doors Opened.

When a number of Senators had voiced their opinions of the Administration so there was nothing much left unsaid, the doors were opened. The particular feature of the Appropriation bill under discussion then provided $500,000 "for expenses of experimental work and investigations" for the Council of National Defense, and the appointment of a director for the Council and a clerical force.

Hardly had the bill been called up when Senator Lodge arose and explained that he was one of those who wanted to return to open session, because there was something he wanted to say.

Looking around the Senate Chamber, he said:

"What I desired to say was of a general character. I have been watching, Mr. President, the demands on the newspapers for prompt action on the part of Congress, and I have observed the frequency with which we have been called slackers and that it has been impressed on the public mind that we were doing nothing here.

"It is just six weeks today, I believe, since war was declared. I think my case does not differ from that of any other Senator here. I have never worked so hard or so much as I have since that declaration of war, and that, I think, is true of every one in both branches.

"It is said that we have done nothing. The declaration of war was on April 4. Since that time we began by passing four great appropriation bills, which came over from the last Congress. We passed a great loan bill carrying $5,000,000,000 in bonds and $2,000,000,000 in Treasury notes. We have passed through both houses a bill for selective conscription. It is in its very last stage of conference at this moment. It will be a law in a day or two.

"England and Canada have been discussing conscription under the pressure of war for nearly three years. Neither of them has passed conscription yet. We have done it in both houses inside of a fortnight. Is it to be supposed that a complete revolution, not only in the traditions of the country but in the traditions of our race, of the life of the people who speak the English language would require deliberation? It is something on which there was a great natural division of opinion, and it was right to discuss it.

Praises Congress's Record.

"Our whole record shows unusual and extraordinary work on the part of Congress. There seems to be an idea abroad that the sole business of Congress is to take a bill which is sent down from some bureau, which has been drafted perhaps by some excellent gentleman who emerged upon the public gaze within a few weeks, and that our business is to sit here and have it read and to pass it in a morning. We are not here to take all legislation and not look at it.

"Under the pressure of war we are having demands made upon us for power to be invested nominally in the President, but really in Cabinet officers and the heads of departments, heads of bureaus, and commissions, creatures of the moment, in the last few months which equal the powers exercised by the great autocracy of Germany. Those things ought to be carefully considered.

"We shall not expedite the war of destroying the legislative powers of this Government. We are in danger under the great haste of losing the confidence of the country. Not only in Congress, but in both the Administration and Congress. The most important things for carrying on the war is to keep the industries of the country in the field and farm and factory in the highest state of productivity possible. An atmosphere of uncertainty has been created by this demand for powers to interfere with every form of human activity to be placed in the hands of men of whom the country knows absolutely nothing.

"We all want the bill passed as rapidly as possible, but Congress is not going to be stampeded into passing bills of vast moment, not merely from the money point of view, but in the consequential point of view, by demands for power because somebody who has control of a bureau or a commission and thinks that unless he has unlimited power the country is in danger."

Asks What Navy Is Doing.

Senator Poindexter wanted to know how many German submarines had been sunk by American war craft since this country got into the war.

"What are we doing with our navy?" he demanded. "Nobody thinks the war can be won in a day, but every one expects this nation to start showing results. So far as I can see, since the President declared war submarine activity has grown. We've read from day to day what the United States is going to do, and we are always going to do it; always something in the future.

"Out in my country we've got shipbuilders ready and we've got the material to build the ships. But the Shipping Board has not let one contract for ships. Up to a few days ago they didn't even know what character of ship they wanted."

Senator Fall of New Mexico wanted to protest as hard as he could, he said, against the Senate being used as a rubber stamp for the War Department or any part of the Administration.

"If we can't get information we want here let's send a Senate committee to Europe and get it in that way," he said. "We've been shut off from any information the French and British commissions may have given to the Government. The Administration appears to want to hug everything to itself."

Senator Shaffroth of Colorado came to the defense of the Administration, saying it was unfair to criticise when Senators did not know what had actually been done. Senator Poindexter retorted with:

"Congress has to act on facts. You can't run a war with merely a debating society. If we haven't facts about what the Administration wants to do we can do nothing but talk."

Senator Underwood, to enlighten Senator Poindexter, read from an afternoon newspaper a statement that American destroyers were now fighting U-boats.

"That's the first I've heard of anything we've done on sea, or anywhere else," rejoined Mr. Poindexter.

At the end of the debate an amendment was adopted providing that in the expenditure of any moneys by the Council of National Defense, "the existence of a state of war shall not be construed as enlarging the powers or duties of the council," but that they remain as defined by the act creating the council.

WILSON WRITES TO AD. MEN.

Asks Them to Steady Business and Work for National Unity.

It was announced yesterday that President Wilson had sent the following letter to Herbert S. Houston, President of the Associated Advertising Clubs of the World, to be read at their annual convention in St. Louis, June 3 to 7:

"May I not congratulate the Associated Advertising Clubs upon their purpose to assist in mobilizing the best thought and promoting greater activity in all lines of business in these times of stress and exigency?

"It would be of the greatest benefit if the convention could be employed to steady business and clear the air of doubts and misgivings in order to make for greater unity of purpose in the great war for democracy and civilization.

MISS RANKIN COULDN'T VOTE

Montana Representative Strikes First Parliamentary Snag in House.

WASHINGTON, May 16.—Representative Jeanette Rankin, Congresswoman from Montana, struck her first parliamentary snag today in the House. She was standing in front of the Speaker's desk with other members who had not answered the roll call on the motion to recommit the Army bill, when she attempted to cast her vote.

"Were you in the hall and listening when your name was called?" asked Speaker Clark.

"No," replied Miss Rankin.

"Then you cannot vote," said the Speaker.

Miss Rankin retired to her seat.

The Speaker's decision was in accordance with the rules of the House.

BLAKE'S HOSPITAL IS OPEN.

First Wounded Received at Paris American Red Cross Institution.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

PARIS, May 16.—The first wounded, numbering 100, arrived at Dr. Blake's hospital, officially known as the American Red Cross Hospital of France, today. Cardinal Amette, Archbishop of Paris, visited the institution in the afternoon and went through the ward with Mrs. Blake. He stopped at each bedside and talked with the patients. The Cardinal was much pleased with the installation of the beautiful chapel, where mass will be said regularly.

The work of rearranging the building is going on rapidly. It will soon be filled to its capacity of 400 beds. The hospital will be formally opened next week by Justin Godard, Secretary of State for the Sanitary Service.

CAMBRIDGE DEGREE TO PAGE

LONDON, May 16.—Cambridge University today conferred the degree of LL.D. on Walter H. Page, the American Ambassador, and General Jan Christian Smuts, the South African commander. Laudatory addresses in Latin were made in conferring the degrees, and the recipients, who were cheered loudly, broke precedent by making speeches of acknowledgement.

The American Ambassador said:

"In these troublesome times it becomes everyone to dedicate himself in a struggle which is not yet ended, remembering that all we value is at stake."

DENMARK TO SEND AGENTS.

Two Commercial Advisers to be Stationed at Washington.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

COPENHAGEN, May 16.—Plans for the establishment of a special Danish office in Washington to take charge of Danish import interests have now been relinquished. Instead, special commercial advisers will be attached to the Danish Legation at Washington.

The men appointed to the new posts are the present Consul General at London, Mr. Boeggild, and the Secretary of the Export Department in the Ministry of Justice, Mr. Boerg.

OFFERS ROOSEVELT A GENERAL'S RANK

Constitution gave him authority to appoint, without confirmation by the State, a Major General of the State Militia at any time during a war emergency when the Legislature was not in session.

The Governor was careful to emphasize the fact that if Mr. Roosevelt received a commission as Major General it would not be in the National Guard but in the State Militia, which is authorized by both the Federal and the State Constitution. The State Constitution provides that the membership of militia shall consist of "all able-bodied men between the ages of 18 and 45 who are residents of the State." It was assumed here that this section could be construed to permit the enlistment of residents of other States who came to New York for the express purpose of serving under the former President, and who for that purpose declared themselves residents of New York.

"I think," said the Governor, "that the offer of a commission as Major General is the very least that New York could make to a man who formerly, as Governor, was commander in chief of the State's military organization, who, as President, commanded the land and naval forces of the country, and who, besides, is a real soldier."

The Colonel paid a high tribute to the preparedness work performed by New York State. "I doubt if the citizens of the State really know how much has been done along this line in their own commonwealth," he said. "This great achievement under Governor Whitman is a notable thing and it should be a matter of pride to every New Yorker to see how much has been done so quickly."

MALONE BLAMES COLONEL.

"Ambitions" Held Up Army Bill, He Says at Flag Raising.

Business at the Custom House came almost to a standstill for an hour yesterday afternoon, when an American flag 20 by 30 feet was unfurled in the rotunda. The flag was broken out to the strains of "The Star-Spangled Banner," and speeches were made by Collector Dudley Field Malone, Colonel Henry L. Swords, a civil war veteran and Special Deputy Collector, and by John K. Sague, Appraiser of the Port.

Collector Malone referred to the delay in Congress in enacting the Army bill, and criticised Colonel Roosevelt in that connection.

"People are asking," he said, "'Why the delay?' Some of the delay has been caused in the last few weeks by the ambitions of one man. I am willing to have Mr. Roosevelt go when it is decided to have him do so. We should not discourage volunteers above conscription age, but we should remember we have a Commander in Chief upon whose shoulders responsibility for the successful prosecution of the war rests. Men in this room may yet be lying dead in French trenches. It is no time for illusion."

To Aid French Aumbulance Fund.

To celebrate the departure of fourteen students of Williams College who will enter the Ambulance Service in France and to obtain money for the purchase of ambulances, an entertainment will be given at the Hotel Plaza on Friday afternoon. Moving pictures of British "tanks" in action will be shown and Emery Pattie of the American Service in France will tell of the work of the Ambulance Corps.

A Real Chance to make some money

A company owning a new mechanical device which has recently been installed by 200 of our 10,000 probable users, is already breaking even financially. Each additional sale will add to its income and mean growing profits from now on. More than half of those to whom it has been shown have purchased on sight. They are enthusiastic in praising it, now that they are using it, and others in the same line of business are beginning to ask to have a salesman call.

The $25,000 already invested has carried the business beyond the speculative stage. The company can use about $10,000 more, and there is every indication that it will return an unusual profit. The machine on which the business is based is doing in its field what the phonograph and similar duplicating machines have done in theirs. The company will accept the $10,000 in amounts from $500 up, and will give in return a liberal share of its preferred and common stock. Every cent received goes into the business. There are no commissions or promoter's profit. Even this advertisement is paid for by an interested individual.

This is a genuine opportunity to invest in a business which will soon be favorably known all over the country. It is managed by experienced, capable, clean-cut men. If interested, write for detailed information. Address Manager, P. O. Box 63, New York.

22,000 CREDIT MEN TO AID BIG LOAN

BIG SUBSCRIPTIONS MADE

Westinghouse Concern Takes $2,500,000 and Pullman Company $1,500,000.

HOW NATION IS RESPONDING

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, May 16.—The credit concerns of the country today, through J. H. Trego, Secretary and Treasurer of the National Association of Credit Men, placed their forces and organization at the command of the Government to aid in placing the Liberty Loan of $2,000,000,000. There are 22,000 members of the association, and it has branches in every State. Its agents are in touch with over a million business men and merchants.

The Underwood Typewriter Company today subscribed for $200,000 of the war bonds. No estimate is being made from day to day of the amount of actual subscriptions to the loan. Secretary McAdoo said that he had no idea of the total amount thus far subscribed, but knew it was large. The first issue of $2,000,000,000 is subject to the conversion of the entire volume of outstanding Treasury certificates from which funds have been derived to make advances to the various allied Governments. The total amount of these certificates today was $518,200,000. The volume of subscriptions when the last announcement was made by the Loan Publicity Bureau was $750,000,000.

After a hard day's work Secretary McAdoo started this evening on his tour of the Western States to make public appeals in the interest of the loan. He said just before leaving that he had high hopes of success, and felt confident that there would be a tremendous response to the appeals. Mr. McAdoo will speak in Chicago, Milwaukee, St. Paul, Des Moines, Lincoln, Denver, St. Joseph, Omaha, Kansas City, St. Louis, Louisville, Indianapolis, and Detroit.

BANKER PREDICTS PLENTY OF CREDITS

President Alexander Reassures Business Men — Big Loan Will Not Restrict General Activities.

Positive assurances that the banks of the country, while facilitating in every way possible the purchase of Liberty Loan bonds, would avoid curtailing banking credits required for business purposes, were given yesterday by James S. Alexander, President of the National Bank of Commerce, and member of the General Liberty Loan Committee of the New York Federal Reserve District. Mr. Alexander had just returned from Washington, where he discussed banking conditions with Secretary of the Treasury McAdoo. He placed particular stress upon the fact that the resources of the banks, supplemented by the enormous and yet almost untouched resources of the Federal Reserve institutions, would be more than sufficient for all business demands and for the purposes of the Liberty Loan. Business, he said, must be fostered and continued on a profitable basis, irrespective of the Liberty Loan, and the banks would do their duty.

Salesmen employed by banks, trust companies, and investment houses continued yesterday a canvass of their customers, and it was reported that indications pointed to a very satisfactory response. Some investors, it was said, were delaying in filing their subscriptions, with the view of saving interest on 2 per cent. of the subscription which must accompany applications. Among the large subscriptions announced yesterday were: $2,500,000 by the Westinghouse Electric and Manufacturing Company, placed through Kuhn, Loeb & Co.; $1,500,000 by the Pullman Company of Chicago, $1,020,000 by the Continental, Fidelity-Phoenix, and American Eagle Fire Insurance Companies, and $50,000 by the First Mortgage Guarantee Company of Long Island City.

Of the $2,500,000 subscribed by the Westinghouse Company, one-half will be applied for in New York and one-half in Pittsburgh. The company has also made arrangements to enable its 30,000 employes to purchase Liberty bonds.

Frank A. Vanderlip, President of the National City Bank, yesterday began a tour of the State in behalf of the Liberty Loan. He spoke last night before a gathering of bankers in Albany. Today he will make addresses in Utica and Rochester, and tomorrow in Buffalo and Syracuse. On Saturday he will speak in Binghamton and Elmira.

Thomas W. Lamont of J. P. Morgan & Co. will speak tonight before the New Jersey Savings Banks Association, and J. Howard Ardrey, Vice President of the National Bank of Commerce, will address a meeting of the Silk Travelers' Association at the Aldine Hotel tomorrow.

Mr. Alexander, in his statement yesterday, said that in facilitating the purchase of Liberty Loan bonds, banking credits would be made freely available, and should be used freely.

"It is a fact that the resources of the banks, supplemented by the enormous and as yet almost untouched resources of the Federal Reserve Banks, will be more than sufficient for all business demands and for the purposes of the Liberty Loan. It is not improbable that the banks will be seeking commercial paper, now the most desirable because the most liquid character of investment, in aggregate amounts in excess of the supply. There is no reason for business interests to fear that their activities may be curtailed by a lack of banking credit.

"The banks may also buy reasonable amounts of Liberty Loan bonds for their own investment, and should, and doubtless will, lend freely to facilitate the purchase of United States Liberty Loan bonds by others, who should be encouraged to borrow for that purpose and thereby do their share in the great work of supplying the Government with the funds it must have if the war is to be successfully prosecuted."

A. L. Erlanger, theatrical manager and Director of the Managers' Protective Association, yesterday was appointed Chairman of a committee which is to enlist all branches of the theatrical business to further the success of the Liberty Loan. Director of Publicity Woolley conferred yesterday with representatives of the National Association of Motion Picture Industry, of which William A. Brady of the World Film Corporation is President. The motion picture men promised to work out a plan for presenting the Liberty Loan before millions of persons who patronize their houses.

Where to Buy Bonds—Apply at any bank, brokerage house, or the Federal Reserve Bank.

Robert S. Lovett, Chairman of the Union Pacific System, issued a letter yesterday to all officers, agents, and employes regarding the Liberty Loan. In order to enable every employe to participate in the purchase of the bonds, the company will, upon request, make subscription to an amount of bonds not exceeding 25 per cent. of the employe's yearly salary, and will advance the whole subscription price, charging interest thereon at the rate of 3½ per cent. per annum (that being the same rate borne by the bonds,) and hold the bonds as security for its reimbursement.

Commissioner Woods issued a statement yesterday suggesting that every member of the police force should buy a Liberty Loan bond. Commanding officers have been instructed to read the Commissioner's statement at the next three roll calls.

RESPONSES TO THE LOAN.

Heavy Subscriptions in Philadelphia—St. Paul Takes $1,500,000.

Special to The New York Times.

PHILADELPHIA, May 16.—Beyond the statement that subscriptions for the Liberty Loan had surpassed predictions made last week when it was said that Philadelphia subscriptions would reach $200,000,000, bankers showed little disposition today to make public the total amount placed. It is known, however, that a number of the large banks have received subscriptions running from $1,000,000 to $2,000,000 each.

Special to The New York Times.

ST. PAUL, Minn., May 16.—The First National Bank and the Northwestern Trust Company today subscribed for $1,500,000 of the Liberty Loan, according to a statement by E. H. Bailey, President of the First National Bank. It is the largest subscription thus far made in the Northwest. L. W. Hill, Chairman of the board, said that the subscription might be increased.

Special to The New York Times.

CHICAGO, May 16.—It was not possible today to estimate the total of subscriptions to the Liberty Loan in this district. Many of the subscriptions from Chicago went to Washington direct and have not yet been compiled. In a general way it is understood that subscriptions are coming in very well.

Special to The New York Times.

CINCINNATI, May 16.—Cincinnati has subscribed about $5,000,000 to the Liberty Loan, it is estimated by local bankers. As the books are open until June 15, subscriptions for many times that amount are expected.

Special to The New York Times.

MILWAUKEE, May 16.—Milwaukee will take about $4,000,000 of the Liberty Loan. First National Bank subscriptions amount to $750,000. A few outlying banks have failed to become identified with the war movement, fearing pro-German feeling. Others say that they have no fear of German customers. Secretary McAdoo's speech here is expected to stimulate the sale of the bonds.

Special to The New York Times.

ST. LOUIS, May 16.—A movement has been started here whose object is "a Liberty Bond in every home." Rolla Wells, Governor of the Federal Reserve Bank of St. Louis, today said that no actual figures were obtainable regarding the subscriptions thus far received for the loan. He was confident, he said, that the full $25,000,000 of subscriptions pledged by the Federal Reserve Bank of St. Louis would be taken by St. Louisans by June 15.

$100,000,000 LOAN MADE TO RUSSIA

Money to be Used as Needed to Meet Obligations Contracted in This Country.

ROOT MISSION TO HURRY

Will Make Fastest Possible Time to Petrograd in Effort to Frustrate German Intrigues.

WASHINGTON, May 16.—The Government today made its first loan to Russia, $100,000,000, bringing the amount thus far advanced to the Allies up to $625,000,000.

The money was made available for Russia's purchases of supplies in this country, and was deposited to her credit in the Federal Reserve Banks. By that arrangement she will be enabled to draw against the amount as money is needed to meet obligations here.

The loan marks the formal entry of Russia as a participant in the $3,000,000,000 credit to be placed at the disposal of the Allies. Secretary McAdoo had announced recently that he would place the sum "wherever it would be effective" in the war against Germany. While Russia's request for a loan had been before Treasury officials for some time, there was little indication that one would be granted so soon.

"In issuing this credit to your Government," Secretary McAdoo told Chargé d'Affaires Onou of the Russian Embassy, "it gives me the greatest pleasure to think that we may be extending to you at this time a service which we hope will be of great value to both of us. I need not enlarge upon the fact that we extend it to you as additional evidence of the strong friendship which has already existed so long between the American and the Russian people. We earnestly hope that the resources we place at your disposal today will contribute to the establishment of democracy and freedom throughout the world."

Chargé Onou on behalf of his Government thanked Mr. McAdoo for his expressions of friendship, and said that the loan was regarded as an additional earnest of the long-existing friendship between the two countries.

The money was loaned, to be spent as needed, without stipulation or understanding of any sort further than that Russia stands back of the obligation, will make it good and will spend the money in this country under the supervision of a representative of the Treasury Department or a commission to be named by the American Government.

The latter stipulation was made in a spirit of co-operation, without intending to embarrass the Russian Government or to curtail its purchasing powers, but with the end in view that Russia will obtain the maximum result for the money she is to spend. To aid in this the Treasury Department will place at her disposal the services of expert buyers in this country familiar with American markets and with American values.

With the sum already advanced to the Allies having reached the $625,000,000 mark, including $50,000,000 advanced to Great Britain yesterday, and with further loans to Great Britain, France, and Italy in prospect during the next few weeks, besides a $75,000,000 loan to Belgium, indications are that the total to be advanced will be approximately $1,000,000,000, or one-third of the entire amount to be loaned to the Allies, before the first proceeds of the Liberty Loan are available.

To controvert German intrigue, which seeks to convince the Russian people that the American Commission, headed by Elihu Root, intends to lend its influence to one or another of the factions there, it was reiterated officially today that the commission had no purpose whatever of interfering in the internal affairs of Russia and had only two objects. They are to convey to the Russian people the gratification of the United States at the transformation of the ancient despotism into a republican form of government, and to render any helpful service it can to aid the new Government rising from the ruins of the old empire. The commission has no purpose to sway the judgment of the Russian people as to which faction shall control in the organization of a permanent government.

This statement, made today upon the highest authority, is for the express purpose of meeting sinister misrepresentations by Germany in Russia.

$45,000,000 LOAN MADE TO BELGIUM

Sum to be Withdrawn in Six Monthly Installments—$670,000,000 to Allies in Three Weeks.

WASHINGTON, May 16.—A credit of $45,000,000 to Belgium was established today by Secretary McAdoo, the sum to be withdrawn in six monthly installments of $7,500,000 each. The transaction marked Belgium's first participation in the loan to the Allies, and brought the total of sums advanced and credits established by the Government to Entente nations up to $670,000,000 within the three weeks that have passed since President Wilson signed the war finance law. The total of credits and loans as distributed follows:

Great Britain, $325,000,000; France, $100,000,000; Italy, $100,000,000; Russia, $100,000,000, and Belgium, $45,000,000. Indications are that the total will reach at least $1,000,000,000 before a dollar of the $2,000,000,000 Liberty Bond Loan issue is available.

In extending the credit to Belgium Secretary McAdoo made a brief address to the Belgian Minister, in which he said:

"I wish, on behalf of the American people, to assure you that it gives me a peculiar pleasure to render a service of this character, which we hope will be helpful to your country and largely mitigate, if not entirely eliminate, the sufferings of your people. We sincerely trust that it may be helpful in enabling you to restore Belgian independence. I can assure you that the American people are just as deeply concerned in this as are the people of Belgium."

Minister de Cartier, visibly affected, arose and extended his hand. In a voice that Mr. McAdoo himself could hardly have heard the Minister said:

"I cannot express how deeply moved I am by your kind words."

He hesitated for some time, at a loss to continue. Finally, his hand still grasping the Secretary's, he whispered:

"I speak for every Belgian heart when I say I thank you as well as I know how."

RUSSIAN BONDS UP ON LOAN.

Stocks Also Advance on Evidence of Washington's Confidence.

Announcement of America's loan of $100,000,000 to Russia caused a sensational advance in the price of Russian Government bonds traded in on the Curb. Stocks also were helped by this apparent evidence of the Government's confidence that the Russian situation was mending.

The 6½ per cent. Russian bonds, which closed Tuesday at 79¾, advanced to 90, and closed at 85. The 5½ per cent. bonds, which the previous day sold down to 75, moved up to 83½, and the final quotation was 81. The 6½s sold as high as 94 in the week of the Russian revolution and at 92 at the beginning of May.

AMERICA TELLS REBELS OF CUBA TO QUIT

Warns Them That It May Be Compelled to Regard Them as Enemies.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

HAVANA, May 16.—The American Government today told the Cuban rebels who are still opposing the Menocal Government, that if they continued in their attitude the United States might find it necessary to regard them as enemies and proceed accordingly. This proclamation was delivered to President Menocal by the American Minister, William Gonzales, and telegraphed to all American Consulates in Cuba. The proclamation of the American Government says:

"The declaration of war against the Imperial German Government by the Government of Cuba, marking the entrance of Cuba side by side with the United States of America in the conflict which is now being waged for the highest rights of humanity and in defense of principles of international law, has been received by the United States with feelings of deep appreciation and friendly pride.

"Now that the Cuban and American people are even more closely bound together by lasting ties of common interest, the Government of the United States feels that it is incumbent upon it again to reiterate its many published statements concerning its attitude toward those Cubans who are under arms against the constitutional Government, and to add in emphatic terms that it considers that the time has now arrived when all internal political questions must be set aside in the face of the grave international danger.

"In calling this to the attention of the people of Cuba it is felt necessary to state that, in the present war, in order to insure victory, Cuba as well as the United States has two great obligations, one military and the other economic. Therefore, as the allied powers and the United States must depend to a great extent upon the sugar production of Cuba, all disturbances which interfere with this production must be considered as hostile acts, and the United States Government is forced to issue this warning, that unless all those under arms against the Government of Cuba return immediately to their allegiance it may become necessary for the United States to regard them as enemies and to deal with them accordingly."

BATTLE TO DEATH RAGES AT ROEUX

British, Forced Back for a Time, Retake All Positions in Desperate Fighting.

GROUND HEAPED WITH DEAD

Germans Also Launch Attack Against French Lines, but Are Finally Beaten Off.

BULLECOURT IS REGAINED

Small British Parties Which Held Against All Attacks Now Relieved.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

WAR CORRESPONDENTS' HEADQUARTERS, May 16.—The enemy is still making violent efforts to gain back Roeux and the part which he recently lost of Bullecourt, two places where for four weeks men fought on both sides in a daily struggle so deadly that the ground thereabout is heaped with bodies. Every day for those four weeks a great number of guns concentrated their fire on those two villages, far apart from each other, but threatening the enemy's present line of defense with equal menace. Some days they have been shells from British guns, sometimes they have been German guns, hurling high explosives hour after hour over the tunnels and dugouts from which the Germans have been driven and where the British stay in small groups with machine guns and rifle grenades, ready to check the next German counterattack or die in holding their posts.

Yesterday, as I wrote, all Roeux was in British hands—the chemical works beyond the station, where many prisoners were taken; the château, with its great dugouts and machine-gun emplacements; the cemetery from which a great tunnel runs westward to Mount Pleasant Wood, and the village of Roeux itself. The British established machine-gun posts in the edge of the old German emplacements, dug defensive trenches, and cleaned out the dugouts in which dead Germans lay.

Huge Piles of Dead.

There can hardly have been a patch of ground between the shell craters and the rubbish heap of the houses and barns on which there was not a German corpse. Here lie some of those Silesians destroyed in the counterattack which came from Plouvain on May 5, and many Bavarians, bayoneted by Scottish troops who fought clean through the chemical works and beyond before the end of April, and Prussian soldiers of the 362d Regiment, who were killed a night or two ago. Among them lie men of the British army, with tartans which show they were those Scots who held out here in isolated posts when 2,000 Germans hurled themselves against Roeux two weeks ago and for a time recaptured it, and boys of the south country of England, who assaulted this ground, and Irishmen who, in a thin line, formed a defensive flank on the night of May 12, wondering what would happen to them if the enemy attacked in heavy numbers before they were supported.

Some day, when the nightmare of this war has passed and the enemy has gone back to his own place, some of the men now fighting will come to Roeux as to a sepulchre where the dust of heroes lies; for all this place is a graveyard, although no dead lie quiet there yet. Living men are fighting there again amid all that mortality.

After the terrible shell-fire last night the enemy again attacked this morning in dense numbers. It seems his high command will not leave Roeux in British hands, although to retake it and lose it again they sacrificed numbers of gallant men. Today's fighting here began this story of blood all over again; it piled new dead on the old dead; it refilled the cup of agony which has overflowed around these heaps of brickwork and tattered timbers.

The German soldiers came up in waves, and some of them penetrated British advanced posts and barricades, in spite of the machine gunners who raked them as they came. There was desperate fighting with bayonet and bomb at close quarters, without mercy on either side. The British counterattacked, thrust the enemy back, and gained more ground than they held before. Roeux is British again, I believe all of it, and once more the enemy staff officers at Plouvain or further back had to report a disastrous failure.

The British fought fiercely and grimly to hold their ground, and served their machine guns although there was only one man left out of a team, and after the Germans broke through, rallied counterattacks which swept back that advancing mob of men.

Fierce Battle at Bullecourt.

So it happened at Roeux, and down at Bullecourt, that flaming hell, it has been the same. I have told already how a nest of Germans remained in the southwest corner of the village last Sunday morning when the English and Scots had worked up to the upper end, meeting the Australians there, where they caught 150 prisoners. Since then, after twelve counterattacks against the Australians alone, the enemy has made several thrusts at and into the village, breaking each time against British machine-gun and rifle fire. His attempt has been to link up with those men of his who still held out as a fighting force in the lower part of the village. In this effort he nearly succeeded by attacks last night and this morning, and some British posts in the village were destroyed, the men having to fall back for a time to the line of an old street where the houses are no longer standing.

Running north and south through Bullecourt it seems there are tunnels in which part of the German garrison is holding out, running up to ground from which they can be fed and supported. Otherwise they would have been forced to surrender days ago. Behind bits of wall, fallen roofs, barricades of brick, sandbags and timber—not yet blown off the face of the earth because Bullecourt has never been bombarded to dust and ashes, as for weeks past little groups of British soldiers have been inside the village—these men of the German garrison lie hidden, sniping with rifles, flinging over hand grenades, and sweeping the ground before them by a constant stream of machine-gun bullets. When the British heavies get on to them they take to tunnels, but when the men work forward they come up—thirty seconds is their practice time to get a machine gun up and ready from the pit below—and surround themselves with a zone fire.

This morning's counterattack seemed to be in unusual strength. It followed a great fire in the British part of the wreckage which once was a village and is now a ghastly battlefield with dead men lying on muck heaps and piled in deep shell holes, and flung over the chaos of old timbers and tiles. The British fought as they had been fighting at Roeux, holding every little post in the nest of shell craters or behind that fragment of wall until rescue came from the troops behind, and fighting themselves with bayonets or bombs upon the enemy's gun teams placed behind another bit of wall or emerging from some hole in a tunnel or cottage cellar. In the shallow trenches dug across the floor of a garden or orchard men fought each other as wild beasts fight in their lairs. They bombed each other over fallen timbers of barn roofs and sprang at each other's throats when their bombs had been used up.

The men in the lower half of the village hear the tumult of the fighting where the Australians come bombing their way through their breach in the Hindenburg line. The Australians keeping guard there at night, where for many days they were isolated, with no help on their left flank or their right, hear the chatter of English machine guns and have faith in their comrades. A few days ago, it was reported, the English troops had lost the village, but the Australians would not believe it.

"The Tommies will stick to it, all-right," they said. "There are some Scotties who will hold till all's blue. Those were the transport men and the stretcher bearers who came out of Bullecourt."

The Australian boys were right. Bullecourt had been held against all counterattacks, and today the British had beaten back the enemy with heavy losses, and in this place of blood and shell-fire lie waiting for fresh assaults.

Enemy Strengthens Rear Lines.

Meanwhile on other parts of the line the enemy is shelling heavily, but while the artillery protects his present line he is digging hard behind in order to safeguard any further retreat that may be forced upon him. Now that the old Hindenburg line is breached both at Bullecourt and Wancourt up north he is trying to strengthen his new line of defense running down through Montigny, Drocourt, and Queant.

To fall back on that would mean the abandonment of Lens and of the Oppy-Mericourt line and the ground about Fontaine Les-Croisilles, and Chérisy, which is gravely menaced. His industry on this back line is helped by forced labor and there is evidence that he is employing British prisoners of war under British shell fire on this work. It is hateful to think that is possible, but his own men say so.

HEAVY GERMAN LOSSES IN ATTACKS ON ROEUX

British Forced to Give Ground at Some Points, but Soon Reestablish Line.

LONDON, May 16.—"Exceptionally heavy losses" were inflicted on the German troops which were thrown today against the British positions between Gavrelle and the Scarpe River, according to the official report from British headquarters in France today.

The British advance posts were forced back by the Germans, but the latter were driven out of the ground they had gained almost immediately. A number of prisoners were captured.

A dispatch from The Associated Press correspondent at headquarters says:

"After a terrific bombardment lasting a considerable time the German infantry came down the slopes of Greenland from the direction of Plouvain. The British artillery made the hillside look like a mushroom farm, bulbs of shell smoke spouting up thickly over the entire field. Machine guns streamed nickeled missiles into the enemy ranks on the front and in the flanks.

"Sheer weight and momentum carried the Germans beyond the British outposts and even into the chemical works themselves, but, like a rubber ball, the rebound was instantaneous, and swiftly the defenders struck. After a short and hard fight the enemy was thrown out with heavy losses, leaving the British established more securely than ever.

"The fighting continued about Bullecourt and a German partial success recently won there was wiped out. In the meantime the British strengthened their positions eastward and drew a mite closer to Lens. Here the Germans continue their work of wrecking the district. Buildings are being blown up and machinery is being destroyed in order that the great mining centre shall not furnish the slightest benefit to the Allies when the Germans are finally forced to let go."

The text of tonight's report reads:

> After a heavy bombardment of our trenches on both banks of the Scarpe the enemy launched a powerful counterattack this morning on the north bank between Gavrelle and the river. His troops pressed forward under a destructive fire from our artillery and machine guns. For a short period, by weight of numbers, the enemy forced back our advanced troops from their forward positions. Our counterattack, however, immediately launched, regained all the ground temporarily lost, driving back the enemy and inflicting exceptionally heavy losses. A number of prisoners remained in our hands.
> One German airplane was driven down out of control yesterday. One of our machines is missing.

The afternoon statement said:

> Fighting continued yesterday to our advantage in the western portion of Bullecourt. We captured a few prisoners in the course of a small encounter last night on the right of our position in the Hindenburg line east of the village.

GERMANS STRIKE HARD NORTHEAST OF SOISSONS

French, Driven Back at Several Points, Regain Positions by Strong Counterattacks.

PARIS, May 16.—The Germans delivered a powerful attack this morning on a front of two and a half miles northeast of Soissons, attempting to break through the French lines north and northwest of Laffaux Mill, where the French seriously threatened the whole German position as far north as La Fère. The fighting lasted throughout the day, the Germans throwing huge masses of troops against the French lines. At several points the French line gave way under the sheer weight of numbers, but counterattacks, immediately organized, enabled them to regain the lost ground.

In addition to heavy losses inflicted by the sweeping French fire the Germans lost 100 unwounded prisoners. A number of others were picked up by the French ambulances.

> Artillery fighting continued during the night. After a violent bombardment the enemy this morning delivered a powerful attack on a front of four kilometers in the region of Moulin de Laffaux. We maintained our positions in spite of his repeated efforts. The fighting continues at various points.
> Surprise attacks undertaken by the Germans in the regions of Auberive, Avocourt and Barrenkopf were broken up by our fire.
> In Upper Alsace one of our light detachments penetrated the enemy trenches and brought back prisoners after having wrecked defensive positions of the enemy.

Tonight's statement reads:

> The Germans today continued their attacks in the regions to the north and northwest of Moulin de Laffaux as far as the railroad between Soissons and Laon. Despite the importance of the enemy effectives and the violence of the assaults our troops inflicted a sanguinary check on their adversaries. At several points, where our line temporarily gave way, we carried out brilliant counterattacks, which enabled us to regain the lost ground.
> The Germans suffered heavy losses in endeavoring to arrest our progress by new attempts, which were broken by our barrages and the fire of our machine guns. About one hundred wounded prisoners remained in our hands, as well as a number of wounded Germans who were carried off by our ambulances.
> The artillery fighting continued violently along the whole front of attack. In the sector of Craonne lively artillery actions also occurred.
> On May 15 our pilots brought down three German airplanes.

Bomb Fighting on Belgian Front.

HAVRE, May 16, (via Paris.)—The Belgian War Office issued today the following statement:

> In the region of Ramscapelle and near Steenstraete and Het Sas the artillery duel continued. North of Steenstraete a short but violent struggle with bombs took place in the afternoon of May 16.

ITALIANS CAPTURE 3,375 AUSTRIANS

Force Passage of Isonzo at New Place and Take Three Villages by Storm.

DRIVE GOES ON UNCHECKED

Austrians Driven from Wooded Heights North of Gorizia and a Hill Near Plava.

ROME, May 16.—The War Office announced today that, as a result of the offensive begun yesterday, the Italians thus far have captured 3,375 prisoners, a mountain battery, and thirty machine guns. They have captured the wooded heights on the east bank of the Isonzo, north of Gorizia, and forced a passage of the river between Loga and Bombrez, capturing the latter village. In the centre of the field of attack the villages of Zagora and Zagomila were taken.

Supplementing the bulletin of yesterday, the War Office last night issued the following:

> The offensive action now being developed on the Julian front, which was announced in today's statement, was preceded by vast, intense, and methodical artillery preparation. Fire was opened on the morning of May 12 along the whole line from Tolmino to the sea. It was maintained with a regularly quickened rhythm until the morning of May 14, when it was intensified to a powerful drumfire.
> During the first part of the bombardment the enemy reacted but feebly. It seemed as though the Austrians had been taken by surprise, but their reply was more vigorous on May 13 and extremely violent on the morning of the 14th. Austrian batteries then opened a heavy curtain fire, pouring thousands of projectiles on the trenches in the Italian line.
> Undeterred by this tempest of fire, the Italian infantry, toward noon, leaped over the parapets and dashed resolutely forward toward the objectives previously assigned. These positions were almost all difficult ones, and some of them hitherto had been regarded as impregnable; such, for instance, as the heights on the left bank of the Isonzo, from Plava to Salcano Pass. The steep slopes, covered with rocks and dotted here and there with thick clumps of brush, constituted a formidable obstacle to an infantry advance. Successive lines of trenches, prepared months ago above deep caverns, well supplied with defensive and offensive material, were defended by seasoned troops and protected by batteries placed so as to flank attacks with their fire.
> Notwithstanding these conditions, the Italian infantry advanced, and still continues to advance. Valuable positions have been won and prisoners are flowing into our concentration camps.
> Our aviators co-operate with great effect by bold and ceaseless reconnoissances, by skillful regulation of the artillery fire and bombardment of depots and convoys, and by brilliant combats with Austrian airplanes.

Today's official statement, containuing the account of the operations, reads:

> The vigorous offensive begun by our troops on Monday was relentlessly continued yesterday. Thanks to their untiring efforts, our infantry, ably supported by the artillery, succeeded in establishing themselves on the steep and wooded heights along the eastern bank of the Isonzo, north of Gorizia, which had been transformed by the enemy into a formidably fortified defensive position. On the left wing one of our columns, after forcing a passage across the river between Loga and Bombrez, captured the last-named village and fortified itself there.
> In the centre the heights of Hill 383, northeast of Plava, were captured, while the gallant Florence infantry brigade and the Vaellino brigade, after taking by assault the villages of Zagora and Zagomila, which were infested by machine guns, carried the crests of Mount Cucco and Mount Vodice with great dash.
> On our right wing the other columns made considerable progress on the steep slopes of Mount Santo Fierce enemy counterattacks, prepared and supported by a bombardment of exceptional violence, were all repulsed by the firm resistance of our troops.
> In the area east of Gorizia the Messina brigade conquered the Hill 174 north of Tivoli, which was strongly fortified and strongly held by the enemy, whose insistent counterattacks were all beaten back.
> The City of Gorizia yesterday suffered a heavy bombardment, and some buildings were seriously damaged.
> On the remainder of the front down to the sea there were lively artillery actions. The enemy's rear lines were again effectively bombed by our air squadrons and during the night by one of our airships. Notwithstanding attacks by numerous enemy machines and the fire of his batteries we did not suffer any loss.
> So far we have counted 3,375 prisoners, among them ninety-eight officers. We also have captured a mountain battery, about thirty machine guns, and much war material, including arms and ammunition.

CLOSE TWO DUBLIN HALLS.

Authorities Charged That They Were Aid to Sedition.

DUBLIN, May 16.—Liberty Hall, the headquarters of the Irish Transport Workers' Union, and Hibernian Hall, the meeting place of the Irish-American Alliance, have been ordered closed, on the ground that they were used "by persons attempting to cause sedition among the civil population."

In the last week Republican flags were flown from these buildings in celebration of the election of a Sinn Feiner as member of Parliament from South Longford.

WAR DIET AT KING'S TABLE.

George V. Bars All Luxuries and His Guests Cut Their Own Bread.

OTTAWA, May 16.—Guests at the table of King George of England cut their own bread, and this is one way in which the King avoids food waste in his household, according to J. D. Hazen, who has returned from England with Premier Borden. With the Premier, Mr. Hazen sat at the imperial war conference, and they were among the guests who dined with the English King.

"Everybody in England has enough to eat, but the country has come to realize that no food is to be wasted at this time," Mr. Hazen said. "King George is joining with his people in the food economy practices. We were his guests at Windsor Castle, and found that no wine, beer, or spirits of any kind were now being used in the King's household. The fare at the table has been reduced to the utmost simplicity, and waste is being avoided. For instance, you cut your own bread. There is the loaf and the knife and you cut what you want. This is done to prevent waste. No toast is allowed, because bread once toasted cannot be used again in puddings or other ways known to cooks."

BERLIN TELLS OF SUCCESS.

Trenches Over 650-Yard Front Captured Near La Neuville.

BERLIN, May 16, (via London.)—The capture of trenches on a front of 600 meters (650 yards) east of La Neuville is announced in today's official statement. The statement follows:

> Army Group of Crown Prince Rupprecht.—Weather conditions being unfavorable, there was comparatively little activity
> Army Group of the German Crown Prince.—On both sides of Craonne and north of Prosnes the increased activity of the artillery was continued without interruption. East of La Neuville, (Aisne front,) a Bradenburg battalion broke into the enemy trenches on a width of 600 meters, and held the newly won position against several strong French attacks. One hundred and seventy-five prisoners and numerous weapons of every kind fell into the hands of our brave troops.

The evening official report issued by the War Office says:

> Rain and mist rendered the fighting activity on the western front slight. Near Roeux and Vauxaillon local infantry engagements developed.

MORE CANADIANS ARRIVE.

Nine Battalions Reach England Safely—Two Americans Dead.

OTTAWA, May 16.—Safe arrival in England of nine more battalions of Canadian troops, with field artillery, engineers, medical corps, flying corps, officers and naval details, was officially announced today.

In the Canadian casualty list posted today are the names of two Americans, who died of wounds, W. C. Clark, San Francisco, and A. Diningan, Springville, Mich.

BULGAR LINE BROKEN BY BRITISH ATTACKS

MILES OF TRENCHES TAKEN

French Hold Ground Won by Them and Inflict Heavy Losses on the Enemy.

LONDON, May 16.—British troops in Macedonia have made an important advance on the Doiran front, and captured the village of Kjupri on the Struma front, it is announced officially. Advanced trenches on a front of 3,000 yards southwest of Ernekeoi also have been taken. Following is the text of the War Office statement:

> On the Doiran front Monday night we advanced our line southwest of Krastali on a front of 5,000 yards to an average depth of 500 yards, and consolidated the positions gained despite the heavy shelling.
> On the Struma front we occupied the village of Kjupri, two and a half miles north-northwest of Prosenik, taking some prisoners. We also captured the enemy's advanced trenches southwest of Ernekeoi, one and a half miles north of Barakli Juma, on a front of 3,000 yards. Seventy prisoners were taken. Our casualties were slight.
> Our naval air service carried out two successful bombing raids on camps in the rear of the enemy's lines.

French Army Headquarters today made public the following version of the operations:

> Eastern Theatre, May 15.—West of Lake Doiran, in the region of Krastali and Dautli, the British troops captured the enemy's first line to a depth of 700 meters on a front of five kilometers, (about three miles.)
> In the course of their counterattacks on the front of Serka di Legen-Hadji Barimah the Bulgarians suffered heavy losses, and left some prisoners in our hands. The positions taken have been maintained. Near Gradeshnitza the Serbians carried out a surprise attack, and brought back prisoners.
> The artillery fighting has been very lively at the Cerna bend and on the Serbian front, notwithstanding the bad weather and fog.

An official statement issued on Monday by the Bulgarian War Department at Sofia, after referring to artillery activity of varying intensity on the Macedonian front, says the offensive of the British, French, Russian, and Italian forces having completely failed, the Serbians are now putting forward desperate but ineffectual efforts to obtain some success, however small. The statement adds:

> Throughout the day and night (Sunday) there was desperate artillery fighting. Simultaneously the Serbians repeatedly delivered attacks on the Moglena front, which were repulsed on every occasion with heavy losses. Near Dobropolye and to the east their attacks cost them enormous losses.
> According to reports on the occasion of the repulse of the French from Jarebichka height the enemy experienced heavy losses. We counted 500 French corpses in front of our line.

The Bulgarian War Office communication issued on Tuesday said:

> In the Monastir and Cerna region there has been artillery fire. Detachments of enemy infantry advanced toward Gradeshnitza, but were repulsed by our fire.
> West of the Vardar, after a hurricane fire, the French at 5 o'clock in the morning attempted an attack upon the heights of Colema, Jarebichka, Bosselkova, and Kitka, south of Honma, but were repulsed.

BERLIN, May 16, (via London.)—"The heavy artillery fire which has been in progress between Presba and Doiran Lakes (Macedonia) has extended to the Struma front," the War Office reports. "Enemy attacks north of Monastir failed.

"On the Russo-Galician and Rumanian fronts the situation is unchanged."

BAGGY BRITISH COAT FOR OUR SOLDIERS

TIGHT COLLAR DISCARDED

Only Neckband Insignia Will Distinguish Americans Who Fight in France.

There is to be a change in the model of the field uniform worn by the United States Army more than fifteen years, according to an officer who received unofficial notification of the plan a few days ago. A War Department order is expected in a day or two to announce the alteration formally. It is stated that the new model will follow the style of the British field uniform in nearly every particular.

The change in uniform is one of the first tangible results of the visit of the British military men who came to this country with the Balfour Commission and who are now in the bureaus of the War Department with their American allies in a sort of advisory capacity. The baggy coat of the British officers and their comfortable turn-down collar furnished the model from which the army tailor sketched an American variation which will be accepted for the use of our troops.

The new uniform will be of the same material as is issued now—khaki for Summer and olive drab wool for Winter wear. The tight neckband which was adopted while blue was still the field as well as dress color for American troops, and which remained even when khaki was issued, is now discarded, both for officers and enlisted men. A tie will probably be required to be worn as part of the uniform.

Two huge pockets are at the waist of the new coat. They are more accentuated in the officer's than in the private's coat. The pockets will hold as much as a small-sized suitcase, and it is said they furnish, together with the easy collar, the two arguments that decided the shift. The tunic belt, a distinctive feature of the British uniform, will be retained in the American model, if the present plans are carried out. This belt, which is only a band around the waist of the coat and shapes it a little to its wearer, has two steel hooks which support the heavy leather equipment belt.

There is no difference in the trousers worn by the British and American soldiers. When the wide-brimmed campaign hat is exchanged for the steel helmet it will be hard to tell which country's forces are occupying the trenches.

The new model uniform will not be issued to the enlisted men until the accumulated stock of old-style uniforms has been exhausted. At present 400,000 of these uniforms are in the arsenals. Officers will probably order the new models from their tailors as soon as the order comes out.

1,929 Men Enlisted on Tuesday—Pennsylvania Still Leads—New York Drops to Third Place.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, May 16.—The 70,000 mark in army recruiting was passed yesterday, when 1,929 more men enlisted for the regular army, bringing the total obtained since April 1 up to 71,670. There was a slight falling off in recruiting yesterday, the usual daily average of over 2,000 not having been reached.

Pennsylvania continues to lead, with a record of 268 men, obtained Tuesday, while Illinois was second, with 217, and New York third, with 177. The daily statement of recruiting issued by Adjutant General McCain follows:

GARDNER RESIGNS TO SERVE IN ARMY

Massachusetts Congressman Ordered to Duty as a Colonel in the Officers' Reserve Corps.

WASHINGTON, May 16.—Representative A. P. Gardner of Massachusetts has resigned from Congress to take up service in the army as a reserve officer.

Mr. Gardner has been one of the most active figures in the movement for military preparedness, and is the first member of either house to quit Congress for military service in the present war.

Mr. Gardner holds the rank of Colonel in the Officers' Reserve Corps, Adjutant General's Department, and will report next week to Major General Wood at Charleston, S. C. He was taken in from the old Officers' Reserve Corps, which enables him to enter active service, although he is over the military age requirements.

The corps having been ordered to duty, it was ruled by the Judge Advocate General that Mr. Gardner became automatically an officer of the army and could not continue to draw pay as a Congressman at the same time.

BOSTON, May 16.—Two hours after word came from Washington today that Representative Gardner of the Sixth Congressional District had resigned to enter the army, three Republican candidates were in the field, with indications that the number would be greatly increased before announcement by Governor McCall of a date for a special primary. The Sixth District is normally Republican.

The candidates are Winfred W. Lufkin, Representative Gardner's Secretary; Rufus B. Adams, former Mayor of Salem, and John L. Saltonstall of Beverly, formerly a member of the House. Henry G. Wells, President of the Senate, had been mentioned, but he said he had not formally decided to enter the contest.

STORM AT MADISON BARRACKS

Special to The New York Times.

SACKET HARBOR, N. Y., May 16.—Snow, preceded and followed by heavy rainfall, delayed the beginning of the regular training schedule today at the Madison Barracks. It had been planned to get the men out on the drill grounds for long periods, but the condition of the field prevented this.

Despite a raw cold wind off Lake Ontario, the cadets managed to put in about two hours' drill this morning before the weather became too boisterous. The hours indoors were given over to study. In an earnest talk to the cadets Lieut. Col. Sample urged the men to "get into harness" right at the start and to stay there, "all pulling together for the common and only object of this camp—the best interests of the Government."

The monthly cost of food and its service at the barracks will be close to $60,000, while equipment and other supplies will bring the total outlay for three months up to nearly $1,500,000.

Surety Men Act on War Tax.

Representatives of a dozen bonding concerns met yesterday at the Waldorf-Astoria, with R. Howard Bland, Vice President of the United States Fidelity and Guaranty Company of Baltimore as Chairman, and took steps to consolidate in one section the taxation in the War Revenue bill affecting the surety business. This taxation is now in two different sections of the bill.

Doctors Respond to Census Call.

ALBANY, May 16.—Replies from all except about 1,000 of the 15,000 medical men of the State have been received by the Military Census Bureau in response to a special census started recently. As a result of the census the military authorities will have a list of physicians and surgeons to be called upon if needed.

ENEMIES MUST QUIT ALL ARMORY ZONES

AFFECTS HUNDREDS IN CITY

Department of Justice Rules That President's Proclamation Applies to Homes of the National Guard.

All alien enemies now resident within one-half mile of State armories and arsenals must either move by June 1 or procure permission from the Federal authorities to remain in such neighborhoods.

This information was received from Washington yesterday by United States Marshal Thomas D. McCarthy, who a few days ago addressed a letter to the Department of Justice, in which he asked if the President's proclamation, in which it was stated that alien enemies must remove from within one-half mile of forts, military camps, arsenals, navy yards, &c., applied to the National Guard armories in New York City. The ruling will affect hundreds if not thousands of Germans and Austrians in New York State alone. It came from the Department of Justice in this letter from Charles Warren, Assistant Attorney General.

Washington, May 15.

The United States Marshal, Southern District of New York.

Sir: This department is in receipt of your letter of May 10, submitting the question as to whether regulation No. 4 of the President's proclamation covers New York State armories and transmitting the opinion thereon of Assistant United States District Attorney Knox in the matter.

In reply you are advised that in the opinion of this department, the words "Federal or State" qualify not only the noun "forts," but also the nouns "camps, arsenals, aircraft stations," and that it is further the opinion of this department that the word "arsenal" covers "armories." It would seem from this, therefore, that the President's proclamation covers the New York State armories referred to. Respectfully,

CHARLES WARREN,
Assistant Attorney General.

In the City of New York there are twenty State armories and one State arsenal, a majority of them located in residential sections, in all of which it is believed many Germans and Austrians who are not American citizens, at present reside. The principal armories of the city are as follows:

Seventh Infantry—Park Av. and 67th St., Manhattan.

Sixty-ninth Infantry—Lexington Av. and 25th St., Manhattan.

Seventy-first Infantry—Park Av. and 34th St., Manhattan.

First Field Artillery—Broadway and 68th St., Manhattan.

Second Field Artillery—Franklin Av. and 166th St., Bronx.

Second Field Artillery—171 Clermont Av., Brooklyn.

Second Signal Corps—801 Dean St., Brooklyn.

First Field Hospital—56 West 66th St., Manhattan.

In addition to the above there is the armory of the Manhattan Battalion of the Naval Militia at the foot of West Ninety-sixth Street and the armory of the Brooklyn Battalion in South Brooklyn. The First Field Ambulance Company shares the armory at 56 West Sixty-sixth Street with the First Field Hospital, while the Manhattan company of the Signal Corps is housed in the Seventy-first Regiment Armory.

It is expected that within the next few days thousands of persons resident within one-half mile of a State armory will apply for permits to remain in the localities in which they now live.

WARNS OF NEW ATROCITIES.

LONDON, May 16.—An Amsterdam dispatch to The Times says that Deputy Cohn, an Independent Socialist, asked Chancellor von Bethmann Hollweg in the Reichstag if he was prepared to exert influence on the Turkish Government to prevent, as far as was still possible, a repetition of the Armenian atrocities in Palestine.

Deputy Cohn said that Djemal Pasha, commander of the Turkish forces in Syria, at the end of March had ordered all Jews, including German, Austro-Hungarian, and Bulgarian subjects, to be removed from Jaffa and its neighborhood. Djemal Pasha said military considerations required this, although, Deputy Cohn said, his German Chief of Staff said it was unnecessary.

The expelled Jews were reported to have been subjected, under the eyes of the Turkish authoritis, to violence and robbery, many having been killed. The Turks also did nothing toward feeding the fugitives. Deputy Cohn added that Germany would incur a great moral responsibility if she took no action.

WARE TELLS HOW MONGOLIA SHELL HIT

Gun Crew's Commander Clearly Saw Submarine's Conning Tower Penetrated.

PERISCOPE KNOCKED AWAY

Captain Rice Says He'd Rather Face the War Zone's Dangers Than Make a Speech.

Lieutenant Bruce R. Ware, Jr., U. S. N., who commanded the gun crew on the steamship Mongolia, which fired the first American shot in the war and either sank or disabled a German submarine, described the exploit fully in a speech at a testimonial dinner given to him and Captain Emery Rice of the Mongolia at the Waldorf-Astoria last night.

The young Lieutenant—he is only 30 years old—asserted that in looking through his powerful marine glasses he distinctly saw the shell fired by the gun crew strike the raider's periscope and enter the conning tower. It was the first time Lieutenant Ware had given a public account of what happened on the morning of the encounter, and his recital, which was preceded by the addresses of twelve other speakers, each of whom tried to outdo the other in praising the exploit, aroused great applause.

The dinner to Captain Rice and Lieutenant Ware was in the nature of a friendly gathering, most of those present being persons who had traveled on the Mongolia while it was in trans-Pacific service, or who had lived in the Orient, and had known Captain Rice there.

"We were ready, gentlemen, at 5:22 A. M. on April 19," said Lieutenant Ware. "The sun came up at 4:59, and it started to get a little thick. The fog was coming down from the east, nine miles southwest of Beachy Head in the English Channel, just south of the English coast, and about twenty miles from the Dover Straits and the entrance up to the Thames. At 5:21 the chief officer walked out on the port bridge. The Captain and myself were on our heels looking out through the port. I saw the chief officer turn around, and you could have seen the whole ocean written in his face, and his mouth that wide, (indicating,) and he could not get it out. He finally said: 'My God, look at that submarine!'

"The Captain gripped my arm and said: 'What is that?' I said: 'It is a submarine, and he has got us.'

"I followed the Captain out on the bridge and I looked at my gun crews. They were all agape. The lookout was all agape. I threw in my starboard control and I said: 'Captain, zig-zag.' I did not tell him which way to go. We had that all doped out. The Captain starboarded his helm and the ship turned to port and we charged him (the U-boat) and made him go under. I went up on top of the chart house with my phones on, and I had a long powerful glass, ten power. Right underneath it I always lashed my transmitter, so that where I was my transmitter went, and I didn't have to worry or hunt for it. It was always plugged in, and I said:

"'No. 3 gun, after gun, train on the starboard quarter, and when you see a submarine and periscope or conning tower, report.'

"The gun crew reported control. 'We see it—no, no—it has gone. There it is again.' I picked it up at that moment with my high-powered glass, and I gave them the range—1,000 yards, Scale 50. She was about 800 yards away from us. I gave the order, 'No. 3 gun, fire, commence firing.'

"I had my glasses on there, gentlemen, and I saw that periscope come up. 'No. 3 gun, commence firing, fire, fire, fire.' And they did, and I picked that shell right up as it came out of the gun—a black, six-inch explosive shell. I saw it go through the air in its flight, and I saw it strike the water eight inches—a foot—in front of that periscope and it went into the conning tower. I saw that periscope go end over end, whipping through that water, and I saw plates go off his conning tower, and I saw smoke all over the scene where we had hit the enemy."

Captain Rice, when called on, said:

"Gentlemen, I'd much rather take the Mongolia through the war zone than make a speech. All I will say is, I'm ready to go again and I hope I have another chance at a U-boat."

Martin Egan, publicity representative of J. P. Morgan & Co., and former owner of The Manila Times, made a plea to the diners in support of the Liberty Loan.

"Some of us are too old to fight," he said, "but, thank God, none of us is too old to pay. Our first duty is to pay for the war. This should not be left to the big corporations, or to the rich, but every man who has a dollar to spare, or a dollar of credit, should do his share. The sooner we realize that the business of the nation is war, the better; and to the extent that we fail to do our part, we shall suffer in the blood of our sons."

Twenty-one guests of honor were at the speakers' table, and in the centre sat Captain Rice and Lieutenant Ware. Over this table were draped two huge American flags, in the centre of which, and directly behind the two guests of honor, was a statue of Liberty. The walls were covered with flags of the allied countries and the international signal code.

Some of the guests traveled hundreds of miles to attend the dinner. Among these was George H. Carse, Jr., foreign passenger agent of the Union Pacific Railroad, who came from Chicago, and Charles A. Severance, who journeyed from St. Paul. Newton W. Gilbert, former Vice Governor of the Philippines, was Chairman.

Others at the speakers' table were P. A. S. Franklin, President of the International Mercantile Marine; Melville E. Stone, general manager of The Associated Press; Charles M. Swift, General H. H. Bandholtz, U. S. A.; Martin Egan of J. P. Morgan & Co., Mr. Severance, H. C. Quimby, Major William Tutherly, Major C. E. Stanton, Robert Frothingham, E. B. Bruce, Bruce R. Ware, father of Lieutenant Ware; Captain Reginald Fay, A. S. Crockett, John S. Leach, William A. Derham, C. T. Briggs, and A. S. Thompson.

"We are gathered here," said Mr. Gilbert, "to do honor to two young men who have written a page in the history of the United States." Mr. Gilbert then read a list of prominent men who were unable to attend because of being engaged in the work of preparedness, and each name was applauded. The names read included those of Theodore Roosevelt, Bishop Brent, and Willard D. Straight.

"Acts like those that Captain Rice and Lieutenant Ware performed," said Mr. Gilbert, "help the people of this country to know that we are really at war."

Melville E. Stone, General Manager of The Associated Press, eulogized Captain Rice, telling of his birth in Massachusetts and his early life.

Reginald Fay, head of the New York Nautical School, conveyed the regards of the Alumni of both the New York and Massachusetts Nautical Schools.

HOOVER WILL HEAD NEW FOOD BOARD

SHIPMENT BILL CHANGED

President Authorized to Use Force to Keep Trains Moving—Wide Regulatory Powers for the Executive.

WASHINGTON, May 16.—The redrafting of the food legislation now pending in Congress to meet the views of the Administration, was forecast today in the request of the Senate Agriculture Committee that the House Committee should name a sub-committee to assist it in drawing new bills. The members of the committees of both houses received a clear idea at a White House conference last night of what the Administration desires enacted into law.

The Administration program calls for three measures—one to promote food production, another providing regulatory measures, and the third giving authority to insure preferential shipments to food supplies. The first two bills are pending in the House and the third was introduced today in both Houses.

The first House bill probably will be allowed to stand as it is, but the second will be changed to give to the President the regulatory powers which the bill vests in the Department of Agriculture. The second bill also will be changed to authorize the creation of an emergency food agency to operate under the direction of the President. It would be headed by one man with a staff of assistants, many of them business men working without pay, and would be authorized to utilize the services of other Government departments and agencies.

Herbert C. Hoover in all likelihood will be named to head this board. The President, it is understood, has about made up his mind that Mr. Hoover is the man for the place and will name him for the office as soon as the bills are passed. Secretary Houston of the Department of Agriculture, who was instrumental in having Mr. Hoover return from abroad to report on the food situation in Europe, said today that he thought Mr. Hoover would be the best possible selection, in view of his services in Belgium and his wide experience in food problems.

The main things sought in the Administration program of legislation, outlined today by Secretary Houston, are power to increase production, the regulation of exchanges, power to fix prices and to requisition hoarded supplies, power to regulate the use of grain in the manufacture of alcohol, the prevention of speculation, the licensing of distributing agencies, and authority to create an emergency food agency to enforce food control measures.

It is likely that authority to change milling standards and power to direct mixing of grains in the milling of flour will be conferred on the emergency body instead of the Agriculture Department.

A provision empowering the President to use the nation's armed forces to prevent any obstruction "of the orderly conduct or movement of interstate or foreign commerce" during the war was written into the Administration's Preferential Shipment bill today at a conference between President Wilson and Chairmen Newlands and Adamson of the Congressional Interstate Commerce Committees.

Immediately afterward the revised measure was introduced in the Senate by Senator Newlands and in the House by Representative Adamson, replacing the original measure presented yesterday by Representative Webb. The provisions of the Webb resolution giving Presidential authority to stipulate what commodities shall have preference in movement of freight are included bodily, with amplifications, in the new bill.

One provision added to the preferential shipment section would make it a misdemeanor punishable by a fine of $10,000 and five years' imprisonment for any carrier or its employes to fail to comply promptly with a preferential shipment order. Another would give the Interstate Commerce Commission authority to fix a just compensation for any extraordinary service rendered by a carrier in complying with such an order.

LEAVES PLATTSBURG TO REST IN TRENCHES

Soldier, Wounded Thrice in France, Quits After Look at Camp Schedule—Eight Others Leave.

Special to The New York Times.

PLATTSBURG, May 16.—Nine men left the Reserve Officers' training camp today, two from the New York camp and seven from the New England camp. Out of this number one man from each camp was told by the camp authorities to leave, while the rest went at their own request. Among the latter was an American who had been wounded three times while serving in Europe with the Canadian forces and who had been decorated for gallantry in action. One look at the training schedule convinced him that the course would be too stiff for him, and he announced that he was going back to the trenches to rest.

The total enrollment of the camp as shown by the morning reports is 4,024 men. The New York regiment has 2,474 men, including 196 reserve officers, and the New England regiment consists of 2,450 men, including 142 reserve officers. Instructors are already overburdened with men, and it is expected that many may be weeded out.

The ten-hour instruction schedule began today. For three hours this morning students were drilling by squads on the parade ground, with a half hour's brisk physical drill sandwiched in. A three-mile hike without equipment touched up the men's appetite for noon mess. The afternoon was filled with conferences, and tonight the students are in their quarters mastering the intricacies of semaphore signaling.

Major Stewart, the senior instructor, held a conference today with company instructors. The object of the talk was to make all instruction uniform. The "normal school method" of having the men teach each other will be followed. "The primary object of this camp is not to produce well-drilled companies," said Major Stewart. "The main object is to train men to train others."

It was learned today at camp headquarters that the camp commander, Lieut. Col. Wolf, expects to make a visit of inspection at the Canadian training camp at St. John's, Quebec, forty-six miles from Plattsburg. Colonel Wolf desires to see the Canadian system of training in practice before incorporating part of it in the instruction of the Federal reserve students. It seems probable that the officers of the two camps will get together many times during the Summer to compare notes.

REGISTERED

The masters of organization who conceived and developed and today direct the diverse activities of this nationally famous company recognize the value of The Dictaphone System as a factor of economic importance.

In 1915 they investigated and tested the fact-claims made for this modern system of handling correspondence. They went further—they installed The Dictaphone because it proved all its claims as a creator of economy, convenience and increased production of finished typewriting.

Today in the offices of the great plant in Jersey City and in Boston and Chicago, the Great Atlantic and Pacific Tea Company places dependence upon The Dictaphone. Their executives and correspondents dictate to 70 Dictaphones.

The success of The Dictaphone with this big organization repeats the success it is daily achieving with many thousands of other concerns — of all kinds, sizes and characters. then an immediate surrender to the Junkers.

"We at any rate," said Lord Robert, "are determined not to accept a peace that will be no peace. The peace that we accept must be a peace that will be durable. I have always been an adherent of the idea of a league of nations, but such a league must be founded upon a sound, just, and equitable basis."

Mr. Asquith also said he regretted the resolution had been moved in such form that it must be rejected. He said the people of Great Britain were in sympathy, as far as they understood the purport of the announcement made by the Russian Government, with its aims and views in the war and its conditions for a durable peace.

If the war was to end in an honorable peace there must be annexation, continuing the emancipation of the enthralled populations who were laboring under despotism, and retention of strategic positions as safeguards against future attacks might be necessary.

"When the Russian Government asks us to join them in a non-annexation policy it must be in the limited sense of no acquisition or extension of territory for political or economical aggrandizement," said Mr. Asquith. "The German Chancellor's speech shows that those responsible for the German policy have abandoned the counsels of moderation and reason and are determined to pursue the wicked and nefarious course they entered upon three years ago. So long as that is the case we cannot falter or relax by a hair's breadth our determination to pursue the war to a victorious end."

BETHMAN FAILED TO PLEASE.

Discontent General, but Annexationists Still Have Hopes.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

THE HAGUE, May 16.—The German Chancellor's speech occasioned considerable relief among the Conservatives and Reventlowians who, although they profess discontent at not having their demands for annexation accepted, admit that the Chancellor's speech was equivalent to a definite rejection of Scheidemann's peace without annexations. The Conservative Post says one definite fact is now established from the Chancellor's speech, and adds:

"There is to be no Scheidemann peace, which would lead the German people to bear their own burdens and give the German Empire no indemnities and no profit. It was Bethmann's best day since Aug. 4, 1914. Although he told us little new, yet there were some valuable factors. We reckon as profit his insistence on unity with Austria, his own agreement with the army command, and especially the plain division between himself and Scheidemann."

The Lokal-anzeiger, which has been especially attacking the Chancellor, says it was a weak speech with nothing definited in it and expresses surprise that many parties in the Reichstag should have had no word of reproach for "the policy of silence which has aroused such discontent in the country that is now almost too late to combat it." Opinions of the Socialists and radicals are not yet known here.

The Dutch press endeavors to avoid the appearance of disappointment which, despite repeated warnings, appears to have been felt here. The Catholic Tyd says Bethmann has donned for the occasion Bismarck's cuirasse and boots, and spoke more forcibly and with greater confidence than ever before. The paper considers that the essential fact deducible from the speech is that the Chancellor crisis is over for the present.

The Nieuwe Courant endeavors to find comfort in Bethmann's reply to the annexationists which it thinks may be interpreted as somewhat sharper than his reply to Scheidemann. The Telegraaf says:

"Germany waits upon Russia." In these four words is contained the whole pith of the Chancellor's eagerly expected speech."

The Nieuws Van den Dag alone declares the Chancellor's speech is equivalent to battle lost.

The German semi-official press today under orders from Berlin is busily engaged in emphasizing the great importance of the Chancellor's remarks about Russia, and urging Russia to accept the hand held out.

AGAIN THREATENS A REPUBLIC

Ledebour Says Partition of Alsace-Lorraine Would Be Signal for It.

AMSTERDAM, May 16, (via London.)—Discussion of the question of Alsace in the Reichstag was postponed today on the proposal of Dr. Mathias Erzberger, one of the leaders of the Clerical Centre Party; Count von Westarp, the Conservative leader, and Dr. Gustav Stresemann, National Liberal leader. The Socialists protested strongly against this postponement.

The Berlin Post says that the Administration is about to make a radical decision in regard to the future of Alsace-Lorraine, involving a division of the province between Bavaria and Prussia.

In the course of the debate regarding Germany's war aims the Socialist leader, George Ledebour, referred to this report. He declared that the answer to such an intention would be the proclamation of a German republic.

The semi-official Fremdenblatt of Vienna, discussing yesterday's Reichstag proceedings, says that Chancellor von Bethmann Hollweg in simple and candid sentences declared the desire of Germany to regulate her eastern frontiers, and maintain friendly relations with Russia in peaceful accord with the Russian Government. Almost identical declarations emanated from Austria-Hungary, the newspaper says, adding: "All the world now knows Germany entertains no ideas of conquest regarding Russia, which can at any moment conclude an honorable peace with Germany and Austria. Reports about a divergence of views on this question between Vienna and Berlin will now become silent as the grave."

SEE ACT OF DISCIPLINE IN RITTER'S TRANSFER

Berne and Washington Recall His Efforts to Mediate Between America and Germany.

BERNE, May 16, (via Paris.)—The successor of Dr. Paul Ritter, the Swiss Minister to the United States, who has been transferred to the legation at The Hague, will be Hans Sulzer of Winterthur, provided he is persona grata to the American Government.

M. Sulzer, who is not a diplomat by training, is the head of the directorate of a firm bearing his name and is considered exceptionally well informed regarding the economic needs of Switzerland. His appointment to the legation at Washington, like that of Dr. Ritter to The Hague, is understood to be only for the duration of the war, after which "a final reorganization of Switzerland's diplomatic representation" will take place.

The transfer of Dr. Ritter came as a complete surprise to the people of Switzerland. The newspapers unite in hailing enthusiastically the appointment of M. Sulzer, whose acceptance of the post, although it is conditional upon Washington's approval, is termed an act of genuine patriotism, since he must leave for an indefinite period his work as head of the largest machine works in Switzerland. A prominent diplomat in Berne today characterized the appointment of M. Sulzer as "a distinct credit to Switzerland and an equally distinct compliment to the United States."

The newspapers speculate on the transfer of Dr. Ritter. All of them recall his attempts at mediation between Germany and the United States, and some of them affect to see in his change from the permanent post at Washington to a temporary place in Holland the hand of discipline. The French language newspapers, which long have carried on an agitation against Dr. Ritter, deal gently with his transfer.

M. Sulzer, who is only 42 years of age, was trained in a British mining concern and the Swiss bank and then toured South and North America before entering his own firm. He is married and is the father of three children. He enjoys a reputation in Switzerland for impartiality and fairness.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, May 16.—The retirement of Dr. Paul Ritter, Swiss Minister, from the Diplomatic Corps in Washington is understood to be the result of publicity activity he is alleged to have engaged in after he assumed charge of German interests here following the severance of relations with Germany. Diplomats think the transfer a distinct demotion for the Minister, and it was believed to have been caused by representations made to the Minister himself or his Government by the State Department.

TURKS CHECK THE RUSSIANS

Latter's Advance on the Diala, Northeast of Bagdad, Is Halted.

PETROGRAD, May 16, (via London.)—Russian troops have again forced a crossing of the Diala River on the Mesopotamian front northeast of Bagdad. They met with strong opposition on advancing from the river, however, and were compelled to fall back, says today's War Office statement. The official statement reads:

> In Mesopotamia on May 11 our detachments once more crossed the river Diala, near Jumur, north of Khanikan, but, on proceeding further, met with strong opposition north of Kibri-Kadir, and were forced to retire.

LONDON, May 16.—The British campaign in Mesoptamia, where a series of important victories over the Turks have been won, is now almost at a standstill. The following official report from the Mesopotamian front was issued here today:

> Though no important operations have occurred since the beginning of the month, we have secured 136 prisoners, including twenty-nine in a skirmish near Dell Abbas.

Only 9 days more

Encyclopaedia Britannica

printed on genuine India paper

SATURDAY, May 26—if not a day or two earlier—will end your opportunity to obtain a set of the most valuable and useful work of reference ever published—the new Encyclopaedia Britannica in the popular "Handy Volume" form, printed on genuine India paper.

The few sets that are left are the very last India paper sets anywhere in the world.

Therefore, we urge you to act NOW*—if you hope to own one of these last sets. Decide TODAY. It is NOW or never!

Only $1 down will insure you a set. You pay the balance in convenient monthly amounts for a limited period, while profiting by the use of the books.*

What the Britannica Is

The new Encyclopaedia Britannica consists of 29 volumes, 41,000 separate articles and 500,000 indexed facts, a complete survey of all knowledge.

It is the work of 1500 world-famous scholars and experts, each chosen because of his special knowledge of the subject on which he wrote.

It is cosmopolitan in its viewpoint, unbiased in its presentation and authoritative.

It could not be printed today on genuine India paper because the sets still on hand are printed on the last India paper that could be obtained.

The Britannica deals with commerce, history, business, manufacture, philosophy, biography, art, science, invention, religion, engineering, sports, literature, sociology, farming, army and navy, war, horticulture, hygiene, household economy, physics, geology, astronomy—everything.

It deals with knowledge in the broadest, most practical way, making this knowledge usable for any purpose that knowledge is necessary.

You can buy a set NOW—or never! Only 9 days more!

What the Britannica will do for you.

Think of this great work as an investment in knowledge that counts.

It will give you facts and information that will help you in your business or work.

It will furnish you with a teacher on any subject you wish to study—a teacher who is master of his subject and who is always at your command.

It will give you the answer to questions prompted by the news of the day, lectures, sermons, books, conversation. It will make everything you see, read and hear more interesting.

It will help you to form an intelligent opinion on questions of the day and enable you to follow the course of events here and abroad.

It will enable you to lay out a plan of practical education for your children, to give them the right start in life.

It will give you the history of every country in the world, every race, every city—and will tell you about men and women everywhere.

It will serve as a guide to literature—it will stimulate your interest in music and the fine arts—it will explain science to you.

You can buy a set NOW—or never! Only 9 days more!

Consider the Britannica as an Investment

rather than as a purchase—an investment in PRACTICAL KNOWLEDGE. Take the case of the 185,000 men and women who have already bought this marvelous work.

One person might easily make an unwise investment—ten, fifty, or a hundred might do so. But when 185,000 persons, representing every business and vocation, invest in the Britannica, you may be sure they are certain it is a good investment and will pay them a good profit.

You will find the Britannica equally helpful—equally profitable. It all depends on how ambitious you are, how eager you are to get on, how desirous of promoting yourself into the men-who-know class.

A WONDERFUL NEW VOLUME

THE publishers of the Encyclopaedia Britannica announce that they have made arrangements for the issue, as soon after the end of the war as possible, of a new volume, containing a full and authoritative history of the war.

The new volume will be written by scholars and experts of the same high character as those who wrote for the Britannica itself, and by many of its own contributors. It will be absolutely impartial, excluding all partisan feeling and prejudice. It will contain

1. A judicial account of the real causes of the war, the progress of the struggle, and the results all over the world; with maps, as necessary, to show changes in boundaries.
2. The lives of the new leaders, whether civil, military or naval, in the belligerent countries.
3. The results of the war outside the sphere of fighting, the progress of surgery, the prevention of contagious disease, the new scientific discoveries, etc.

The new volume will bridge the gap between the days of peace before and after the war. It will be printed and bound to match the Britannica and the publishers guarantee that no matter how difficult and costly the supplementary volume may be from the editorial point of view, the price of it to all who purchase the Britannica during the present sale will not be more than that of a corresponding volume of the Britannica.

H E Hooper President

Consider how much The Encyclopaedia Britannica will help you in your business or work, increasing your knowledge of your business, giving you the knowledge you need to get on and to increase your earning power. And it will be an advantage to your family, to your children.

A Philadelphia manufacturer, who purchased the Britannica, recently wrote: "I would not be without the set—and consider it an investment far greater than anything else offered in this country."

A Chicago banker says: "A man who has The Encyclopaedia Britannica at hand has a distinct advantage over one who has not."

If your decision is that you need the Britannica, then the sooner you order it, the surer you are of getting one of these last sets printed on genuine India paper.

We don't want you to buy The Encyclopaedia Britannica unless you are convinced that it will be useful to you. If you want to make sure that the Britannica will be useful and helpful to you, go to the store named below and examine the books for yourself. You can there investigate its complete fund of knowledge in your own way, select the style of binding you prefer, and find out how easy the terms of payment are.

But you must do so at once. You have only 9 days more—it may be only 7 or 8—in which to decide whether you really want this great work.

It is NOW—or never, for this sale will dispose of the very last India paper sets of the Britannica anywhere in the world. No more can be printed on this beautiful thin-and-tough paper—hence, after May 26, at the latest, you cannot obtain a set at any price.

Make up your mind NOW. If you want to see the books before you order, do so NOW.

Those who cannot go to this store may use this "Reserve Order" Form, which will be legally binding upon us to reserve one set for you, just the same as if you ordered it in person.

If you know you need the Britannica, but cannot go to the store, then tear out this "Reserve Order" form and send it in with your dollar. But do it NOW.

SEARS, ROEBUCK AND CO., Chicago, Ill.

Please reserve me a set of the "Handy Volume" Encyclopaedia Britannica, printed on genuine India paper. I enclose $1.00 as first payment. Send me an order form which I agree to sign and return immediately. cr- 83

SAYS LAMAR HID TRAIL OF RINTELEN

CAPTAIN'S STORY HELD BACK

Government Declines Proposal of His Lawyer to Put It in Evidence.

Henry B. Martin, one of the men charged with conspiring to violate the Sherman act by interfering with munitions shipments to the Allies, took the stand in his own behalf in the Federal Court yesterday afternoon. He admitted that he had received numerous sums of money from David Lamar in 1915, which he had spent in behalf of Labor's National Peace Council and in promoting other propaganda.

He denied that he ever knew Lamar's money was of German origin and testified that he did not let any of the other defendants know even that the money came from Lamar. Martin also denied that he ever knew, until after the indictment, that Lamar's money had come from Captain Franz von Rintelen. He testified that he had nothing to do with the organization of Labor's National Peace Council and did not know of its existence until several days after it had been formed in Chicago June 22, 1915. Because its objects were the same as his own and Lamar's, he said, he had joined the movement and spent considerable money to aid it.

Martin's testimony was important because, as pictured by the prosecution, he was the connecting link in the conspiracy between the two groups, one composed of Lamar and von Rintelen, who remained in the background and gave directions, and the other composed of labor leaders and agitators who appeared publicly in the movement. According to Martin, the members of the labor group did not know of the connection of Lamar and von Rintelen.

"When any of the other defendants questioned me as to where the money came from," he said, "I told them it was absolutely necessary that the names of those who furnished it should remain a secret, or that the Anti-Trust League, to which I had devoted years, would be destroyed. I also told them that men who had aided by contributions of money in exposures of the armor plate trust and other large corporations had been ruined by those corporations in revenge, and that it would be financial murder for me to divulge the names."

Martin said he had received money from others besides Lamar. He did not tell how much he had got.

Lamar, when he went back on the stand yesterday morning, did not reveal how much money he had received from von Rintelen. It has been proved that Lamar drew $18,500 from von Rintelen's account and von Rintelen has been quoted by a witness as having exclaimed that Lamar had cost him between $200,000 and $300,000. Lamar avoided answering the question whether he had received $250,000 from von Rintelen.

In an argument over the admissibility of some documents, M. M. Dolphin, counsel for Lamar, intimated that there had been "bargaining" for the testimony of von Rintelen. Albert Massey, counsel for von Rintelen, jumped to his feet and said:

"I want to say that there has been no bargaining whatever and that my client would not bargain with any one. I want all the other defendants to know, if they do not know it now, that my client, prior to the opening of this trial, spent two days in conference with the Government prosecutors and made to them a full and complete statement of his relations with the case."

Mr. Dolphin and Attorney L. B. Williams asked for a mistrial because of the statement by Mr. Massey, but they were overruled. Later Mr. Massey invited the Government to put in evidence the statement made by von Rintelen, but this offer was declined.

Ex-Senator Joseph W. Bailey of Texas made a brief opening address for Frank Buchanan, saying that Buchanan, in public speeches, had advocated a Government monopoly of munitions manufacture two years before Labor's National Peace Council had been formed, that no testimony had been introduced showing that he ever advocated strikes to stop the munitions traffic, and that he had resigned from the Peace Council before the so-called "strike resolution" had been adopted. Mr. Bailey admitted that Buchanan had received money for his expenses, but insisted that, instead of profiting by his position, he had actually paid money out of his own pocket. Attorneys Williams and Moss also made opening speeches for other defendants, asserting that there was no evidence of any violation of the Sherman act or of bad faith on the part of any of the accused, as they had publicly protested their convictions against private munitions manufacture for years before the war started.

The trial will continue at 10 o'clock this morning, and will probably run into night sessions, Judge Cushman announced.

NAVY YARD FIRE BEGAN ON SEIZED GERMAN SHIP

Stern of the Prinzess Irene Burned Away—Receiving Loft Little Damaged.

While officials at the New York Navy Yard were unwilling yesterday to give out details in regard to the fire in the yard on Tuesday night, it was learned that the blaze started in a pile of bedding in the stern of the Prinzess Irene, one of the seized German ships, and not in the receiving loft, as first reported. This building was merely scorched by the flames.

Sparks fell on the deck of the Friedrich der Grosse, another German ship, but through the efforts of the sailors and marines, directed by Rear Admiral Usher, commandant of the yard, this vessel was not damaged. The stern of the Prinzess Irene was burned away, but it was said the vessel was not injured otherwise, and that this damage could be repaired in a short time. How the fire started was not made known.

Marine Underwriters Elect Officers.

The thirty-fifth annual meeting of the National Board of Marine Underwriters, held yesterday at 63 Beaver Street, resulted in the election of these officers: President, W. H. McGee; Vice President, H. K. Fowler; Treasurer, H. Bird; Acting Secretary, E. G. Driver. Reports of officers and standing committees covering routine matters were made. The usual committees for the year were appointed.

STUART AND HIS SHIP BOTH STILL MISSING

UNIFORM ANOTHER MYSTERY

Comrades and "Naval Chauffeur" Also Pass from View — Miss Miller and Friends in Seclusion.

The phantom ship of the Royal Navy commanded by "Lieut. Commander George Ellis Stuart" when he courted Miss Katherine Miller of Flushing had not docked at any American port yesterday, nor had it been sighted anywhere on the high seas. Since he "answered the call of the Admiralty" on Tuesday evening while he was at dinner with his fiancée, and a British naval officer called up to have a word with Mr. Miller about the "Commander," his jaunty figure has not been seen at the Miller home, his New York hotel, or at any of the three clubs where he succeeded in having his name entered as a "guest."

Following the assertion of the British officer to Mr. Miller over the telephone that "Commander Stuart" was not in the British Navy, an investigation was begun by the Governors of the Broadway Country Club at Flushing to ascertain who brought the "Commander" to the dance attended by United States naval officers and army officers from Fort Totten. The American officers asserted that the "British officer" had been brought by a club member, and the club members recalled that the "Commander" had left his wallet with all his money at his hotel that night.

The friends who invited Miss Miller to the dinner where she met the "naval officer" on the evening of the club dance were not at home yesterday. Neither was Miss Miller in, although a brother who had come from an up-State city to attend the wedding was still at his sister's home at 253 Cypress Avenue, Flushing.

Neither the Millers nor others interested in the disappearance of "Stuart" have been able to learn where he got his uniform and war stories. His comrades, who wooed other Flushing girls, and his "naval chauffeur," who drove the limousine, have also disappeared. Nor have investigators been able to find where the "Lieutenant Commander" finished the dinner that he left so abruptly "at the call of the Admiralty" when the British naval officer called to tell the Millers to beware of their prospective son-in-law.

$115,000 FOR 45 HOSPITALS.

United Fund Makes Thirty-eighth Annual Distribution.

The United Hospital Fund of New York, formerly the Hospital Saturday and Sunday Association, made its thirty-eighth annual distribution of funds to the city hospitals yesterday. Forty-five hospitals received 115,000, which was 5,000 more than any sum the fund has hitherto appropriated.

The Distributing Committee met in the office of Mayor Mitchel, who is ex officio Chairman of the committee, which embraces Otto T. Bannard, Cornelius N. Bliss, Jr., Arthur Curtiss James, E. H. Outerbridge, Thomas G. Patten, and James Speyer. President Robert Olyphant expressed deep regret at the resignation on account of advancing years of the Treasurer, Charles Lanier, who has handled every one of the thirty-eight collections of the fund since its inception in 1879. Mr. Lanier will be succeeded on Oct. 1 by Albert H. Wiggin.

MEXICO GETS BRUERE AS EFFICIENCY EXPERT

Former City Chamberlain to Reorganize Departments of Carranza Government.

The Mexican Government, it was learned yesterday, has invited Henry Bruere, formerly City Chamberlain and now Vice President of the American Metal Company, to assist it as efficiency expert in putting its departments on a businesslike basis. Mr. Bruere left New York for Mexico on Thursday of last week, but his mission was not made known at that time. It was said that the position offered to him was entirely new in Mexico, and that his duties would be an enlargement of those performed by him in this city while head of the Bureau of Municipal Research.

Mr. Bruere won a reputation as an organizer while at the head of this bureau and helped systematize many of the city's departments. Since he resigned as City Chamberlain May 1, 1916, he has been Vice President of the American Metal Company, which has copper mines in the State of Chihuahua and other holdings in Mexico. The company, it was explained, has no interest in the work which Mr. Bruere has been asked to do by the Mexican Government.

Mr. Bruere received $12,000 a year as City Chamberlain.

HONOR LUCY M. GREEN.

Tablet Unveiled in Memory of Early School Principal.

GREENWICH, Conn., May 16.—Recollections of a bygone day were revived yesterday afternoon at Green's Farms, when a number of New York women assembled to honor the memory of one of the first principals of the first girls' private school in New York City. Miss Lucy Green, in whose memory the exercises were held, was, for thirty-two years the President of the girls' school at 1 Fifth Avenue. The old building is still standing.

The celebration was held under the auspices of the Lucy M. Green Association in Green Cottage, a resting home of the Working Girls' Vacation Society. A tablet, presented by alumnae and friends of Miss Green's school, was unveiled to commemorate the 100th anniversary of its foundation. The tablet, which was of bronze and designed by Gutzon Borglum, showed a medallion portrait of Miss Green.

The Hal Twelve

The type of motor everywhere accepted as the most powerful is the valve-in-head. The type of motor accepted as the smoothest and most responsive is the V-type twelve. The Hal-Twelve combines the two types—it is a valve-in-head, and a twelve. The result is smooth power. The car not only weighs 500 pounds less than other twelve-cylinder cars of the prevailing type, but delivers 20% more power as well. Closed car bodies by Leon Rubay. REDFIELD LAUDS AID OF MANUFACTURERS

But a Few "Business Hogs," He Adds, Would Like to Profit by the Country's Need.

MORE PLEAS FOR THE LOAN

Resolutions Are Adopted Favoring Higher Freight Rates and Opposing Retroactive Taxation.

The twenty-second annual meeting of the National Association of Manufacturers ended yesterday afternoon after adopting resolutions relating to the war and listening to addresses on various phases of the conflict by prominent guests. The resolutions pledged the loyal services of the manufacturers to the country, urged subscriptions by employers and employes to the Liberty Loan, recommended that the Interstate Commerce Commission approve freight rates which would yield ample revenue to the railroads, indorsed the principle of maintaining existing standards of labor during the war, sought authority for the President to suspend or modify "restrictions contained in Federal labor laws," and appealed to the Senate not to impose "retroactive taxation" and the excess profit tax as proposed in the bill pending in Congress.

William C. Redfield, Secretary of Commerce, spoke on "How Can Manufacturers Help?" L. F. Loree, President of the Delaware & Hudson Railroad Company, urged the granting of the rate increase now before the Interstate Commerce Commission, saying that it was necessary to prevent disaster to the railroads. He painted a sombre picture of what might happen to all industry if the Government failed to take wise action.

H. Parker Willis of the Federal Reserve Board discussed the subject of substituting commercial paper for open accounts and the employment of "trade acceptance and banker's acceptance as media of extending credit."

One of them expressed the realization of the manufacturers that harmonious industrial relations were essential for adequate national defense and indorsed the resolutions to that effect adopted by the Committee on Conservation and Welfare of Workers and authorized by the Advisory Council of the Council of National Defense.

The association also passed, as necessary to the maintenance of existing standards of labor, a resolution recommending that Congress authorize the President to suspend for the period of the war the Federal law requiring an eight-hour work day on all Government contracts and one urging the re-employment of those who serve in the war on their return to civil life.

A final resolution approved of the reports of the various committees of the association which were read on Monday.

Criticism of the Government was moderate and incidental in most of the speeches of the day, except for a short time at the morning session when George D. Iverson, Jr., of Baltimore, one of the Vice Presidents of the association, asked permission to say a few words. Mr. Iverson began by a general attack on Congress.

"In a time of stress," he said, "the American people can always depend upon Congress to do the wrong thing. Out of the eight Congressional Representatives from Maryland I credit one with having good, ordinary common sense."

At this point W. J. Kehoe of the Washington (D. C.) Chamber of Commerce jumped to his feet and protested against the speaker's words, maintaining that "abuse" of Congress was out of order. When Mr. Kehoe interrupted the speaker, one voice was heard in "Hear! hear!" but a moment later one of the delegates moved that Mr. Iverson be allowed to continue as he had begun and the motion was passed by acclamation. Mr. Iverson then said that he had not meant to abuse Congress, but only to show that manufacturers and business men had no voice in the Government because the wrong kind of men were elected to Congress. He blamed the manufacturers and business men themselves for this, saying that if they were active in politics a business-like Congress could be elected.

Secretary Redfield spoke of the "new and welcome sight" of men giving their money and themselves to the service of the Government, which he and his governmental associates in Washington had witnessed in recent days, and added that the Government had been embarrassed because of its inability to use all of the services offered. The Secretary added, however, that the "business hog" had been present in the persons of a comparatively few men who "would profit to excess by their country's need."

Discussing how manufacturers might help in the war, Mr. Redfield first warned his audience against "exuberant headlines" about the Liberty Loan, and added:

"We must remember that even the $7,000,000,000 we have authorized may be far from sufficient for all the work to be done and that the $2,000,000,000 now pending is but the beginning. One may rejoice indeed in the progress thus far made and be strong in the conviction that all desired will be done. But safety lies only along the path of such earnest, continuous effort everywhere as will insure the results."

The Secretary then appealed to the manufacturers to subscribe to the Liberty Loan and to assist their employes in making subscriptions. He emphasized the importance of subscriptions by workingmen as of value in cementing their loyalty to the country as well as in the money contributed.

"This loan," he said, "must be our final answer to the I. W. W. You can't get the holder of a Government bond to join the I. W. W."

Referring to production, the speaker told the manufacturers that organized labor had gone "half way" to meet them. He appealed to the employers to go half way themselves, and asked them to bear "to the limit of their patience" what, in normal times, they might consider offenses on the part of labor.

Concerning legislation, Mr. Redfield said that what had become known as the Embargo bill would probably pass, but that it was not designed to bring about any general embargo on exports.

Mr. Loree asserted that, while the war had brought great prosperity to some industries, for the railroads it had brought "a period of loss and a fight for existence." He added that the plight of the railroads would become the plight "of all dependent upon transportation" if the situation were not relieved.

WATSON ASSAILS PRICE FIXING

Senator, at Manufacturers' Dinner, Says He Fears Autocracy..

United States Senator James E. Watson of Indiana, speaking at a dinner of the National Association of Manufacturers in the Waldorf-Astoria last evening, expressed determined opposition to bills in Congress which, he said, would turn the American democracy into an autocracy. He asserted his loyalty to the President and Cabinet, said he was for the war, and would support every measure necessary for a successful prosecution of the war, but declared his right to resist legislation which he thought put power into the hands of the Executive not required by the emergency. Congress, he said, had before it proposals to confer upon the President more power than it had the constitutional right to authorize.

Among the autocratic proposals which the Senator said he had opposed was the Press Censorship bill. He also disapproved the present system of an "unauthorized" Board of Censorship, of which the Secretaries of War and Navy were members. The Senator acknowledged the honesty of those officials, but said that as they were human they would seek to prevent criticism of their departments.

He referred to the bill giving the President price-fixing power as evidence of the tendency to autocracy, and said that capital could not be induced to invest in productive enterprises if there was danger that the Executive would arbitrarily cut prices.

Concerning the war tax, Senator Watson opposed the pay-as-you-go policy. He said he would vote for whatever bill the majority put up to him, because money must be raised; but if he had the power he would raise only $1,000,000,000 by present taxes and add $1,000,000,000 to the bond issue, on the ground that the war was for humanity and would profit future generations.

The Senator expressed opposition to the retroactive feature of the proposed Tax bill. Discussing the shipping situation, he said:

SHONTS PROPOSES 2-CENT TRANSFERS

HEARING ON SURFACE FARES

Representatives of Other Companies Unite in Pleas for an Increase.

In opening their fight yesterday for increased revenues, representatives of the surface railroads in the city tried to convince the Public Service Commission that it had the power to authorize them to charge a six-cent fare, to charge for transfers, or to abolish transfers. The discussion was informal. Later the companies will present a formal application for the authority sought, and then there will be a series of public hearings, at which the companies will submit figures by which they will attempt to prove that they are losing money because of the high cost of materials and labor, the competition of the rapid transit lines, and the estimated reduction in the average fare from a nickel to about three and a half cents because of the transfer system.

J. L. Quackenbush, counsel for the New York Railways Company, contended the amendment to the railroad law of 1910 vested the commission with full power over fares, that the Appellate Division of the Supreme Court of the Fourth District had rendered a decision to that effect, and that the decision had been affirmed by the Court of Appeals.

Mr. Quackenbush said the companies "this commission doesn't amount to anything, as far as rates are concerned. You've got plenary power, and any action you take will be sustained by the courts. You have the power of suspending every transfer in the city."

Mr. Quackenbsh said the companies only wanted to regulate the first transfer. If they were permitted to charge for this the others that followed, he thought, would prove negligible so far as any advantage the companies might gain by charging for them was concerned.

T. P. Shonts, representing the New York Railways Company, said he spoke only for the surface lines because the Interborough Rapid Transit Company was prosperous. The expenses of the recent strike on the lines, he said, would not appear in any figures the company might present to show their financial condition. During the years from 1903 to 1916, he asserted, there was a change of only one-tenth of one per cent in the number of passengers on the surface roads. Mr. Shonts repeated many of the things he had said in recent statements to the public concerning the financial hardships of the company.

"We recognize," he said, "that five cents is regarded in New York as an almost sacred sum for a car fare, and it is only as a last resort that we ask for a change. We are going to request permission to charge two cents for transfers. That is the best suggestion we can make. It would yield us between $800,000 and $900,000 a year and go a little way toward compensating us for the loss we are sustaining. I think it would tide us over until a lowering of prices would save us from bankruptcy. We only want the power to go on living, improve our property, and remain solvent."

T. S. Williams of the Brooklyn Rapid Transit Company, in behalf of the surface roads in Brooklyn, said he had no thought of asking an increase over the unit fare, but he thought the cost of continuing rides had grown to be an abuse. He said that passengers ought to pay extra if they wanted more than one ride. Two cents for a transfer, he thought, was reasonable. He spoke of the increase in wages and the cost of materials, and dwelt on the orders issued by the commission for improvements.

Others who spoke were Edward A. Maher of the Third Avenue line, Andrew E. Kalbach of the Second Avenue line, and W. O. Woods of the lines in Queens. Concerning the question of appraising the physical value of the roads, it was said that many of them had been appraised at the time they went into the hands of receivers.

FUSION COUNTS ON MITCHEL FOR MAYOR

Committee to Have 250 Members and Work on Platform Is Progressing.

The movement to bring about fusion against Tammany in the city election this Fall took definite shape yesterday when the Executive Committee of the Fusion Committee, of which William Hamlin Childs of Brooklyn is Chairman, held a meeting and decided to enlarge the original committee to 250 members. Four years ago it consisted of 107 members. While Mayor Mitchel has refused to state whether or not he will be a candidate for renomination, the committee intends to go ahead on the proposition that he will not refuse. It was said that a formal statement from the Mayor definitely announcing his candidacy will be forthcoming in a few days.

A number of fusionists, including George W. Wickersham, Henry L. Stimson, Cleveland H. Dodge, George W. Perkins, Henry Morgenthau, Richard Lawrence of the Bronx, and Richard W. Higbie of Queens, called upon the Mayor last week, and while they would not disclose what had taken place, it was said that the Mayor assured them that he is ready to enter the race again. A sub-committee of twenty is already at work on a platform, and it expects to complete its work within a week or ten days. On this committee are Joseph M. Price, Chairman of the Fusion Committee; William H. Childs, Darwin R. James, Alexander M. White, Edward M. Bassett, George W. Wickersham, Henry L. Stimson, and Samuel S. Koenig, Chairman of the Republican County Committee. All are strongly in favor of the renomination of the Mayor.

Although the fusionists have not got down to considering the makeup of the rest of the ticket, it was said that the majority are in favor of the renomination of Controller Prendergast and all of the present Borough Presidents. Fire Commissioner Robert Adamson is being talked of as the committee's choice for President of the Board of Aldermen, and the Mayor is known to favor him for the job. When the time comes for the selection of a slate the Mayor will be consulted and his wishes, it was said, will likely prevail.

The Democrats got busy last night and arranged to carry on a fusion program of their own. Three sub-committees of the Committee of 170 to bring about fusion among all the Democratic organizations of the city met at the National Democratic Club and organized for action. The committee on candidates of which Henry R. Schittick of Brooklyn, is Chairman, decided to hold meetings in all the various boroughs at dates yet to be decided upon. At these meetings civic organizations and individuals will be invited to appear and suggest names of possible candidates and give their reasons for wanting them.

The Committee on Platform, of which former State Senator Anthony J. Griffin of the Bronx is Chairman, agreed on practically the same course in regard to platform suggestions. The Committee on Finance, with Phillip J. Britt as Chairman, reported that the outlook for money to carry on a campaign was favorable. Chairman Britt said he didn't think the committee would have any difficulty in getting all the money that would be necessary. It was decided to open headquarters in a few days in the Heckshher Building, 50 East Forty-second Street.

EXCHANGE TO AID RED CROSS

Brokers Move for Financial Co-operation.

Several members of the New York Stock Exchange applied to the local headquarters of the Red Cross yesterday for permission to organize what is to be known as the Stock Exchange Branch. This step has been taken in order that the members of the Exchange may make their efforts effective in co-operation with the financial side as well as with the other services of the Red Cross.

The application was signed by Graham F. Blandy and William J. Berg, and the suggestion was advanced that the Stock Exchange Branch be represented on either the Executive Committee or Board of Directors of the Manhattan Chapter of the Red Cross.

To The Public:

The dentists of Greater New York are unselfishly devoting their time this week to a program of widespread public education on the proper care of the teeth. They have worked hard to create among the school children of the city a consciousness of the duty all of us owe to our mouths. They are giving publicity to unpleasant truths—such as the fact that less than one-third of the people of the United States brush their teeth at all. They are preaching the doctrine that no human system can be healthy without a clean mouth.

They are distributing in the schools copies of a recent booklet called "Good Teeth; How They Grow And How To Keep Them." This booklet, barely six months off the press, is already regarded as the foremost popular treatise on the subject, and it was at the suggestion of the dentists that The S. S. YANKEES WIN LONG TUSSLE IN ST. LOUIS BY SPURT IN THE ELEVENTH INNING

YANKS' VICTORY IS DELAYED BY ERROR

BAKER HITS CIRCUIT BLOW

Special to The New York Times.

ST. LOUIS, Mo., May 16.—A fumble by the usually reliable Peckinpaugh after two Browns had been retired in the last half of the ninth inning prevented Ray Caldwell from getting a three-hit victory in the regulation period this afternoon, but otherwise served only to delay another triumph for the Yankees. Two extra innings were necessary, Donovan's men winning in the eleventh when Bob Groom's poor control and a single by Walters resulted in three runs. The final score was 5 to 2.

Caldwell really deserved a shutout. Up to the ninth inning he had allowed only one bona fide hit, but a fly was allowed to drop between Peck and Miller in the second inning, each stopping to avoid a collision, and this fluke hit, which went for a double, chased in a run. The other St. Louis run, which arrived in the ninth, came after Peck had fumbled Jacobson's grounder and thereby lost a chance to retire the side.

The veteran Bob Groom got away poorly, but he tightened up after Hendryx had opened the fifth inning with a single. Tim raced around to third base when the ball rolled away from Shotton, but got no further. From the time Hendryx got his hit until High opened the eleventh with a pass the Yankees played the one, two, three order to a finish. In six innings only eighteen Yankees stepped to the plate, and then Groom's control, which had been well night perfect, suddenly deserted him. He finally wild-pitched the winning run over the plate after passing High, and followed with three more passes in the final frame, two resulting in runs.

Today's game marked the reappearance in the list of home-run hitters of Frank Baker, the man who helped to make this particular brand of hit famous. The Trappe mauler has been aiming at the fences all Spring, but not until today did he succeed in dropping one beyond the bulwarks. He caught one of Groom's speeders in the fourth inning, with the bases empty, and drove the ball out among the fans in the right-field bleachers. For several innings it appeared that this circuit clout was to be the deciding factor of the game, but Peck's fumble in the ninth denied that honor to the home-run king.

The Yankees had runners on the paths in the first two innings, but failed to score. The Browns broke the ice in the second, when Jacobson worked Caldwell for one of his two passes and advanced to second on Marsans's sacrifice. After Johnson had flied to Hendryx Severeid rocketed into short centre field. Peck ran out and Miller ran in, Jacobson moving plateward all the time. Suddenly Peck and Miller halted, the ball fell safe for a double, and Jacobson scored easily.

Donovan's men tied up the game in the third inning. After Caldwell had fanned, Hendryx hit to deep centre for three bases. Sisler robbed High of a hit with a spectacular one-hand catch, and Hendryx was held at third. Maisel drew a pass and the double steal was executed successfully. Severeid pegged into centre field and Maisel went to third, but was left.

Baker opened the fourth with his clout into the bleachers, and then the scoring ended for several innings. Neither team threatened from the fifth until the Browns' half of the ninth. Shotton died on strikes and Austin singled to centre. Sisler's out, Maisel to Pipp, put Austin on second, and when Jacobson's grounder bounded out of Peck's hands Austin took third. With two strikes on him Marsans tried to dodge a wide curve, and the ball hit the bat and dropped just out of Maisel's reach for a single, Austin scoring.

In the eleventh High walked, Maisel sacrificed and Pipp was retired, Sisler to Groom. A pass to Baker was followed by a wild pitch, on which High scored and Baker took third. Miller and Peck also walked and Walters singled past second, scoring Baker and Miller.

WILLIAMS RALLIES AT END.

Defeats Amherst After Being Deprived of Hits for Six Innings.

Special to The New York Times.

AMHERST, Mass., May 16.—Williams defeated Amherst, 6 to 5, on Pratt Field this afternoon, winning by batting rallies in the late stages of the game. Carpenter did not allow the Williams batters a single hit until the seventh, while Young had only one bad inning. Munroe made the longest hit of the game, Dempsey for Williams and Maynard, Munroe and Cowles for Amherst furnished the fielding features.

MACKMEN RALLY TOO LATE.

White Sox Get Third in Row from Athletics by 3 to 2 Score.

CHICAGO, May 16.—Chicago made it three straight from Philadelphia by winning today, 3 to 2. Bush's wild throw of E. Collins's grounder, following an error by Witt in the eighth inning on Liebold's grounder, gave the locals the winning run. Lynn's Texas Leaguer, which went for two bases, in the seventh inning scored Jackson and Felsch, who had opened with singles.

Williams weakened in the ninth inning, the visitors scoring two runs on doubles by Strunk, Bodie, and McInnis, with Bate's sacrifice fly in between. Cicottee replaced Williams and checked the rally. Strunk's batting was a feature.

MAYS HOLDS INDIANS SAFE.

Allows Only Four Hits, and Red Sox Come Out on Top, 5 to 1.

CLEVELAND, May 16.—Boston made it two out of three from Cleveland today, the score being 5 to 1. Mays was very effective, holding Cleveland to four hits. He also drove in two of his team's runs with a two-base hit. Except for his three consecutive passes in the ninth he would have blanked the locals. Lewis's batting featured the game.

MISS GOSS VICTOR BY NARROW MARGIN

Miss Pollak Forces Match in Women's Patriotic Tennis Tourney to Three Sets.

After having battled rather successfully for two days against obstreperous winds, the women playing in the metropolitan patriotic tennis tournament at the West Side Tennis Club at Forest Hills, were almost put to rout yesterday by rain, which showered the courts intermittently and caused havoc with the plans of Miss Florence Ballin, who has charge of the event. By seeking out favorable moments three matches in singles were completed and progress also was made in the doubles, but the mixed doubles, which were to have started yesterday, had to be abandoned entirely.

The singles matches advanced three of the contestants to the semi-final round. The fortunate ones were Mrs. C. V. Hitchins, Miss Eleanor Goss, both in the upper half of the draw, and Miss Molla Bjurstedt in the lower half. The other semi-final round bracket lies between Miss Helen Bernhard and Miss Marion Hollins. These two had to abandon their match in an incompleted stage. Two efforts were made to run it off. The first time one set was played, and this went to Miss Bernhard at 6—2. Rain then caused a postponement and forced its unwelcome presence on the players again when they resumed an hour or two later, and the contest was finally abandoned for the day.

In spite of adverse conditions one match of sterling worth was played and it almost produced what would have been the most startling surprise of the tournament. The participants were Miss Eleanor Goss and Miss Helene Pollak. The former was looked upon as a pronounced favorite. It was, however, only by the merest trifle that Miss Goss earned the verdict, in a match that was played furiously through three sets. The score was 9—7, 5—7, 6—4, the most closely contested of any match that has thus far been played.

Miss Molla Bjurstedt in the lower half of the draw earned a semi-final round bracket without extending herself in the least in a match against Mrs. Theodore Cassebeer. The decision in favor of the Norse girl was 6—2, 6—3. Thus far Miss Bjurstedt has played three matches and lost only twelve games, an average of two to each set. The third contestant to advance to a semi-final round bracket, Mrs. C. V. Hitchins, defeated Miss Jane Rowson at 6—3, 6—3.

In the doubles two teams reached semi-final round brackets, both of them in the lower half of the draw. Miss Marie Wagner and Miss Bjurstedt experienced only feeble opposition from Mrs. L. G. Morris and Mrs. L. Spencer. The latter pair was hopelessly outclassed and fell by the wayside with the score 6—0, 6—1 against them. Miss Wagner and Miss Bjurstedt played excellent tennis together and appeared to work better as a team than they did a year ago in the same tournament. The other semi-final round bracket was filled by Mrs. Robert LeRoy and Miss Margaret Taylor, who triumphed over Mrs. Jack Anderson and Miss Howe at 6—4, 6—3.

The summaries:

Singles.—Fourth Round—Mrs. C. V. Hitchins defeated Miss Jane Rowson, 6—3, 6—3; Miss Eleanor Goss defeated Miss Helene Pollak, 9—7, 5—7, 6—4; Miss Molla Bjurstedt defeated Mrs. Theodore Cassebeer, 6—2, 6—3.

Doubles.—Second Round—Miss Helene Pollak and Miss Helen Bernhard defeated Mrs. E. Rice and Mrs. Ramsey, 6—3, 7—5; Miss Marie Wagner and Miss Molla Bjurstedt defeated Mrs. Cassebeer and Mrs. S. F. Weaver, 6—1, 6—1.

Third Round—Miss Marie Wagner and Miss Molla Bjurstedt defeated Mrs. L. G. Morris and Mrs. L. Spencer, 6—0, 6—1; Mrs. Robert Le Roy and Miss Margaret Taylor defeated Mrs. J. Anderson and Miss Howe, 6—4, 6—3.

DETROIT, May 16.—Washington bunched hits with bases on balls and errors by the home team, and defeated Detroit, 5 to 1, today. The visitors scored their runs in the fifth and sixth innings, Mitchell being driven from the box in the sixth. Gallia held Detroit scoreless until the eighth, when Young's triple and Cobb's single gave the home team its run. Twenty-three men were left on bases.

PENN BLANKS SWARTHMORE

Bennis Clouts Homer, Which Scores Light Also for Only Two Runs.

Special to The New York Times.

SWARTHMORE, Penn., May 16.—Penn this afternoon won the third and last game of the series of three with the Garnet nine, 2 to 0. It was the last game of the season for Swarthmore, depletion in the ranks due to the war being responsible for the cancellation of the remainder of the schedule.

Penn got her two runs in the second inning, when Bennis knocked a home run after Light had been called safe at first on Boughton's error. In the seventh Berry reached third, and tried to steal home on a passed ball from the pitcher, but was tagged by Carris at the plate. The Garnet displayed loose fielding throughout the game. CUBS KEEP UP FAST PACE.

Tighten Grip on League Lead, Beating Braves by 8 to 0.

BOSTON, May 16.—Chicago continued its winning streak today and strengthened its hold on first place by defeating Boston, 8 to 0. This is Chicago's third straight victory over Boston and its ninth victory in a row.

Aldridge started his first game and finished, holding Boston to five hits. Reulbach, starting for the first time this year, was ineffective. Ragan pitched the last inning and was hit often and hard.

Evers returned to second base, though not yet in good condition, and made two hits. Members of the Boston club today subscribed more than $2,000 to the Liberty bond issue, and Manager Stallings expressed belief that other teams in the league would take similar action.

M'ALPIN AND MABON SHARE GOLF HONORS

Garner Certificates in Lieu of Prizes for Low Gross Score in University Club Tourney.

The Nassau Country Club and the Piping Rock Club golf courses were flooded yesterday with a host of players from the University Club, who took part in their annual handicap tournament over the two links. Following the strict letter of the recommendation of the Golf Association, that prizes be eliminated from the tournaments this year, the fortunate ones came back to the city footsore and weary last night with nothing more tangible to show for their play than a scrap of paper which certified the respective honors which had been won. With these clasped tightly in their hands, however, they seemed just as cheerful as if pewter cups or gold medals had been the award.

The winner of the tournament a year ago, C. L. Tiffany, was dethroned, and in his place there arose two others to claim the honor of having made the best 36-hole gross score, D. H. McAlpin, 2d, of Princeton and Morris County, and S. C. Mabon of Rutgers and Ardsley, each with a card of 173. Lengthening shadows made the playoff of this tie impossible, and Mabon took the gross score honors by agreement, while McAlpin took the certificate to indicate that he had made the best gross for 18 holes, an 82, over the Piping Rock course in the afternoon. Mabon's card was 87, 86—173, while that for McAlpin was 91, 82—173.

R. H. Bacon of Columbia, with a card of 186, 26—160, took the 36-hole net prize, with R. W. Goelet of Harvard second, and L. A. Gillet of Yale third. Two more ties developed in sifting out the low net at each course. At Nassau F. A. Burlingame of Syracuse and F. H. Simmons of Yale were on even terms, with 81, and the same score brought about a tie for the honor on the Piping Rock course, W. C. Cammann of Columbia and S. H. Tyng of Williams each being credited with an 81.

QUIETUDE FINISHES FIRST.

PIMLICO, Md., May 16.—The Clabaugh Memorial Cup for two-year-olds was the feature race of the Maryland Jockey Club meeting today, but it attracted only four starters, with A. H. Morris's Quietude a prohibitive favorite. This daughter of Dalhousie had no difficulty in annexing the long end of the purse, winning in a gallop from A. D. Parr's Tickolette, which also had the credential of being sired by Dalhousie.

The summaries:

FIRST RACE.—For two-year-olds, selling, four and a half furlongs; purse, $700. Time—0:57.

Peeper, R. Parr's b. f., 102 pounds, by Peep O'Day-Meddlesome She, $14.10, $5.70, and $3.80, (B. Koppelman)....................1

HOLY CROSS BEATS TUFTS.

Single Tally Pushed Across in Fifth Enough to Win Game.

MEDFORD, Mass., May 16.—Holy Cross scored the only run in a game with Tufts today. It came in the fifth inning as a result of Ford's error on Maloney's rap, a sacrifice hit, and Bowen's drive. Tufts rallied in the seventh, but poor base running lost them runs. The score by innings:

NATIONAL AMATEUR REGATTA CANCELED

Championship Event Scheduled for July 27 and 28 Dropped Because of the War.

The championship regatta of the National Association of Amateur Oarsmen, scheduled to be held at Lynn, Mass., July 27 and 28, has been abandoned. This action was decided upon at a meeting of the Executive Committee of the association held here yesterday. Members of the committee from various parts of the country reported that amateur oarsmen were forsaking rowing in favor of military activity and that there was little, if any, demand for the regatta.

The cancellation of this event follows closely upon the decision of the Schuylkill and Middle States Rowing Associations to drop the Schuylkill and People's regattas, to have been held at Philadelphia on June 16 and July 4, respectively, and the Middle States regatta, set for Sept. 3 on a course unselected.

The decision of the National Association of Amateur Oarsmen, its divisional associations, and the colleges supporting rowing to abandon the sport for the present season at least virtually wipes out the crew regattas of the country for the year.

SUNDAY GETS BRUSH FOR COLONEL'S SHOES

Admirer Supplies Blacking for Evangelist if He Accompanies Roosevelt Abroad.

WILL LUNCH AT OYSTER BAY

Whole Sunday Family Accepts Invitation for Next Monday—Preacher Says Job Invented "Hot Air."

Billy Sunday based his sermon last night on the question "Is there a hell?" Then he proceeded to emphasize the reality of the trouble awaiting the one who tried to escape it or was willing to "take a chance," and said: "When a man kicks hell out of the universe he kicks heaven out also, for they both stand on the same leg."

Before beginning his sermon Sunday held up in view of the audience a blacking box and brush, which he announced had just arrived as a gift from a man up-State.

"I remarked in a sermon the other night that I was glad to know that Congress had consented to let Colonel Roosevelt go to Europe, and I would like to go along, if only to black his boots," continued Sunday. "Some fellow up-State read it in a newspaper and sent me a blacking outfit to take along. He sent only one box of blacking, but that's enough to last until we get to Berlin."

The entire Sunday family has accepted an invitation from Colonel Roosevelt to lunch with him on Monday at his Oyster Bay home.

An audience of 19,000 were in the Tabernacle last evening. When the "trail hitters" were called for, 952 persons responded, making a total of 1,221 for the day. Among the evening attendants were delegations of 2,500 from the New York Life Insurance Company, 700 from The New York World, 600 from three lodges of Masons, and smaller delegations from the Borden Company, the Corn Exchange Bank, the brake traffic department of the New York Central Railroad, the Hill Publishing Company, the Seventh Assembly District Republican Club, sailors from the Brooklyn Navy Yard, and a group of Atlanta business men, who came here to study the campaign. They presented Sunday a bouquet of American beauty roses.

Sunday said the doctrine of rewards and punishments was not distinctively that of the Bible, but had been graven on the records of every nation since earth's history began.

"Men will try and forget punishment, try to hide results, try to close his eyes; so God planted this fundamental instinct in the breast of every creature after His image," the evangelist said. "You can't buy it out, wish it out, hate it out, educate it out, or wean it out. How shall we escape if we neglect so great a salvation?"

Commenting on the common views held of hell, Sunday continued:

"The next man says: 'We get all the hell in this life.' You get some of it, but you don't get hell enough. The righteous suffer here and always through the injustice, persecution, and infernal work of the vicious. The sinner often has a high old time on earth, because he obeys God's laws as regards physical things, and God doesn't throw the universe out of gear to stop and punish one sinner or a million sinners. He has set a time when he will put the sinners off to one side for punishment, and at the same time those who have honored him will be called to 'enter the joys of the Lord.'

"The man who will not accept God's word on this matter has a small brain; you could put 10,000 brains like his in a mustard seed and they could turn handsprings for 500 years and never get a stone bruise."

In a defense of "hot air" conversation when applied for a purpose, Sunday said its original inventor was Job.

"Hot air is not slang; it is pure Bible talk," asserted Sunday. Then he quoted Job: "'Should a man reason with unprofitable talk or with speech wherewith he can do no good?' Job was the author of our phrase 'hot air,' and it means today just what Job meant when he used it. Job is the Mark Twain of the Bible, and in his sufferings he about exhausted the store of cynicism and sarcasm."

In his afternoon talk to 4,000 persons Sunday discussed the parable of the "Prodigal Son" and his elder brother, and he said that, while the elder brother was often held up as an example to children by parents and by teachers in Sunday schools, the prodigal was the better of the two. After a reference to the pretentious virtues of the elder brother, Sunday asked:

"Pretty picture, isn't it? But we'll have to spoil it." Then he declared that the elder brother was so selfish that he would have sent his mother to the poorhouse.

GOVERNMENT'S SHIPS TIED UP BY STRIKERS

Three Plants Are Helpless and Unions Threaten Larger Yards—Talk of Calling Militia.

CAMDEN, N. J., May 16.—Officials of three shipyards, one of which holds Government contracts for the construction of 15 submarine chasers, admitted today that the strike of carpenters, joiners, and calkers, now involving about 600 men, had virtually tied up their plants. Threats of a sympathetic strike at larger plants, including the New York Shipbuilding Company and Cramps in Philadelphia, were made by Union officials. The carpenters, joiners, and calkers demand a basic eight-hour day and 53 1-3 cents an hour, with time and a half for overtime, instead of ten hours at 45 cents an hour.

The strike situation is becoming critical, and the militia may be asked to aid the local police. At the plant of the New York Shipbuilding Company, where much Government work is in progress, there is a strong military force surrounding the plant. These precautions have been in vogue since the outbreak of the war, to prevent alien enemies damaging any of the work in the yard. As yet the men in the works, numbering about 10,000, have not joined in the strike, and the officials of the company insist there will be no addition to the strikers from their plant.

On the other hand, Organizer Ryan tonight reiterated his statement that he intended to tie up all shipbuilding here and in Philadelphia unless the demands of the strikers are granted.

YOUNG SINGERS GET CHANCE

The Society of American Singers brought up reinforcements from its younger membership at the Lyceum yesterday, and some Broadway managers joined those who took a look at the latest aspirants to public favor. Colonel Henry W. Savage was one who sat in a back row and stood up when the orchestra played "The Star-Spangled Banner" at the matinée. In Gounod's "The Mock Doctor," Isabel Richardson was a new and neat heroine, and Marie van Essen a most attractive and accomplished young nurse, while Harriet Behnee, the woodchopper's wife, who has been singing these two weeks in varied disguises, got in the program at last under her own name.

Last night's double bill repeated the Mozart operas, as tonight's will, the Donizetti "Night Bell" and dainty "Maid Mistress" of Pergolesi. Rumor has it that Florence Easton, who sings the "Maid Mistress," has won a contract at the Metropolitan next season, while Thomas Chalmers steps from the title rôle of "Mock Doctor" to a place in the same coveted quarter of the operatic world.

THEATRICAL NOTES.

The Washington Square Players' revival of Ibsen's "Ghosts" will continue at the Comedy another week. After next week Boston and Chicago will see the present company in the drama.

Robert Campbell has made arrangements to produce "Tiger's Cub," a drama of our own West originally acted last year in London, in New York early next season.

A cable received from D. W. Griffith yesterday stated that upon his return from the French front, where he has been taking motion pictures of the fighting, he would begin taking a picture to be used by the Government in the Liberty Loan campaign.

Claudius and Scarlet, who sing favorite ballads of other years in Ziegfeld's "Midnight Frolic," and Hans Wilson, dancer, have been added to the list of principals being assembled for the new "Follies."

Morris Gest has returned to his offices in the Princess after several weeks' absence on account of illness.

Forty-five members of Bronxville Engine and Hose Company No. 2 attended last night's performance of "Love o' Mike" at the Maxine Elliott as a compliment to Jerome Kern, the composer, who is a member of the organization.

William S. Hart is en route East from California, where he has been acting for movies for the last three years. He will arrive in New York today, and tonight and tomorrow night will appear in eight Loew theatres.

The Dolly Sisters have been added to the list of stars who will contribute to the program to be given Sunday night at the Hippodrome for the benefit of the United States Marine Corps Patriotic League Recruiting Service.

PENFIELD ESCAPES NEST OF U-BOATS

TELLS OF VIENNA AGITATION

Press Campaign of Two Years Against America—Submarine Attack on Rochambeau Confirmed.

Frederic C. Penfield, United States Ambassador to Austria, who has been recalled to Washington, arrived yesterday at an American port. Passengers on the ship which brought him, confirmed reports that the French liner Rochambeau was attacked by a German submarine on her last eastward voyage and narrowly escaped being struck by a torpedo.

Mr. Penfield is on his way to Washington. He is accompanied by his wife. In an interview, he said the ship on which he came was escorted across the Bay of Biscay to the Atlantic by a fast French destroyer as a compliment to the American Government.

"I was very glad, for the sake of all on board, that our ship was under escort through the danger zone," Mr. Penfield continued, "because the Captain told me later that the Bay of Biscay was bristling with submarines on every side. Seven steamships, he said, were sunk on the day we crossed it on our way to the United States."

Of conditions in Austria at the time of his departure Mr. Penfield said:

"I have plenty of information on that subject, but there are only two persons in the United States to whom I can relate it.

"Diplomats of the old style used to go abroad and sit on red velvet cushions and devote their time to attending social functions. After I went to Vienna four years ago I spent one year in putting America on the map and the other three years in a continuous struggle to keep it there.

"In the last two years not one word has been printed in the Austrian newspapers favorable to the United States. You know that the papers are supposed to be censored, and when articles and cartoons appeared in them reflecting on President Wilson I took the papers to the Foreign Minister and asked if he had seen them. The reply was that in a general way the Government censored the articles in the newspapers, and that these must have slipped in without the knowledge of the official censor. Then for a week afterward the editorial page, where the offending articles appeared, would be blank on account of the strict censorship exercised by the Government.

"Until the declaration of war between the United States and Germany I had to take care of all the belligerent powers except Russia. The clerical staff was increased to fifty, and the embassy was converted into a clearing house.

"I have no plans except to report to the Secretary of State in Washington, and am going at present to my house in New York, 787 Fifth Avenue."

Mr. Penfield said he had been told that when the Rochambeau was attacked on her last voyage to France her gunners sank the submarine and saw flames shoot into the air, but no other passengers on the ship had heard this. They said they had heard, however, that the submarine fired a torpedo at the liner without warning, and missed the stern by about 100 feet. If the Rochambeau had not been zigzagging at a speed of 18 knots, they said, she would have been struck. The gun crew fired eleven shots in the direction from which the torpedo came, but, according to these accounts, nothing was seen of the submarine. The attack was made ten miles outside the mouth of the Gironde, and in the excitement of entering the river at full speed the liner grounded on a sand bank, where she remained eight hours.

Instead of having the usual ship's concert on the westward voyage, Mr. Penfield suggested that some of those on board should relate their experiences. The Abbé Flynn, chaplain to the French forces in the East, spoke on the siege of Verdun; Captain Walter Lyons related his experience when the steamship Missourian was torpedoed in the Mediterranean, and several passengers spoke on fighting in the clouds and picking up the wounded under fire. The collection at the concert amounted to $900 for the French Widows and Orphans Fund.

Another passenger on the ship was William G. Gardner, British Consul at Paris, who is on his way to Washington to be one of the secretaries at the embassy. He was met at the pier by his wife, who is a daughter of James B. Regan of the Hotel Knickerbocker.

Kummer Comedy for Billie Burke.

Arthur Hopkins has completed negotiations for the appearance of Billie Burke in a new comedy by Clare Kummer. The play is called "The Rescuing Angel," and will be produced next September at the Hudson under Mr. Hopkins's direction. Florenz Ziegfeld, Miss Burke's husband, will continue as her manager. This will be Miss Burke's first appearance here since she was seen in "Jerry" several years ago.

CHASE PICTURE LEADS SALE

There was a large crowd out for the third night of the sale of the pictures of the late William M. Chase at the American Art Galleries last evening, and returns were $11,060. This brings the grand total to date for pictures and studio effects to $32,988. The sale will be concluded tonight.

One of Mr. Chase's own pictures brought the highest price of the evening, "The Music Lesson" going to M. F. Savage for $630. Another picture by Chase, which also went to Mr. Savage, was "In Italy"; it brought $310. "The Music Lesson" was a Shinnecock picture, a young woman in a black kimono at the piano, a little girl dangling a doll standing near. The pictures bringing $100 and over were the following:

HERBERT LEADS PIG AT FAIR

Composer Takes Pink One from Irish Booth at Actors' Bazaar.

As the stars made their nightly revolution in the orbit that is the floor of Grand Central Palace last night the parade was halted suddenly by the rotund form of Victor Herbert ceasing to move. This was reason enough for the rest of the marchers to halt, since the ample composer was in th evan, but what caused him to stop in his tracks was the sight of a booth all smothered in green.

"May the saints be praised," murmured Mr. Herbert, and even as he spoke his roving eye alighted on a pink pig in the parlor of the booth with the coleens and the rest of the Irish atmosphere.

"I dub thee," said Mr. Herbert waving his baton over the piggie's head, "Princess Pat—no, Eileen—no, that won't do, either. Well, then, Victor you shall be."

And tying a bit of green ribbon about Victor's neck, Mr. Herbert led his mascot away. Nor did he relinquish him during the entire evening, and everywhere that Victor went the pig was sure to go, and vice versa.

Last night's crowd at the Actors' Fund Fair was still bigger, and, what was more to the point, was more of a spending crowd than any other that has attended the Fair.

Ivan Caryll, Composer, Arrives.

Ivan Caryll, composer of "The Pink Ladp" and many other comic operas, arrived yesterday from Paris with his wife, two daughters, and son, to remain here for the Summer, during which he is to write a comic opera for Charles Dillingham.

Mr. Caryll said tht the subject had not been decided, so far as he knew, and that he was waiting to receive his instructions from Mr. Dillingham. He had taken a house until October at Ardsley, he said. Mr. Caryll appeared confident that the war would be over this year.

FIGHT FOR TAXES ON BIG INCOMES

tax rates. He estimated that if the surtax rate were increased only 1 per cent. on incomes between $5,000 and $7,500 it would add $26,000,000 in revenue. Mr. Fordney, ranking Republican of the Ways and Means Committee, estimated the increase at $80,000,000.

In advocating a readjustment of income tax rates Mr. Sherley said "this should be done to take the place of some things that will go out of this bill."

"What is going out?" asked Mr. Kitchin, the Democratic floor leader.

"I think the tax on second-class mail matter for one thing," said Mr. Sherley, referring to the zone system increases on newspapers and periodicals.

Representative Howard of Georgia gave notice that he would move to amend the bill so as to tax all incomes above $500,000 60 per cent.

Mr. Hill, a Republican member of the Ways and Means Committee, appealed to the House to stand by the bill as reported. He admitted the bill had its faults, but said confusion would result were the House to attempt to tear the bill apart section by section.

"I am supporting the bill because the Administration says it must have this amount of money and because the bill is a war time bill," he said. "I am a partisan Republican, but I give this bill support because it is an emergency bill. Democrats should do likewise."

Nevertheless it became apparent that amendments would be offered to almost every section.

"When the gentleman from Illinois, Mr. Rainey, stated that the newspapers of this country were grafters there never was a greater slander uttered," said Representative Young of North Dakota in replying to arguments that the newspapers and magazines should pay the higher second-class mail rates proposed in the Revenue bill. Mr. Young called attention to the fact that the newspapers were giving the Government thousands of dollars of free space in promoting the sale of Liberty Loan bonds and in urging enlistments, food conservation, and other patriotic measures. The Government, he said, could not buy at any price the newspaper space now cheerfully given to further the war.

"If the Government paid for all the matter it requests the newspapers to carry," said Mr. Young, "the newspapers could afford to pay first-class postage rates."

MAY REWRITE WAR TAX BILL.

Senate Will Take Weeks to Consider It, Says Chairman Simmons.

WASHINGTON, May 16.—The Senate Committee on Finance today discussed the war tax bill. Beginning tomorrow Republican committeemen for the first time in many years will sit with the Democrats. Senator Simmons said every item in the House bill would be "most thoroughly considered." This was regarded an an indication of the probable rewriting of the House bill.

"We are going to spend considerable time," said Senator Simmons. "I hope to bring out a bill with the unanimous support of the committee, including the Republicans, which would expedite action by the Senate."

A lapse of at least five weeks before final enactment of the bill was predicted by Senator Simmons.

Representing business interests of the Middle West, a delegation appeared before the committee and afterward visited Secretary McAdoo to protest against raising so much as $1,800,000,000 by taxation, as proposed in the war tax bill, and to suggest that the amount be reduced to $1,250,000,000.

The delegation opposed the retroactive features of the bill, suggested the repeal of the present excess profits tax and the substitution of a flat tax of 5 per cent. upon net profits, with an exemption of $5,000, and suggested tha the date upon which the increase in customs duties should become effective should be placed far enough in advance to give business an opportunity to adjust itself to meet the new conditions.

The delegation included representatives of the National Retail Dry Goods Association, the Illinois Manufacturers' Association, Armour & Co., Sears-Roebuck & Co., Marshall Field & Co., and 4,000 other business concerns.

CONDEMNS 2D CLASS ZONES.

Merchants' Association Wires Seven Seasons to the Senate.

The Merchants' Association telegraphed to Washington yesterday a declaration of its opposition to the zone system for second-class mail matter. In a message sent to Senators James W. Wadsworth, Jr., and William M. Calder, representing New York, and to Senator F. M. Simmons, Chairman of the Senate Finance Committee, the association says it is opposed to the zone system because it must inevitably result in:

"1. A revolutionary overturning of the periodical publishing business by forced change of location resulting from the heavy differential against or in favor of the West.

"3. The extinction of great numbers of periodicals.

"4. A great decrease in the circulation of those remaining.

"5. A great decrease in the profits arising therefrom.

"6. A loss of revenue to the Government which would otherwise be derived from the operation of the excess profits and income tax.

"7. The failure of the Government to realize the anticipated increase in postal revenue to be derived from the application of zone rates to second-class matter."

A Protest

A DETERMINED attempt was and is being made to keep the people of New York from seeing "The Hand That Rocks the Cradle."

The American people have never been complacent when anyone told them what they could do and what they could not do. It is foreign to our beliefs—to all our institutions, to our heritage of liberty. Intolerance has never made a hit in America. Censorship is an abhorrent word to our citizens. We were commanded not to show "The Hand That Rocks the Cradle" on the ground that it deals with Birth Control. We admit that fact, it is self-evident. But we claim, and so does every other human being, that it is a subject that should be discussed. It is of vital interest to every person. It is discussed; it is shown on the stage. The newspapers and magazines have been full of it; the legitimate stage has no difficulty in presenting the topic when it wishes. It is on everyone's mind and consciousness except on the screen. Now, why should not those who cannot afford to see the two-dollar show have an equal right to form an opinion on this vital topic?

GERMANY AND RUSSIA.

In any anthology of the best speeches of irresponsible Ministers of State this passage from VON BETHMANN HOLLWEG's address to the Reichstag on Tuesday would appear as a purple patch:

> Turning to the Right, he said:
> "You want me to say that Germany will not make peace without territorial and other material compensation. You" (turning to the Left) "want me to renounce any such demands. I absolutely refuse to commit the German Government to either alternative."

That breathes the perfect spirit of absolutism, the spirit of imperial disdain for the opinions of the people expressed through their chosen Representatives. VON BETHMANN HOLLWEG is responsible only to the Kaiser, and with firm adherence to the Prussian idea of the relation of the people to the sovereign he declared that they are one. Shaking his finger at the Right, he said: "Nor will I be threatened by you. It is my place to serve the German people, whose interests are those of the Kaiser." The interests of the people and of the Kaiser are, in fact, in violent conflict, since the people are made to fight and starve and die to save the dynasty and promote imperial designs, but the Chancellor could not have been expected to admit that.

He gave really a very good reason for not stating Germany's terms of peace. "Shall I nail down the German Empire in all directions by a one-sided formula which only comprises one part of the total peace conditions," while leaving the enemy Powers to alter their terms of peace at will? he asked. He had to refuse to state Germany's terms, however insistent upon knowing them the Socialists might be, upon the one hand, and the Junkers upon the other. Nevertheless, he has not escaped all danger. The Right and the Centre will support him—they can do nothing else. The Socialists of the Left, too, will for the present continue to support him, beyond doubt, but their temper is dangerous, their language is ominous, and with the increase of popular discontent due to privation they will become a greater and always greater peril to the Imperial Government and its war policies. PHILIP SCHEIDEMANN said in the interpellation that "if France and Great Britain should renounce annexation and "Germany insist thereon, we shall "have a revolution in this country"; and GEORGE LEDEBOUR, with even greater boldness, declared that "we "must soon introduce a republic in "Germany, and we shall propose that "the Constitutional Committee take "preparatory steps in that direction." LEDEBOUR is more dangerous than SCHEIDEMANN, who is under imperial control, is, in fact, an imperial catspaw in the attempt to bamboozle Russia. The Tageszeitung says that the Chancellor's speech "forced "SCHEIDEMANN to drop his mask by "threatening a revolution." He dropped no mask. He still wears the mask of the Socialistic brotherhood, which hides the real motive of his great interest in the Conference of the Socialists at Stockholm, to which, he says, 90 per cent. of all the people look with hope. But the conference at Stockholm has been so thoroughly exposed in its true character as a spider's parlor of the Imperial Government into which the innocent Russian fly is invited to enter, that the refusal of English, French, Belgian, and Norwegian Socialists to have anything to do with it menaces the whole project with failure.

The Chancellor's discourse was aimed in the main at Russia. He used just the sort of fair words, made just the specious promises, that might be expected to respond to the sentiments already expressed under German instigation by the Council of Workmen's and Soldiers' Delegates at Petrograd. If Russia wants to prevent further bloodshed and renounce all violent plans of conquest for herself, we, of course, said the Chancellor, shall share that wish; Germany will arrange terms of peace that will not disturb the permanent relationship in the future and will impede the development of Russia by no impossible demands which "do not accord with the freedom of nations" and would sow the seeds of enmity in Russia. The Imperial Government would be delighted to put all this into a treaty, if it could thereby secure peace with Russia; it would promise the freedom of the Dardanelles, it would promise anything, and then Russia would find that she was duped, as Belgium was duped by the guarantee of her neutrality to which the faith of Germany was solemnly pledged.

Yet the Workmen's and Soldiers' Council, which seems to be about the only Government there is in Russia at the present moment, has fairly begged to be fooled by Germany in just this way. No conquest, no annexation, all peoples to be free to work out their own destiny. It was a fatuous declaration, for even if she lost Alsace and Lorraine, Germany would be exceedingly well content to be allowed to work out her destiny through control of Constantinople and the privilege of carrying out unmolested the great designs involved in the Berlin-Bagdad project. That would leave Russia still wearing the fetters which for 200 years and in many wars she has striven to shake off. Conceivably there might be a desperate counterplay to Germany's intrigues with the Russian radicals, pacifists, and Germanophiles. If Russia does not want Constantinople and the Dardanelles, will not take them at the cost of conquest, the Allies are not bound to open any opportunities for Russia's commerce in that quarter. They might take Turkey for themselves, that is, rescue the shaky old Mussulman Power from German domination, with all its hard terms, and by promising Turkey permission to exist, with large financial help to sustain existence, they might deprive Germany of the services of one of her allies. That attempt was made before Turkey declared war, as it was made in the case of Bulgaria. It might be renewed now with better chances of success, for Turkey is spent and gasping for breath. The collapse of Bulgaria and Austria then could not long be delayed.

But Germany is more likely to succeed in Petrograd than the Allies in Constantinople. The loan of $100,000,000 to Russia by the United States is about the only hopeful indication that stands out in the Russian muddle. The resignation of MILUKOFF is more discouraging than all the other withdrawals from official service. He pays the penalty of being Russia's most enlightened and broad-minded statesman. Those are qualities which the profoundly ignorant radicals and visionaries of the Council can no longer tolerate, and, of course, the German agents have been unremitting in their efforts to dislodge him. Already the Socialists see that they have gone too far, they know that they have brought Russia very near to ruin, and now they are making belated efforts to undo their own mischief. They accept the invitation to have representatives of their own class take seats in the Ministry, which they first declined. But MILUKOFF resigned because his sense of honorable obligation to the Allies and his plans for promoting the commercial freedom and greatness of Russia run counter to the ideas of the Socialists, which involve a practically complete surrender to Germany. Giving Ministerial places to men of that temper merely paves the way to the acceptance of the terms with which VON BETHMANN HOLLWEG hopes to delude Russia into a peace carefully arranged in the German interest.

LIBERTY BONDS.

Too many are in danger of regarding requests to take a Liberty Bond as requests to contribute to a worthy cause. The appeal to national and world patriotism comes first, but it does not cover the subject. There is a private as well as public appeal. There are certainly thousands, there ought to be millions, who need Liberty Bonds in their business, or in their daily life if they are not in business, and who do not dream of it. Our currency and tax systems have exposed us to be called a nation of economic illiterates. There is equal cause to regard ourselves as a nation of investment illiterates. How otherwise have we managed our affairs without a national loan accessible to all in any amounts? How otherwise could we have failed to extricate ourselves from a babel of credit by supplying ourselves with a standard of credit?

There is a sense in which a national debt is a national blessing. The only sense in which our national debt has been a national blessing is that it was put to work to pull ourselves out of the slough of a chaos of currencies. We know now that a currency good the nation over is a national blessing, but we are still to learn how a national debt is a blessing to the individual, as well as to the Government, or to the banks which have been the chief owners of national bonds.

In panic times, or in precaution against such times, some are either wise or foolish enough to put cash into safe deposit. When they take it out they have the sum they put in, no more, no less. If they put Government bonds into safe deposit, they can clip off the coupons at their leisure, and have the bonds left, which may be worth more than they cost. If the conditions are such that the coupons and the bonds are not as good as cash, the conditions also will be such that nothing else matters. The worst times ever seen abroad are now. Everything has been commandeered except Government bonds. Gold has been demonetized in either practice or form. It has been forbidden to export it in some countries, and imports have been hindered into other countries.

Government bonds have had advantages over the best forms of other credit or actual wealth. Their ownership is a proof of patriotism and a security, where the ownership of other forms of credit or wealth is an invitation to spoliation or a reproach to public spirit.

Thus it is that appeals to be a patriotic subscriber to the Liberty Loan are also appeals to individuals to benefit themselves as well as to help their country. Subscriptions to the Liberty Loan are not merely contributions to the best of world causes. They are not gifts even to that cause. They are an investment in a security which outclasses all other securities, which benefits the individual subscribers in more ways than is generally imagined. The Liberty Loan is not only a means of making democracy safe. It is a means of benefiting the money market, domestic and international, and all who have any relations to either of them, in every manner that consols ever did, or rentes, or any other Government bond without which Government itself hardly seems practicable. No other nation of wealth and population equal to ours would try to keep house without more than the single billion of debt which is all we can boast of. That is not enough to go around, and invites countless troubles from which we are about to be delivered by the establishment of a standard of credit, of multifarious uses.

THE TWO MISSISSIPPIS.

It is an old belief that a man's name is a vital part of him. A magician can conjure with it. The names of the presiding deities of old cities were a secret on this account.

The name of the Governor of Mississippi is BILBO. It is a name of war. It recalls Bilbao of Spain, a city almost as famous for the temper of its sword blades as Toledo and Damascus.

Bilbo is still a word of war, a sword of flame. Governor BILBO has emitted a proclamation wherein he commands "loafers, slackers, idlers, and parasites to leave the State or take a "licking." Apparently, local committees are to interview the loafers, slackers, idlers, and parasites, and make them work, leave the State, or take a licking. "We propose," cries Governor BILBO, "to do things in "Mississippi in this hour of extremity, "when people tell us we can't raise "our own food." At any rate, Governor BILBO says things. Is he trying to live up to his name? Or are there two Mississippis, the Mississippi of VARDAMAN and the Mississippi of BILBO?

ON ALL THE FRONTS.

So far we have been sheltered from danger by the courage of British and French soldiers. It is to this that we owe the opportunity for that leisure with which Congress has been able to consider its preparations for a war in which we are theoretically engaged and in which we are ultimately to bear actually a part. It may be of interest, therefore, to glance abroad and see the present state of our defenders.

The British and French advance cannot be deadlocked in the sense in which that word was used for two years, because the armies are now out of the trenches and are mobile. They are, however, deadlocked in the sense in which that word was used before this war gave a new meaning to many words. The deadlock may be broken. But it might as well be understood that the deadlock was created by the pouring in of German masses of men and guns at the point of attack, as if it were the last wall, so that new troops grow out of the ground as fast as the old ones fall. This is frightfully expensive in German lives, but it makes a deadlock. The British and French are not going forward because HINDENBURG has plagiarized PETAIN's saying, "They shall not pass."

Among the ways in which the Germans have accumulated these masses is that of taking them away from the Russian front. Germany can do this because Russia has collapsed in a military way. Even if the Provisional Government should be saved, if the Council of Workmen's and Soldiers' Delegates and all the other mischief-makers should be suppressed and entire harmony and good sense should begin to reign in Russia, the first task would be not to attack Germany, but to work with might and main to restore and rebuild the demoralized, deliquescent army. It would be many months before the Russian army is again a respectable opponent for Germany, even if all disorder and division in the internal councils should miraculously cease at this moment and leave the Government free to devote itself to the work of re-creating the army.

On the sea the submarines have not been so successful lately as they were at first, but the difference is not enough to warrant any overoptimism. In Mesopotamia, on which we were so exultantly apprised to keep our eyes, there is a mystery. The British drove the Turks before them up almost to the point where they were to effect a junction with the Russians and complete the victory. Then silence fell, and scattered bulletins spoke, not of British conquests over the fleeing and disorganized Turks, but of British gallantry in resisting Turkish attacks. The Turkish army, which had been throwing its guns away to outstrip its pursuers, was on the offensive. Then it was learned that the Russian army which had been coming down from Armenia to join the British had mysteriously retreated, evacuating Mush. No battle was reported, nothing that could explain this performance, which remains explainable only on the theory that there is a Socialist General at the head of that army.

By stripping the Russian front of German soldiers—an act which shows perfect confidence on the part of the well-informed Berlin Government in the harmlessness of the Russian army at present—Germany has thrown a mighty burden upon France, which has just called out the class of 1918. If the disintegration of the Russian army should continue at the present rate, it will release still further masses of German troops.

By way of checking this threatening procedure, two offensives in other quarters have been ordered by the Allies. The one in the Balkans is making some progress, but thus far its importance is not great. Concerning the Italian offensive, it is too early to make any predictions or to say anything except that it starts off well. The situation as a whole is not promising at the present moment, and it is not hard to understand why General PETAIN sounds so urgent a call for America to hurry up; nor is it difficult to guess what would be the result for us if we were too late.

ATTITUDE OF THE TARIFF COMMISSION.

The new Tariff Commission had been organized and at work several weeks when the Ways and Means Committee reported to the House a tax bill whose tariff provisions were correctly described by the committee's Chairman as "the most unscientific and the most inequitable ever written in the books." It is this commission's duty to advise concerning legislation affecting duties on imports. Here was its opportunity, for it would be difficult to find in Chairman TAUSSIG's published history of tariff legislation anything more at variance with accepted economic principles and standards than the sweeping tax on all raw materials now free of duty. Surely this assault upon a free list of carefully chosen products and the foreseen effect of such a tax in many important industries must have excited interest in the commission. Did the Chairman and his associates have opinions about the proposed legislation, and were these expressed to the House committee?

There is no published evidence that the unscientific and inequitable taxes were opposed or criticised by the commission in what it said to the committee, but dispatches from Washington say that the commission's "first act," three days after the bill was laid before the House, was to recommend that the 10 per cent. duty should be made effective from the date of the committee's report, to discourage a rush of imports by those who desired to avoid the new tax. The commission is not responsible for legislation, but when its advice is sought, as it was in this instance, its plain duty is to counsel caution as to tariff provisions which are unjust, unscientific, and harmful to the country's industrial interests.

TOPICS OF THE TIMES.

That Battle Never Will Occur. There was a certain plausibility in the arguments by which one of THE TIMES correspondents, in a letter printed on this page yesterday, tried to convince its readers that before the end of the war—which he correctly assumed was the same thing as saying before the defeat of the Central Empires by the Allies—Germany would send out her entire fleet of naval vessels to engage in a gigantic and desperate battle with the British fleet. That battle, he also assumed, would result in a British victory, but, he contended, would have for Germany advantages so great that she could not neglect to seize them.

For one thing, he said, the entire destruction of her fleet would not injure her as much as would its acquisition in an uninjured state by her triumphant enemies as natural and legitimate spoils of war. Besides that, the great fight could not be won without losses of ships on the other side, and this diminution of the British fleet would be so much gained for the next war, for which, our correspondent felt sure, Germany would begin to prepare the moment this one closed.

This theory, however, though plausible, is not convincing. The first thought coming from reflection on it is that after the war Germany could make better terms with a "fleet in being" than without one, for when, or if, that fleet were taken by the victors it would count for something toward payment of her enormous debt to the civilized world, and to that extent save her from paying in something else. On the other hand, the superiority of naval force which has so long kept the German fleet constantly in port, except for a single disastrous raid, has been so much increased by the entrance of the United States into the war that in all probability, if the Germans did take the sea, they would be utterly destroyed by long-range fire before they could inflict any serious damage on their opponents.

Moreover, such a battle as was prophesied would cost Germany the personnel as well as the material of her navy, and even she, extravagant as she is in the expenditures of human life, would shrink appalled from such a loss as that, incurred for reasons of adequacy so problematical and hypothetical as those set forth by our correspondent.

Warfare Waged in the Air. People have been saying that war as now conducted has lost all of its old-time picturesqueness and the element of personal adventure, and has degenerated into a dull but horribly dangerous manipulation of machinery against machinery. But that charge is not entirely true, even where the fighting is done in, and from, trenches, for always there comes at last the time to charge, and then there is as much of excitement, as much of opportunity for the display of individual initiative and ingenuity, and quite as much of individual adventure as there ever was.

Then there must be taken into account the wholly new and enormously important branch of military service which has been created or necessitated by the realization of the secular dream, the ambition so long considered a mark of madness—flight. The aviators are the modern knights-errant, and no soldier's life was ever more romantic than theirs.

They roam the skies instead of field and forest, and singly or in small groups they meet their foes quite after the ancient fashion. What happens to them, what they do, and the cool courage with which they encounter the innumerable perils of their profession were magnificently illustrated by the description presented by THE TIMES yesterday in the article of BARTIMAEUS CADIZ on the work of the Royal Flying Squadron on the Belgian Coast near Zeebrugge. They use machine guns and cameras with equal efficiency, and they are the eyes of the navy as well as of the land forces on both sides. They are attacked from both air and earth, and at every moment while aloft their lives depend on a marvelous co-ordination of mind and hand.

Again and again, as in one of the episodes narrated by Mr. CADIZ, an aviator has kept up a battle in spite of severe wounds, and has managed to bring himself, and his observing companion, safely back to his own lines at last. It is no wonder that this service is so attractive to young men of the true adventurous disposition and abundant self-confidence. Its dangers are only added attractions to them, and its glories are irresistibly alluring.

Another Ruling on Royalty. Undiscouraged by the rather unhappy results of his recent attempt to reform—seemingly out of existence, though he denied that—the British monarchy, H. G. WELLS has ventured another effort in the same direction, but one that is a little more modest. This time he only wants to deprive British royalties of about the only definite and definable right they still possess, which is that of marrying whom they please in the only class in which for ages they have been accustomed to seek for husbands and wives.

Mr. WELLS says this must stop, or, at any rate, he says that British Princes and Princesses no longer can be permitted to select mates from among their cousins on the Continent. He considers these alliances objectionable because they involve dynastic relations incompatible with British interest.

There is something in what he says, but would he still further contract what might be called the area of search for these objects of his solicitude and force them to marry home-grown royalty alone? There would be danger in that —danger fully appreciable to such a scientist as Mr. WELLS.

Perhaps he would break down the established laws of availability and let his royal personages espouse quite common folk, provided they were British. That suggestion at least would be interesting, but that it will be followed immediately is something more than doubtful.

Foreign Enlistment.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

General Petain's excellent interview in this morning's TIMES seems to open the way to those who are really anxious to serve. It is evident that what France needs is men. She has the organization, probably munitions, and certainly experience. What prevents those who are ready to back their opinions with their lives from going to France and enlisting in the Foreign Legion, or in any such other organization as the French Government or our own Government may provide? Where there is a will there is always a way, not only from the cemetery but to it. Let not sentiment delay the sacrifice. Let the unit be the man.

HENRY METCALFE,
Captain U. S. Army, Retired.
New York, May 16, 1917.

The Death of Mr. Choate.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

In the death of Joseph H. Choate the community has lost one of the greatest and noblest men of this generation. During his long career he had been helpful in all good causes, giving freely and unstintingly of his time, wealth, and personal service which was so helpful and valuable. The world was better for having had Joseph H. Choate in it. Please let me express my deep regret in the great loss which we have all sustained, especially at this time when his country needed him so much. No better illustration of his unselfishness and patriotism could have been given than his sacrifice of health and energy, even against the advice of his physician, in the reception of the French and English missions.

ADOLPH LEWISOHN.
New York, May 16, 1917.

Edmond Charles Clinton Genet.

From a private letter.

We have just heard of the death of Edmond Charles Clinton Genet of the American escadrille, killed on April 16. His descent from Ambassador Genet and Governor Clinton made his death at that moment singularly touching, and it seems as if it should be chronicled and remembered by our people. Major Parker, one of our observers with the French armies, has just written us of him: "He was a clean, high-spirited man, soldier and gentleman, and died as such. He was a good man for the honor of being the first American to die under the Stars and Stripes in France."

TOGETHER.

In January, 1902, there were printed in The Independent, and reprinted in THE TIMES, the following verses by the late Alfred Austin, then Poet Laureate of England. They have a new interest at this time.

Who say we cherish far-off feud,
  Still nurse the ancient grudges?
Show me the title of this brood
  Of self-appointed judges;
Their name, their race, their nation, clan,
  And we will teach them whether
We do not, as none others can,
  Feel, think, and work together!

Both speak the tongue that Milton spoke,
  Shakespeare and Chatham wielded,
And Washington and all his folk
  When their just claim was yielded.
In it both lisp, both learn, both pray,
  Dirge death, and thus the tether
Grows tighter, tenderer, every day,
  That binds the two together.

Our ways are one, and one our aim,
  And one will be our story,
Who fight for Freedom, not for fame,
  From Duty, not for glory;
Both stock of the old Home, where blow
  Shamrock, and rose, and heather,
And every year link arms and go
  Through its loved haunts together.

Should envious aliens plan and plot
  'Gainst one, and now the other,
They swift would learn how strong the knot
  Binds brother unto brother.
How quickly they would change their tack
  And show the recreant feather,
Should Star-and-Stripe, and Union Jack,
  But float mast-high together.

Now let us give one hearty grip,
  As by true men is given,
And vow fraternal fellowship
  That never shall be riven;
And with our peaceful flags unfurled,
  Be fair or foul the weather,
Should need arise, face all the world,
  And stand or fall together.

EXPRESSES THANKS OF FRENCH MISSION

Hovelaque Issues Statement to the American People in Behalf of Viviani and Joffre.

SURPRISED BY ENTHUSIASM

One Regret Is That They Could Not Visit the South—French Purchasing Board Has Arrived.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, May 16.—A message of farewell to the American people on behalf of Marshal Joffre and ex-Premier Viviani was issued here today by M. Hovelaque, as official spokesman for the mission.

"The whole mission," said the statement issued by M. Hovelaque, "was deeply gratified for the welcome it met everywhere, and not only gratified but surprised at the universal enthusiasm shown. The trip was not only a most pleasant one, but excited an intense interest in all the members of the party and increased their great regret in being utterly unable to extend their journeys further. The welcome was everywhere most enthusiastic, yet varied according to the different places through which we passed, and we shall return with a feeling that in spite of the variety of local conditions that we encountered the sentiment was everywhere unanimous, even if its manifestations were different.

"Among many regrets there is one the mission particularly wishes to express, and that is that, in spite of its keen desire to do so, it was utterly unable to visit New Orleans, Richmond, and a few of the Southern States. It had intended to do so, but urgent business recalled it to Washington, and it has had to devote the whole of its time to a discussion of the different problems presented to it. The mission hopes that all the towns which so kindly extended invitations to it will understand that only considerations of an imperious nature could have prevented it from visiting them. It unfortunately had to sacrifice its desires to the common cause, and trusts that the same sacrifice will be cheerfully accepted by all those who expected its visit and who it has, to its great regret, disappointed.

"The reception everywhere accorded to the mission in the Middle West was beyond words fervent and touched us all deeply. It was clear even to a superficial observer that everywhere the citizens of the different towns it passed through were wholeheartedly in sympathy with the mission and all united in the common cause. It would be invidious to pick out any special region or town as having manifested its feelings in a more charming way than any other, for everywhere, from Washington to Chicago, from Kansas City and St. Louis to Springfield and Columbus, from Columbus to Indianapolis, from Philadelphia and New York to Boston and Baltimore, every kind of ingenious manifestation of good will was showered upon the mission. The memory that the mission will take away of its hurried trip through too small a part of the United States will glow in the recollection of all. France already knows what a magnificent welcome was accorded us everywhere, but we hope on our return to bring even more fully home to our fellow-countrymen a realization not only of the feeling that exists in America for France, but this feeling is as earnest as it is widespread and of a nature to inspire the utmost confidence as to the future action of the United States.

"One word more. Among the innumerable marks of generous sympathy none went more directly to the hearts of every Frenchman on the mission than the manifestation of interest in our orphan children we received in the form of substantial offerings, notably in Columbus and Boston. A check for $175,000 was handed to Marshal Joffre and M. Viviani in the latter place, collected by the local committees and by the children of the town and neighboring States. As Marsal Joffre and M. Viviani said, nothing could more deeply stir the feelings of all in France than this loving kindness shown to these innocent little victims of this war for the liberation of the world. All our hearts go out in gratitude to the different committees which are so successfully pursuing this admirable work, and both M. Viviani and the Marshal wish to express once more their deep appreciation of their efforts."

Captain Andre Tardieu of the French Army, a member of the Chamber of Deputies, has arrived in the United States with a corps of assistants to correlate the purchasing agencies of the French Government and take charge of the commercial aspects of French official affairs.

Other members of the commission who accompanied Captain Tardieu are Edouard de Billy, Deputy High Commissioner; M. Level, Food Supply Delegate; M. Gaune, Military Supply Delegate; M. Cablit, Transportation Delegate, and several attachés and secretaries.

The commission will take up permanent headquarters in New York after a short stay in Washington.

CAMBON VOICES THANKS OF FRANCE TO AMERICA

Says the Nation Is Satisfied and Honored by the Reception to Viviani and Joffre.

PARIS, May 16.—"The French nation and the French Government express their profound gratitude to the people and the Government of the United States for the admirable manner in which they received M. Viviani and Marshal Joffre," said Jules Cambon, General Secretary of the Ministry.

"While the warmth and enthusiasm of this reception is, in part, due to the personality of our delegates," continued M. Cambon, "we recognize also that it is a tribute to the French nation for the efforts it has made during the last month in support of the cause of liberal Europe, which has now become the cause of the United States. The French nation is satisfied and honored in being so well understood, and this event will add to the bonds of affection uniting France to America.

"Our people have received with joy and enthusiasm the vote of the House of Representatives upon the sending of volunteers to the French front. Under the present circumstances this is a considerable aid in showing that the alliance of the United States is to take the form of military support, in addition to America's powerful moral support already given."

Referring to the Russian crisis, M. Cambon said:

"If the troubles in Russia and the state of anarchy reigning there may be somewhat disturbing to our minds, yet there remains no occasion to believe we are likely to lose in her an ally solid and sure. The Russian people are full of resource and the apparent gravity of the crisis is chiefly due to the fact that the people have lived so long under an autocratic régime, deprived of all those means which permit a free people to support political agitation without being unduly disturbed. But as vigorous natures can more readily withstand disease than invalids, so one can be certain that Russia will not be struck down by this passing convulsion and that it will continue to play its rôle alongside of all the Allies as in the past."

M. Cambon spoke of the appointment of General Pétain as Generalissimo of the French front, saying:

"The nomination of General Pétain as Commander in Chief of the armies of the north and northeast and the succession by General Foch as Chief of Staff can have the result only of fortifying the action of our army. Despite recriminations and criticisms inevitable in countries of free opinion, the last offensive has given excellent results and some important positions. It could not be a question of diminishing the authority of any of the military chiefs who have participated in the offensive, but it has been merely a question of establishing unity between different authorities by changing slightly the personnel. The United States had experience in such changes of command at the time of the war of secession, and they will only result in strengthening the military action of France as they formerly served in the United States to accomplish the end they sought."

WILL NOT INSIST NOW UPON CENSORSHIP LAW

WASHINGTON, May 16.—The Administration probably will make no further efforts at present to have Congress enact a press censorship law, nor is it expected to insist that Senate and House conferées on the Espionage bill be urged to retain the censorship provision written into the measure by the House.

For the present the executive branch of the Government, it was said tonight, is content to permit the newspapers to continue as under the regulations voluntarily accepted by them governing publication of military information. If there are developments in the next few months that indicate that self-imposed restrictions are not effective and that information of value to the enemy is being published, the fight for a censorship law will be renewed.

Many Administration officials do not believe that such a step will be necessary. They say the only real purpose of the stringent censorship provision put by the Department of Justice into the Senate draft of the Espionage bill, but eliminated by the Senate before passage, was to curb a few newspapers, not more than 5 per cent. of the total published in the United States, which so far have failed to abide by the regulations which others have imposed upon themselves and followed consistently.

If the conferées on the bill agree to a censorship section and both houses approve, there will be no objection from the Executive, but it was said on authority tonight that no pressure is to be brought to bear to bring about such action.

Conferées on the Espionage bill will begin their meetings Friday, with the principal questions to be solved those of the censorship and embargoing of exports. With the Administration's influence exerted toward expedition of all war legislation, Chairman Overman predicted today that the conferées would require little time to reach an agreement.

ANCIENT MORTARS ON VIEW.

A Spanish Bronze the Oldest Specimen in Columbia's Exhibit.

There are over one hundred old mortars in the loan exhibition now on view at the Library of the College of Pharmacy of Columbia University. It is the largest collection of mortars that has ever been placed on exhibition, and has not only antiquarian but artistic interest, as many of them are decorated and carved with the art and skill bestowed upon utensils of common household use before machinery so largely superseded the work of the hand. The oldest specimen in the collection is a Spanish bronze belonging to Mr. Arthur of London, and W. H. Bustin's Arabic iron mortar is next in point of age. Spain, Portugal, and Italy produced the most ornately decorated mortars, a considerable number of which have been brought into this country.

The Dutch in the sixteenth and seventeenth centuries also produced large handsome examples molded in bronze. These were usually cast by bellfounders from the metal used for bells, and when struck they often give out a deep and musical sound, the alloy of the ancient craftsmen having been the result of much experiment and zeal for perfection. After bell metal was no longer used brass came into vogue, and some of these brass mortars may still be found in the families of Jewish immigrants.

The mortar had a wide use when compounds were largely prepared by hand, and the present collection is gathered from many sources. Enrico Caruso has lent a bronze mortar of the eleventh century, which he considers the best in his collection. There are two bronze mortars owned by Howland Pell, one a Flemish piece of the sixteenth century, the other dating from the seventeenth century. Dr. Fraser's collection contains a fine bronze mortar of the eighteenth century used by Dr. Cook in his voyages, a Dutch mortar said to be the oldest in the City of New York, dating back to 1565; a sixteenth century Renaissance example, and a Moorish mortar dating from a period before the Moors were driven out of Spain.

A rare and beautiful Persian mortar belonging to R. Khan Monif is placed somewhere between the tenth century and the twelfth. A fine seventeenth century mortar was originally owned and used by Merck & Co.; there are Mr. Spiridon's marble Italian, Mr. Villoresi's Flemish bronze, and Mr. Costello's Dutch mortars, and these with the others shown cover practically every known type. An old American mortar stone, used by the Indians for grinding corn, and the pestle with which the corn was pounded also are in the exhibition, which lasts until May 21.

DENIES FAITH WAS BROKEN.

Mr. Peters Tells Mayor Mitchel the Railroads Did All They Could.

Ralph Peters, President of the Long Island Railroad, sent to Mayor Mitchel yesterday a letter replying to the Mayor's accusation on Tuesday that Mr. Peters and President Rea of the Pennsylvania had broken faith with the city in not supplying a plan for the operation of the proposed Brooklyn marginal railroad, promised for January.

"President Rea advised you under date of March 21, 1917, as to the reasons why the matter had been delayed and in that letter requested your further indulgence in the matter," said Mr. Peters. "I am quite sure this does not indicate a breaking of faith or a throwing down of the project."

Mr. Peters said the original plans called for too great an expenditure for the trunk line railroads to undertake the whole thing, and that a plan was being worked out by which, through co-operation between the railroads and the city, the line could be built without any greater expenditure by the city than what it had paid for property for the terminal line.

"It would not be practical," he added, "to undertake the building of the marginal road now because of the very high price of materials, inability to obtain labor, and the great demands being made upon the railroads in so many other directions. I firmly believe, however, that ultimately the marginal road will be developed on proper lines under city ownership, and will be leased and operated by some agency for the benefit of all the roads."

TRIBUTE OF MAYOR TO FRENCH SOLDIER

"You Symbolize to Us," He Writes, "the Indomitable Spirit of France."

OUR TROOPS MUST GO SOON

Stars and Stripes with Tricolor Will Show World American Manhood Is Ready for Sacrifice.

In a letter to a wounded French soldier who had written Mayor Mitchel expressing gratification at America's participation in the war, the Mayor yesterday expressed the hope that the Stars and Stripes would soon be waving beside the tricolor on the battlefields of France. The soldier, Dussart François, signed himself "A 'Poilu' of France." His letter read:

"Grenoble, April 10, 1917.

"Mr. Mitchel, Mayor of New York:

"I have the honor to express to you the great joy which is experienced in France by reason of the decision of America for the civilization. It is now two years and a half that the Germans are in my village. I have had misfortunes. my wife had to flee from the enemy, our children are dead from cold and privations; my father died far away from me in an invaded territory.

"I am wounded in the vertebral column and since a year have been unable to move in any manner. Receive, Mr. Mayor, my sincere greetings as also the best wishes for your good health and that of yours.

"A 'POILU' OF FRANCE.
"Dussart François, Fourteenth Chasseurs, hospital complementaire de l'Aigle, (Isere) Grenoble, France."

This was the Mayor's reply:

"May 7, 1917.

"My dear Mr. François:

"The significance of our country's decision to join with the Allies in the fight for liberty, is beautifully and profoundly expressed in your moving letter. You, sir, have made the greatest sacrifice that a man can make for a cause. Lying helpless from a paralyzing wound, which you received in the defense of your country, and sending to us your simple words of happiness over the entrance of America into the great war, you symbolize to us the indomitable spirit of France, which, we are bound to believe, is also the spirit of America. I hope soon that you will see from your hospital window the Stars and Stripes waving beside the glorious tricolor of your own great Republic.

"Assuredly, your letter is as strong as any argument I have heard for the need of sending our troops to France as soon as possible, to show to the world that American manhood, too, is ready to make the final great sacrifice, if need be, for civilization based upon democracy. With cordial good wishes for your early recovery, I am "Very truly yours,

"JOHN PURROY MITCHEL, Mayor."

ENGINEERS NEED COOKS.

Ordinary Laborers Required Also for Expeditionary Force.

After a slow day Tuesday in the recruiting for the First Reserve Engineer Regiment, now being whipped into shape at the recruiting offices, 190 Sixth Avenue, the tide swung back again yesterday, and Captain John P. Hogan, in charge, is confident of getting the full quota of 1,061 men by the end of the week. He said yesterday that skilled laborers and craftsmen of all kinds were well represented, but that ordinary laborers and teamsters were somewhat scarce. It seems almost as hard to get a teamster as a cook.

The culinary department is causing the recruiting officials some anxiety. After reading Captain Hogan's appeal for cooks, a French chef, who was anxious to serve his adopted country, applied for enlistment through a mistake in the notice, at 190 Third Avenue. This is a German saloon. What transpired there is not known, but the cook arrived at the Sixth Avenue recruiting office a short while after still breathing hard.

The enrolled strength of the regiment is now approximately 600, but there are no cooks. Of all the chefs who tried to enlist not one got by the medical examiners.

No official information could be obtained yesterday as to the exact time when the outfit would be called into camp, but a definite statement is expected shortly. The only thing certain is that the engineers will be the first to go to the front. Little Elizabeth Whalen, the seven-year-old girl, who captured many recruits on Tuesday with her banner, "Don't be a slacker. See what my dady is doing for his country. Join the engineers," was on duty again yesterday, and refused to leave her post even while it rained.

A higher percentage of men who can pass the physical test has been found among those who have applied for enlistment in the last two days. For the most part the applicants are skilled laborers, who are able to display a union card, or a license to operate an engine, or other evidence of ability along special lines. "We have enough experts," said Captain Hogan, "or, at least, that is not what we need most. Any young fellow who can swing a pick and who has average intelligence will be a welcome recruit. And, by the way, no more efficiency experts need apply—we have all we want."

HEARING ON SECESSION BILL

Mayor Takes Up Proposal to Make Rockaways a City.

Mayor Mitchel held a public hearing yesterday on legislative bills affecting the city. The most important was the measure creating Rockaway City out of that part of New York comprising the Fifth Ward of Queens County, which embraces Far Rockaway, Rockaway Beach, and other communities in that neighborhood. A delegation from the Rockaways spoke in favor of the bill, which calls for a referendum on the secession of the district. Those opposing the bill were headed by John C. Judge, and those appearing in favor of it were represented by A. L. Latson.

The arguments in favor of the bill were based principally on the ground that the Rockaways had been overlooked by the city administration in the matters of municipal improvement, although these districts paid taxes amounting to more than $1,200,000 a year. The arguments against the bill were that large taxpayers who did not live in the district all the year could not vote on the referendum as their voting places were in other parts of Queens or Kings Counties. The Mayor did not indicate what action he would take.

The bill to amend the City Municipal Court Code to provide for two additional Justices in the Seventh Municipal Court District was opposed by Presiding Justice Aaron Levy and other Justices, who said that there was no need for additional Justices if the necessary court clerks and attendants were supplied. The bill to create the place of City Superintendent of Schools Emeritus for Dr. William H. Maxwell, for many years Superintendent of Schools, who has long been ill, was opposed by several civic bodies on the ground that it was class legislation.

Women's Activities Under One Head

A registration of all women's organizations in the city engaged in war work was begun yesterday by the Mayor's Committee of Women on National Defense. In a letter to Miss Ruth Morgan, Chairman of the committee, Mayor Mitchel said he thought more could be accomplished by co-ordination, and all activities will now be directed from the offices of the committee at 4 East Thirty-ninth Street. The committee will organize an employment bureau, listing all women ready to take the places of men called into service. A Committee on Nursing is taking a census of all nurses in the city, and another is compiling the names of women willing to replace men on the farms.

MISS WELLS, BRIDE OF J. S. BROWNING

MISS RETTA COLON WEDS

Many Attendants at Her Marriage to L. S. Pettit in All Angels' Church — Hurd-Platten.

The wedding of John Scott Browning, a son of Mr. and Mrs. John Scott Browning of this city and Sands Point, L. I., and Miss Josephine Bulkeley Wells, a daughter of Dr. Brooks H. Wells and Mrs. Wells, was celebrated at 4 o'clock yesterday afternoon in St. Bartholomew's Church by the rector, the Rev. Ernest M. Stires. The decorations were palms with boughs of blossoming fruit trees around the chantry.

The bride, who walked with her father, wore a cream white satin gown with a long straight skirt and court train from the shoulders. The corsage was cut square and was of old point lace, with tulle sleeves. The veil was a scarf of old rose point, held at the back of her golden hair by orange blossoms, and over the forehead was a coronet of point lace and orange blossoms with orange blossoms and lace forming a bandeau at the sides. She carried orchids and lilies of the valley.

The maid of honor was a sister of the bride, Miss Dorothy Pomeroy Wells, who wore a brilliant shade of orchid-colored chiffon and tulle with large hat. The other attendants were the Misses Rita Boker, Caryl Hackstaff, and Mrs. Talbot J. Taylor, Jr., and Mrs. George W. H. Smith of Providence, R. I., who led the procession. All wore frocks of pale mauve chiffon with rolling folded collars of light blue tulle and in the back a wide panel piece of blue tulle fell from each collar to the floor. The skirts were short and hung in full soft plaits with looped effect at the sides, and wide girdles of pale blue finished them. Their hats were immense flat affairs of ecru straw, the crowns wreathed with quantities of pale blue tulle and the wide brims bent at any angle that suited the individual wearer's face. All carried double arm bouquets of pale mauve Japanese iris and clusters of red roses.

There were also two small flower girls, cousins of the bride, the little Misses Elizabeth Mixter Wells and Louise Wells Curtis, in fluffy frocks of flesh-colored chiffon, topped by natural straw hats, with the backs turned forward over the crowns, and half wreaths of tiny pink roses outlining the brims. They carried old-time nosegays of lilies of the valley and pink and red rosebuds set in white paper frills.

Mr. Browning's best man was Donald W. Lamb, and the ushers were Frederic R. Coudert, Jr., Lawrence Phillips, E. Hamilton Campbell, Paul Hyde Bonner, Francis T. Henderson, and Francis M. Simonds, Jr. J. Berry Underhill, Jr., and Robert King Monroe, who were to have been among them, are in the Plattsburg camp.

Pettit-Colon.

The wedding of Miss Retta Clark Colon, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. George Edward Colon, and Leicester Sterling Pettit, son of Franklin Pettit of this city, was celebrated at 3:30 o'clock yesterday afternoon in All Angels' Church, the Rev. Dr. S. De Lancy Townsend officiating. A reception was held afterward at the Hotel Lucerne, 201 West Seventy-ninth Street, where the parents of the bride reside.

The bride wore a gown of white charmeuse draped with rose point and duchess lace, with a Court train embroidered with seed pearls. The tulle veil depended from a coronet of point lace. Her only ornament was a platinum bar of diamonds, the gift of the bridegroom.

Mrs. James Harden, who was formerly Miss Golda Carrea, was matron of honor, and the Misses Mary C. Young and Beatrice Eno Werhan were the maids of honor. They were gowned in pink tulle silver, with hats to match, and carried pink sweet peas.

The Misses Sally J. Pettit, Margaret Erskine Waterman, Ruth Hutchinson, and Lucile M. Price were the bridesmaids. They wore frocks of white and silver, with hats of turquoise blue and white, and carried pink roses. The young nieces of the bride, Eleanor and Katharine Meeks and Marion C. Rogers, acted as flower girls, appearing in frocks of white net and lace, and carrying baskets of pink rosebuds.

Franklin Pettit, Jr., was best man, and the ushers included Alexander Lyle, Jr., Ralph H. and George F. Schmid, H. R. Powell, Leon W. Slack, and Dudley W. Wallace.

Mr. Pettit is a graduate of Cornell, class of '14, and is Treasurer of the New York Structural Corporation of 103 Park Avenue.

Married at the St. Regis.

Miss Gladys Ida Platten, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John Wesley Platten of 587 West End Avenue, and Charles Frost Hurd, Jr., of this city, were married yesterday afternoon at 4:30 at the Hotel St. Regis. The ceremony was performed by the Rev. Dr. Edgar W. Work of the Fourth Presbyterian Church in the marble ballroom.

The bride, who walked with her father down an aisle marked off with white standards festooned with white and pink roses, wore a white satin gown with a court train, and a tulle veil, carrying a bouquet of white sweet peas and orchids.

Mrs. Arthur G. Weidenhammer, the matron of honor, was in gold colored satin with silver lace. The other attendants included Mrs. Hugh Coverdale in pale green, Mrs. James W. Proctor in pale pink, Miss Selina Sommerville, who was frocked in apricot colored satin, and Miss Barbara Chase, who wore a frock of palest blue. Little Leonora Weidenhammer, the flower girl, was in white organdie and carried a basket of Ward roses. Master Hugh Coverdale, Jr., acted as page.

The best man was George Abbott Brownell. There were no ushers.

Five hundred guests attended the reception, the couple leaving later for the South. They will live at 630 West 141st Street on their return.

DON'T MAKE THE SAME MISTAKE YOUR MOTHER MADE

Don't take chances with the health of your children and the boys and girls in your care! Think what it means to them when they grow up to have good, strong, white teeth! Good teeth mean good health and good health brings success. Think how much better teeth you might have to-day if your parents had known more about the importance of taking care of your teeth when you were a child!

You want your boy to be a big success in business when he grows up. You want your daughter to be strong, healthy and beautiful. Help to make them just what you want them to be by showing them how to take care of their teeth, mouths and throats.

The mouth is constantly full of the germs of disease. If these germs are left undisturbed, they will attack the teeth and eat them away—then good-bye to health. Without good teeth your children cannot chew their food. Unchewed food is undigested. That leads to stomach trouble and many more serious ailments.

There is one way to destroy these germs that bring typhoid, diphtheria, infantile paralysis, sore throat and other sickness as well as tooth troubles. That is to teach the children to use PRO-PHY-TOL, diluted according to directions, as a mouth wash every night and every morning. This is the mouth wash that U. S. Government bacteriologists have tested and endorsed as the most efficient germ destroyer—yet harmless even if swallowed. Brushing the teeth with powder or paste is not enough. They cannot reach and destroy the dangerous germs hidden in the back of the throat, under the tongue and in the spaces between the teeth. Pro-Phy-Tol Mouth Wash circulates around the teeth, the gums, the tongue, the back of the throat and picks up every deadly germ—and kills it so that it can do no more harm. Ask your druggist.

WILL TAKE BRIDE TO CHINA.

Lawrence M. Mead Marries Miss Eleanor W. Machado.

The marriage of Miss Eleanor Whitman Machado, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Jose Machado of Ottawa, Canada, and Lawrence Myer Mead, son of Mrs. Frederica Goodhue Mead of Plainfield, N. J., took place at 4:30 o'clock yesterday afternoon in the West End Presbyterian Church. The ceremony was performed by the Rev. Henry E. Cobb, pastor of the church, assisted by the Rev. Thomas Guthrie Speers, a college friend of Mr. Mead.

Miss Marjorie Benson of Flushing, L. I., was the maid of honor, and the Misses Angela, Cecelia and Theodora Machado, sisters of the bride; Frederica Mead, Gertrude Benson, and Charlotte McCarthy of Chicago, were the bridesmaids.

William Speers of Montclair acted as best man. The ushers included Joseph Machado, Jr., of Ottawa; John L. Mott of Montclair, John P. Myers of Plattsburg, N. Y.; Perry Dunlap Smith of Chicago. John D. Hayes of Princeton, and Arnold Knauth of this city.

The bridegroom recently returned from Hangchau, China, where he was engaged in Y. M. C. A. work for three years. The bride was a student at Vassar, and formerly lived in Plainfield. They plan to leave for Peking, China, in the Autumn, where Mr. Mead will continue his association work.

AUCTION WAR CARTOONS.

Patriotic Meeting at Mrs. J. Bulkley's Home in Aid of Aviation.

A drawing-room meeting was held last night at the home of Mrs. Jonathan Bulkley, 600 Park Avenue, under the auspices of the Aviation Committee of the National Special Aid Society, of which Mrs. William Allen Bartlett is Chairman.

Wise Wood presided, and Cosmo Hamilton gave a talk on "The Duty of War." Tyson Page sang patriotic songs, and Miss Janet Beecher recited several war poems. After the program, war cartoons were auctioned off by Newcomb Carlton, President of the Western Union Telegraph Company.

The committee is co-operating with the Aero Club in receiving funds, and recently contributed $1,000 for the equipment of the aviation corps at Bayshore, L. I.

Their Wedding Hurried by War.

The wedding of Miss Mildred Curtis, a daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William J. Curtis of 986 Fifth Avenue, and Walter Hughson of Baltimore will take place at 4 o'clock on Thursday afternoon, June 7, in St. Bartholomew's Church. The wedding has been hurried by the war, as Mr. Hughson will join the Medical Corps as soon as he receives his degree this Summer. Miss Lena R. Curtis, a sister of the bride, will be one of her attendants.

Avery-Bakewell Engagement.

Mr. and Mrs. Charles Irving Avery of Auburn, N. Y., announce the engagement of their daughter, Miss Elizabeth Pomeroy Avery, to Allan C. Bakewell, son of Mrs. Thomas W. Bakewell of this city. Mr. Bakewell is a graduate of Princeton, Class of '14, and will complete his course this June at the Harvard Law School.

No date has been set for the wedding.

Entertains Mayor and Mrs. Mitchel.

Mrs. Philip M. Lydig entertained last evening with a dinner at her residence, 14 Washington Square North, for the Mayor and Mrs. Mitchel.

Other dinner givers were Mr. and Mrs. Robert Olyphant of 70 West Fifty-fifth Street, who entertained for Miss Grace Oakey, the fiancée of Mr. Olyphant's son, Robert M. Olyphant, Jr.

$25 Value That Is Real Value

A man who saw an Arnheim $25 suit on a prosperous business man a few days ago commented on the style, fit and particularly on the material. Then he asked where he could secure a suit like it.

5,000 SEEK PLACE AT CHOATE FUNERAL

But Church Capacity Is Limited and Cards Are Issued for Only 1,000.

NOTABLE LIST OF MOURNERS

Bench, Bar, Universities, and Patriotic and Civic Organizations Will Be Represented.

The funeral of Joseph H. Choate, which is to be held at 9:30 this morning at St. Bartholomew's Church, Madison Avenue and Forty-fourth Street, will be attended by 1,000 of the most distinguished citizens of New York. The attendance is limited to this number only by the seating capacity of the church. It is understood that more than 5,000 persons have applied for admission, besides those who had intended to go without special notification to the family. The Choate family announced last night that, owing to the limited seating capacity of the church, those holding cards which have been given out by Arthur O. Choate, a nephew, in charge of the funeral arrangements, would be admitted first. It is understood that the number of cards issued will cover practically the entire seating capacity, but there will probably be a slight reserve of seats which may be added to by the failure of cardholders to appear.

Among the special delegations which have been supplied with seats in specially reserved pews are representatives of the Judges and Justices of Federal and State Courts, the American Bar Association, the City Bar Association, the County Lawyers' Society, the University of Toronto, the New England Society, the Harvard Club, the Chamber of Commerce, the University Club, the Merchants' Association, the Metropolitan Museum of Art, the American Museum of Natural History, Columbia University, the American Peace Centenary Commission, the National Security League, the Pilgrim Society, the Trustees of New York Hospital, and the Board of Aldermen.

The services will be conducted by the Right Rev. Charles F. Brent, Bishop of the Philippines, assisted by the Rev. Dr. Leighton Parks, rector of St. Bartholomew's. The honorary pallbearers will be Mayor Mitchel, Sir Cecil Spring-Rice, the British Ambassador; Francis R. Appleton, Nicholas Murray Butler, President of Columbia University; A. Lawrence Lowell, President of Harvard University; Robert W. de Forest, George L. Ingraham, Charles Lanier, Lewis Cass Ledyard, J. P. Morgan, John G. Milburn, Frank K. Sturgis, Francis Lynde Stetson, Charles H. Tweed, Henry White, and Assistant Secretary of State William W. Phillips.

Organizations to be Represented.

The following will be representatives of some of the bodies in attendance:

New England Society—Dr. Edward L. Partridge, Harry A. Cushing, Elihu Root, Austin B. Fletcher, Howland Davis, A. Barton Hepburn, and Francis Lynde Stetson.

Arthur James Balfour, head of the British mission, will be represented by his assistant private secretary, C. F. J. Dormer, as he himself is detained in Washington on war business. Other representatives of Great Britain will be Sir Cecil Spring-Rice, Ambassador, and Commodore Guy Gaunt, Naval Attaché.

The Harvard Club of Boston sent the following telegram of condolence to the family: "The Harvard Club of Boston sends you its deepest sympathy. The university mourns the loss of one of her most beloved sons and the country of one of its most honored citizens."

Tribute from London's Pilgrims.

George T. Wilson, Chairman of the Executive Committee of the Pilgrims, of which society Mr. Choate was President, received the following cablegram from Harry Brittain, Chairman of the Pilgrims of London:

"A great American gentleman, an outstanding personality, patriot full of years and honors has crossed the bar. Those of us who knew and loved Joseph Choate have lost an ever-genial and kindly friend, the like of whom we shall never meet again. To Pilgrims on either side of the Atlantic the loss is an overwhelming one. We welcomed him as American Ambassador to England and always had his sure and stanch support. On his return he took the lead among the Pilgrims of America, who mourn today the passing of a fearless and beloved chief, life-long friend of England, and never-failing champion of liberty. He lived, thank God, to see the day on which his mighty nation drew the sword for the cause of democracy and freedom."

The resolutions adopted by the Board of Directors of the New England Society in the City of New York said in part: "Full of honors gladly granted to the sturdy patriot, the devoted public servant, and to the end the happy warrior for justice and right, one of his most cherished associations of early manhood was that which led to his election to the Presidency of the New England Society in the City of New York at the age of 35. Never before has the Board of Officers been called upon to record the death of one of its ex-Presidents a half century after his election. * * * His repeated advice to younger men coming from New England was that, of two things to attain, one should be membership in the New England Society. Having in mind his vital part in the history of our society, and not unmindful of his gradual growth in power and service until he became the first citizen of New York, the Board of Officers places on record its sense of the great loss to the nation, no less than to the city, of this noblest Roman of them all, who may be fittingly described, as was one of the nation's leaders of the eighteenth century, as 'an honest patriot, a true New England man.'"

The Friends of Young Artists, an organization of which Mr. Choate was one of the founders, sent last night a wreath of red and white roses to the Choate home. The wreath was purchased by contributions from young artists all over the country under the arrangement of Mrs. Harry Payne Whitney.

Children to Escort Body to Grave.

STOCKBRIDGE, Mass., May 16.—All business here will be suspended and public schools will be closed tomorrow afternoon on the arrival of the body of Joseph H. Choate. School children and citizens of Stockbridge will meet at the Town Hall and escort the body to Naumkeag, Mr. Choate's country estate, where, in the family plot, the burial service will be held.

The Rev. George G. Morrill, rector of St. Paul's Church of this village, will read the committal service of the Episcopal Church at the grave.

KING MOURNS CHOATE.

George V. Sends Condolences to Widow—British Judges Pay Tribute

Mrs. Choate yesterday afternoon received the following cablegram of condolence from George V. of England:

"The Queen and I are much distressed to hear of the sudden death of Mr. Choate, whom we knew so well and regarded with a strong feeling of friendship and respect. My people will join with me in mourning the loss of your husband, who always proved himself to be a true friend to my country."

The Duke of Connaught, uncle of King George and former Governor General of Canada, cabled:

"Accept the deepest sympathy of my daughter and myself."

LONDON, May 16.—All the Judges of the higher courts gathered in the King's Bench Division this morning to pay respect to the memory of Joseph H. Choate. Viscount Reading, Lord Chief Justice, who presided, paid an eloquent tribute to the distinguished American.

Mr. Choate, the Lord Chief Justice said, was a lawyer above everything. He was cradled in the law, loved his profession, and his thoughts were influenced by the study of the law. He was not only an American lawyer, but a Bencher of the Middle Temple. He also was a great Ambassador and one of the most distinguished citizens of the United States. The Judges remembered him, Viscount Reading continued, as one who was graceful and eloquent in his orations and dignified and lofty in his more serious utterances. He had charm and humor in his lighter efforts, and throughout all there could always be traced one great ideal—"co-operation between our two nations."

The Lord Chief Justice added that in 1915 when the Anglo-French mission went to America no one man did more to assist in its success than did Mr. Choate, and when his powerful voice was lifted in New York it was not surprising that the mission was successful.

"For his family, let us hope," Viscount Reading concluded, "it will be a consolation to reflect that he lived up to the moment of seeing the success of his great ideal, and not only that he lived to see the realization of this ideal, but that he died in the efforts he was making to bring it to perfection."

Sir Frederick E. Smith, the Attorney General, associated the bar with what Viscount Reading had said. "It is a great comfort for us to remember," he declared, "that in a neutral world where we sometimes thought our cause met with less sympathy than we hoped it deserved over in America his tongue, so persuasive, so powerful, and influential, was unceasingly exercised in strengthening our case before the world. His name will long be remembered in America and it will be cherished no less tenaciously in England."

President Sends Condolences.

WASHINGTON, May 16.—President Wilson today sent the following letter to Mrs. Choate:

"My Dear Mrs. Choate: May I not join in expressing what I believe to be the grief of the whole nation at the death of your honored and distinguished husband. The news of it came as a great shock to me, and I wish to convey to you my most heartfelt sympathy. Cordially and sincerely yours,

"WOODROW WILSON."

Ex-Congressman Ernest F. Acheson

PITTSBURGH, Penn., May 16.—Ernest F. Acheson, former Congressman from Pennsylvania, died today at his home in Washington in his sixty-second year. Mr. Acheson served fourteen years in Congress and retired four years ago.

Before going to Congress Mr. Acheson was owner and editor of The Washington (Penn.) Daily Observer and The Daily Reporter of Washington for thirty-five years. STARS AID FRENCH RELIEF.

Mrs. Langtry, Blanche Bates, and Rothier Appear in Cabaret.

A large assembly attended the cabaret held yesterday afternoon at the Palais Royal, Broadway and Forty-eighth Street, in aid of the American Fund for French Wounded, which is to apply the proceeds to the immediate relief of the devastated regions of France.

General dancing was sandwiched between the numbers of the program. Mrs. Langtry recited "Verdun," and responded to an encore. Miss Blanche Bates talked on women's service in the war, and finished with "The Battle Hymn of the Republic."

Itow, the Japanese dancer, who looks as if he had just stepped out of an old-time Japanese print, appeared to advantage in two Japanese dances, while Miss Cynthia Perot and John Murray Anderson struck a modern note in a group of dances after Chopin and MacDowell. In a dance called "L'Entente," Miss Perot appeared in a costume that could be changed instantaneously to represent the different allied countries. Leon Rothier sang the "Marseillaise," and George Harris, Jr., and Henri Tussenbroek were also on the program.

Among the boxholders were Mrs. August Belmont, Mrs. Philip M. Lydig, Mrs. George J. Gould, Mrs. Edward Dunham, Mrs. Edward N. Breitung, Mrs. Charles D. Halsey, and Mrs. Isaac Johnson. Others present included Mrs. Ethelbert Nevin, Mrs. Alfred Wagstaff, Jr., Miss Maude Wetmore, Mrs. Shepard Krech, and the Misses Susan Watson, Kitty and Dolly Kimball, Gabrielle Gourd, and Henriette Buckler.

STENGEL BURIAL TOMORROW

P. D. Cravath, H. H. Flagler, and Paderewski Among Pall Bearers.

Funeral services for Guillaume Stengel, husband of Marcella Sembrich, the singer, will be held tomorrow morning, at 10:30 o'clock, at the Church of St. Mary the Virgin, 139 West Forty-sixth Street. There will be a temporary interment in the family vault of Mme. Sembrich's friend, Miss Mary R. Callender, at Woodlawn, and the body will be taken to Mr. Stengel's former home in Europe after the war.

Twenty honorary pallbearers will assist at the church, among those who have accepted being Paul D. Cravath, H. H. Flagler, William Proctor, Andre de Coppet, Ignace Paderewski, Antonio Scotti, Frank La Forge, Adolfo Betti, Giulio Gatti-Casazza, Harold Bauer, Richard Aldrich, Roland Knoedler, W. J. Henderson, Alexander Lambert, H. E. Krehbiel, and Ernest Schelling. At the church twenty seats will be reserved for friends.

Mr. Stengel died on Tuesday at his apartments at the Hotel Gotham after an illness of two weeks, during which three operations were performed for blood poisoning due to a slight carbuncle on the lip. The friends of the musician and of Mme. Sembrich filled the rooms at the Gotham with flowers today, and many expressions of sympathy were received from artists and acquaintances both in this country and abroad.

Joseph Goetz.

Joseph Goetz, President of the Hebrew Benevolent and Orphan Asylum and the Temple B'nai Jeshurun of Newark, N. J., died at his home there yesterday, in his seventieth year. CHOATE.—The Board of Directors of the New York County Lawyers' Association at a meeting held on May 16, 1917, resolved to place upon its minutes the following:

The death of Joseph Hodges Choate, jurist and statesman, former president of this Association and at the time of his demise one of its Board of Directors, brings to every member a sense of personal grief.

There is no need to enlarge here upon the great attainments of Mr. Choate as a lawyer. The world knows and recognizes them. Nor need we repeat his public achievements. They are a part of the history of our times. We desire rather to express our appreciation of him as our associate and friend.

A moving spirit in organizing the powerful Association of the Bar of the City of New York in 1869 which purged the Bench of then prevalent corruption, he lived to express later his joy also in the work of the New York County Lawyers' Association which, at its dinner tendered to Mr. Root, he styled, "The great democratic Bar Association of America." He was for two years its president. During that time he gave to the duties of the office his devoted services. He made the annual dinners at which he presided scenes of delight, the memories of which will endure; and at one of them he received as our guest that great student of American institutions, Ambassador Bryce, an occasion upon which were brought together two men whose diplomatic careers have endeared each of them to the people he represented and the people to whom he was accredited.

The shelves of our library preserve remembrance of him in donations made to it from his personal collection.

He was Chairman of the Association's Committee on Constitutional Convention in 1914 and from the wealth of his learning on constitutional subjects as well as from the experience which he derived as President of the Constitutional Convention of 1894, he rendered valuable service.

Full of years and honors, the close of his life was in accord with all that had preceded it. Every one of us is the richer because privileged to live while Joseph Hodges Choate was among us.

MORGAN J. O'BRIEN, President.
ABRAM J. ROSE, Secretary.

CHOATE.—The members of the Board of Directors of the German American Insurance Company of New York, of which Mr. Joseph H. Choate was a charter member, having served continuously since 1872, deeply regret the sad occurrence of his sudden passing away and extend their profound sympathy to his family in its bereavement.

CHOATE.—The National Institute of Social Sciences announces with sincere regret the death on May 14, 1917, of Joseph H. Choate, a Vice President of the Institute.

IRVING FISHER, President.
ERLA RODAKIEWICZ, Secretary.

Died.

CHOATE.—At a special meeting of the Executive Committee of The Association of the Bar of the City of New York, held on the 16th day of May, 1917, it was Resolved, The Association of the Bar of the City of New York desires to express its deep grief at the irreparable loss which the Bar of New York has suffered in the death of Joseph H. Choate. Mr. Choate's life was essentially that of a lawyer. His interest was deeply centred in his profession, and he gave unsparingly to elevate and ennoble it. It was not only as the leader of the bar, but as the personal friend of every member of the profession, and as foremost in service to the city, State, and nation, that he was loved and esteemed. Mr. Choate was one of those who signed the call which resulted in the organization of this association, was its President and life-long friend.

The former Presidents of the association, the President, the Vice Presidents, and other officers, and the Chairmen of the Executive Committee and of the Judiciary Committee are hereby appointed to represent the association at his funeral.

The committee is requested to meet at the rooms of the association promptly on May 17 at 9 A. M.

CHARLES H. STRONG,
Secretary.

In Memoriam.

IN LOVING MEMORY OF
WILLIAM H. POWELL.

A year ago today he passed.
"His light went out," they say,
Who speak, as is the common vogue,
Expressing Nature's way;
But they are wrong, unwittingly,
Because his light so shone
On all who loved the light, and needed it
As still to shine and still his own.

WOOL MARKET IS ACTIVE.

Government Buying Is the Feature of the Week's Trading.

Special to The New York Times.

BOSTON, May 16.—The American Wool and Cotton Reporter will say tomorrow:

"Buying for Government contracts of wools of medium grade was the outstanding feature of the week. Large lines of lambs have been sold in large lots. More attention has been paid to worsted wools. Top business was good, tempered somewhat by manufacturing productive capacity of combs. Wool continues very strong and active.

"Indications for cotton still remain bullish. The South is still encouraged to hold cotton, and there is always the possibility that exports will be increased. In Fall River there has been a demand for spot cotton, presumably brought about by the big orders from the United States Government. Many feel that 25 cent cotton will be reached.

"The woolen goods market is not active at present, but the situation is much better and the market is strong. Until buyers realize that there is a shortage, the market is not likely to appear very active.

"The cotton goods market is in a very uncertain position. Buying by a great many houses, at least for gray goods, has absolutely stopped."

WOOLEN GOODS EXCHANGE.

Members Told Its Value Will Be More Apparent In Future.

Speaking yesterday at the annual meeting of the Woolen Goods Exchange, Nathaniel Stevens, President of the organization for the interchange of trade information and prices, predicted that when prices began to recede the Exchange would be found of incalculable value to the members. He said:

"During the last year, prices have been rising, but the time will inevitably come when hesitation and reaction will be felt in the trade. Organizations like this Exchange have long existed in other industries, and it has always been found that they showed their maximum benefits in periods of halting or declining business.

"It is on such an occasion as that that our Exchange will most abundantly justify itself by enabling its members to act calmly and deliberately in the light of the fullest obtainable knowledge of actual market conditions, restraining the panicky tendencies which are liable to develop at such a time. In other words, the Exchange will then prove to be a very powerful steadying influence, to the advantage of all concerned."

Mr. Stevens said that the patriotism shown by the woolen manufacturers in the present national crisis, as exemplified in their earnest desire to meet the Government's requirements, would "react to the very great advantage of the industry."

The members re-elected Mr. Stevens as President, and the same action was taken in the case of Vice President O. M. Stafford. The Executive Committee chosen for the ensuing year included President Stevens, Vice President Stafford, Richard A. Strong, H. E. Stoehr, and John W. Burrows.

It May Affect Tires.

While it was said yesterday at the offices of the Rubber Club of America, Inc., that no direct information had been received from the British Government as yet as to whether automobile tires were included in the prohibition of imports of manufactures of rubber into Great Britain that became effective on May 10, this cablegram from The American Rubber Manufacturers' Association in London was given out: "A proclamation recently issued prohibits the importation, as from May 10, of all manufactured rubber goods into Great Britain; also exports of these goods from Great Britain, excepting to British possessions. We understand that direct shipments from America to neutral European countries may be made by way of Halifax, under license." Representatives of the association, which is made up of London branch managers of American rubber companies, will confer on the matter today with the President of the British Board of Trade.

Knit Goods Men Do Recruiting.

A number of recruits for the National Guard were obtained yesterday at a meeting of knit goods men that was held in the Assembly Hall of the New York Life Building at the call of the Knit Goods Division of the 1916 Preparedness Parade. The object of the meeting was to assist in recruiting the Guard of this State up to full war strength, for which 10,000 men are necessary. A campaign by trades is being carried on under the direction of Colonel Charles H. Sherrill, who has been assigned to this work by Adjt. Gen. Stotesbury. A complement of 100 men was asked of the knit goods trade. The object of the meeting, which was presided over by George H. Black, was explained by Roger W. Allen, as Colonel Sherrill was unable to be present. Ex-Colonel Frank Suplee of the Fourth Maryland Infantry also spoke. Music was supplied by the drum corps of Public School 52, Bronx, and the cadets of the same school gave a drill before the speakers arrived.

Are Awaiting the Outcome.

In view of the amount of money that has been tied up in "patriotic" merchandise by manufacturers, wholesalers and retailers, more than ordinary interest is manifested in local trade circles in a case alleging misuse of the flag that will come up in Special Sessions today. The case is that of an importer, who is alleged to have violated Section 1425, subdivision 16, of the New York State Penal Code, in displaying a flag on a handkerchief in a window at his place of business. The recent order of a Special Agent of the Department of Justice at Pittsburgh to discontinue the display and sale of goods bearing represensations of the flag and a test of the matter here, are making merchants wonder if a country-wide ban will be put on these goods. Many States have laws specifically covering the use of the flag in this way.

Insignia on Middy Blouses.

Secretary of the Navy Daniels has addressed a response to a letter from Alexander H. Meyer of this city, saying that the use of exact reproductions of insignia of the navy on middy blouses and other garments for women and misses is illegal. The letter concludes: "The department would have no objection to the wearing of middy blouses, &c., with naval insignia, by women under proper conditions, but, in view of the law, it is suggested that modifications be made in the garments in order to comply with the law's requirements."

TELLS OF SPY WORK HERE.

Suspect In California Says Germans Planned Bases on Mexican Coast.

SAN FRANCISCO, May 16.—Germany began actual work last Fall toward the establishment of submarine and airplane bases along the coast of Lower California, and maps and military information were gathered along the entire Pacific coast by German secret agents, according to information which Federal authorities today declared had been imparted to them by a youth arrested here a week ago as a spy.

The suspect was knwon here as Lieutenant Frank E. Wolf. His real name, the authorities say, is Baron Friedrich Devan Fels. He is twenty-two years of age and, according to the Federal agents, has made a complete confession of his activities, admitting that he was sent here as a spy and worked unwillingly under Rudolph Flamendinghe, now under arrest in Los Angeles. Last November, according to his story, the youth went, with four other German agents, to the Gulf of Mexico to select sites for military bases.

Drug Prices Rise Still More.

"When it became known that the Revenue bill carried a provision for a duty of 10 per cent on all imports," Drug and Chemical Market will say today, "buying orders assumed larger proportions in the local trade. With stocks almost depleted in many cases, and with uncertainty regarding future supplies, prices rose rapidly. Declines were not numerous. Mercury led in these changes, however, with a drop of $5 a flask of 75 pounds, followed by sodium benzoate. Advices received in the trade from London say that since May 1 no person has been allowed to purchase, sell, or deal in oils and seeds, within or without the United Kingdom, except under license."

The Fur Demand Keeps Up.

Reports from manufacturing furriers indicate that, while the advance business for Fall has slowed up some as a result of pessimistic talk about economy on the part of certain Government officials and others, it is keeping up a lot more actively than it was first thought it would. The reasons advanced for it are the low stocks in the hands of the retailers, the rising prices of skins and finished goods, the increase in labor cost, and the belief that the country will be normal again in a business way long before it is time to sell the goods at retail. Coats especially are good. Summer furs could move better, but about 75 per cent. of their current slowness is attributed to the weather.

BUSINESS NOTES.

The sixth monthly meeting of the New York Credit Men's Association will be held at the Hotel Astor on Thursday, May 24, at 8 P. M. The subject to be discussed is foreign credits, and the speakers will be C. E. Thomas, Vincent Gonzales, Robert E. Saunders, and Herman Krech. No admission ticket is necessary, as the meeting will be open to credit men and others interested in credit matters.

A cablegram from the American Consul General at Paris to the Department of Commerce says that a French Presidential decree of recent date prohibits the exportation, &c., of liquid and solid glucose, nickel, salts, and syrups. The decree is subject to the usual exceptions.

Public Ledger Special Correspondent in Brazil Outlines Business Situation for American Exporters

Today's Public Ledger contains a dispatch from F. M. Garcia, the Public Ledger's Special Correspondent in Rio de Janeiro, on the prospects for American exporters to Brazil.

Brazilian financiers and Government officials are preparing to co-operate with the United States Government in the utilization of Brazil as an agricultural base for the production of supplies needed by the European Governments.

The special facilities of the country, the measures adopted for the adjustment of the differences between American shippers and southern importers, and the inducements offered American capital, are all set forth in detail by Mr. Garcia.

This dispatch is of importance to every business man, and is in line with the Public Ledger's general practice of covering the news of the business world.

Gray Goods Outlook Better.

Not only was the demand for gray goods, principally printcloths, better yesterday than for quite a while, but prices were firmer on several constructions. Spot business was done on 39-inch 68-72s at 10 cents, with sales of this construction at 9½ cents for October-December delivery. A nice business was also done on 38½-inch 64-60s at these prices: Spot, 8¾ cents; August-September, 8⅝ cents, and October, 8½ cents. Spot 38½-inch 64 squares were held at 9 cents, with certain late contracts to be had at a quarter less. Merchandise is not plentiful in first hands, and second hands are offering little at the moment. Continued firmness and a good demand marked sheetings. Fine goods also were firm. Closing spot printcloth prices were:

39-inch, 72-76s	11c	38½-inch, 64-56s	8⅝c
39-inch, 68-72s	10c	38½-inch, 60-52s	7½c
39-inch, 56-44s	7c	38½-inch, 60-48s	7¼c
38½-inch, 64-64s	9c	27-inch, 64-60c	6c

Are Turning to Stars and Things.

In an endeavor to avoid the use of the flag in making up goods of a "patriotic" nature, manufacturers of women's hose are now resorting to embroidered stars, to a combination of stars and chevrons, to combinations of clockings and shields, and to plain clockings, all in red and blue on white grounds. Some of the decorations run up the side of the hose, while others are placed on the front. The merchandise is said to be attractive, and to be taking well with the trade.

Patriotic Meeting of Salesmen.

An important meeting of traveling salesmen, patriotic in nature, will be held at the Aldine Club tomorrow night at 8 o'clock under the auspices of the Silk Travelers' Association, Inc. The speakers will include Colonel Charles H. Sherrill, Dr. T. Iyenaga, the Rev. W. Warren Giles, Rabbi Joseph Silverman, and J. Howard Ardrey. The speeches will touch on the dangers of indiscriminate economy as a result of the war, recruiting systems, and the Liberty Loan.

BUSINESS RECORDS

In Town.

SEDORA WAIST COMPANY, INC.—A petition in bankruptcy has been filed against the Sedora Waist Company, Inc., manufacturers of waists, at 30 West 34th Street, by these creditors: Maurice E. Sobol, $312; A. Field, $200, and M. Lessler. The company was incorporaed Dec. 20, 1916, with capital stock, $15,000. Judge A. N. Hand appointed Peter B. Olney, Jr., receiver, on application of Samuel S. Breslin, who stated that the liabilities were $30,000 and assets about $4,000. It was also alleged that within the past three months the company had purchased $30,000 worth of goods and the present value of the merchandise on hand does not exceed $3,000, and the company is to explain the difference.

F. WESTPFAL COMPANY, INC.—A petition in bankruptcy was filed yesterday against the F. Westpfal Company, Inc., wholesale and retail cutlery, at 56 Warren Street, by these creditors: Germania Bank, $2,000; Max Klaas, $136, and J. Busch, $18. The business was started in 1875 by Frederick Westpfal, who died in 1900. The widow carried it on for a while until she died, and the present company was incorporated Feb. 9, 1914, with capital stock $40,000.

SEESSEL, INC.—A petition in bankruptcy has been filed against Seessel, Inc., interior decorators, at 331 Madison Avenue, by these creditors: K. L. Abbott, $500; M. A. Doody, $100, and Frederick T. Rand, $60. Liabilities are reported to be about $10,000.

MOE NEEDLEMAN.—A petition in bankruptcy has been filed against Moe Needleman, dealer in millinery at Yonkers, by these creditors: Edwin Somment, $34; N. Y. Millinery Supply Co., $377, and Nathan Schreiber, $159.

RAYMOND & GOLDSTEIN.—A petition in bankruptcy has been filed against Hill Raymond and Max Goldstein, manufacturers of cloaks and suits at 132 Division Street, by these creditors: S. & M. Gershowitz, $256; Louis Gershowitz, $536, and Aaron H. Kahn, $128.

WILLIAM MILLARD, machine assembler, at 338 Broadway, has filed a petition in bankruptcy, with liabilities $15,366 and no assets. Among the creditors are Ellen L. Millard, $6,800; Louis Rouillon, $1,948, and George W. Wallerman, $1,692.

GEORGE H. GILL, 519 West 152d Street, has filed a petition in bankruptcy, with liabilities $1,700 and assets $4 cash in a Connecticut savings bank. The largest creditor is May W. Credy, $1,320 on a judgment obtained April 28, 1917.

MICHAEL DENNIGAN of 2,215 Eighth Avenue has filed a petition in bankruptcy, with liabilities $1,849 and no assets. He was formerly a saloon keeper.

GEORGE E. WETHERBY, steam and hot water contractor, of Mount Vernon, has filed a petition in bankruptcy, with liabilities $1,538 and assets $400.

GUIDO BRUNO, editor and publisher at 21 Spruce Street, has filed a petition in bankruptcy, with liabilities $3,567 and no assets. The debts are for merchandise and money loaned from 1915 to 1917.

SARAH A. GARDINER, residing at the Holland House, has filed a petition in bankruptcy, with liabilities of $3,533 and assets of $300, consisting of wearing apparel, $250, which is exempt, and jewelry, $50.

THE NEENAN ELEVATOR COMPANY of 90 West Street has filed schedules showing liabilities of $24,537 and assets of $8,520, consisting of machinery, $8,000, covered by a chattel mortgage for $8,000, and accounts, $520.

CELE GEWANTER, grocer at 908 and 989 Freeman Street, Bronx, has filed schedules showing liabilities of $6,999 and assets of $4,557.

ADOLPH KARP. — Judge Hand has confirmed a composition of Adolph Karp, wholesale dealer in provisions at 407 East 103d Street and grocer at 407 Ralph Avenue, Brooklyn, with creditors at 20 cents on the dollar, cash. Liabilities were $27,975.

MOSES AKELMACHER, jobber in dress silks and satins at 3 Hester Street, has made an assignment to Marcus Helfand. Liabilities were said to be $8,000 and assets $5,000.

BEN A. BOUGHAN, a salesman, of 80 Bergen Street, Brooklyn, has filed a petition in bankruptcy. Liabilities, $34,911.72; assets, $1,996.

GALLATIN'S CLIENT HAD SWANN PROMISE

Attorney, Defending Prosecutor, Admits Guilty Plea Followed Understanding.

A STUDY IN RESPECTABILITY

Witness Says District Attorney Considered Him in Matter of Raising Tone of Office.

Francis D. Gallatin, who acknowledged that District Attorney Edward Swann had paid him the compliment of asserting that, were it necessary, he would add Gallatin to his staff to raise the tone of his office, took the witness stand yesterday before Commissioner George L. Ingraham in the County Court House to assist in Mr. Swann's defense against the charges of misconduct in office.

From this witness the lawyers for the City Club drew the assertion that Mr. Swann had given practically a blanket indorsement to his assistants, Maurice Eder and Samuel Markevich, who, in large measure, stand accused of being the instruments through which Mr. Swann was led into the conduct the City Club questions. They also drew from Mr. Gallatin the admission that, in permitting a client to plead guilty to perjury he had believed himself to be in understanding with the District Attorney's office that his client was to go free in his custody, and they forced him to subscribe to the theory that Chase Mellen, attorney for the City Club, sought to establish that the so-called labor cases on which the Swann charges are based, were cut and dried and followed a routine procedure through the District Attorney's office without interference on the part of lawyers presumably representing the men.

Mr. Gallatin's embarrassed admission that Mr. Swann had complimented him on his professional and social reputation for respectability came when he was explaining the occasion of Mr. Swann's now famous statement on "Mr. Breckinridge of Kentucky." He said Mr. Swann had told him he never would have issued the statement had not Breckinridge seemed to be trying to inject the issue of his own respectability into the controversy, asserting that his presence lent a certain tone to the District Attorney's office. Mr. Swann told him, the witness said, that he desired to show Breckinridge's own respectability was not all that he would have it thought, and thereupon added the compliment that if he wished to raise the tone of his office he would do so by attaching Mr. Gallatin to it.

Mr. Gallatin, it developed, had been counsel for Isadore Weissberg, one of the City Club witnesses to whom he had been assigned, and, through him, had been retained by Benjamin Polar, who afterward pleaded guilty and was released in Mr. Gallatin's custody, as was Weissberg, although Weissberg steadfastly declined to acknowledge the justice of the perjury charge against him. Under cross-examination, he said Polar, after his plea, had gone to Mr. Swann and had asked what assurance the District Attorney could give that the promises of Mr. Markevich and Mr. Eder would be kept. Thereupon, according to Mr. Gallatin, Mr. Swann replied:

"Had you any agreement with the District Attorney as to what would happen to Polar after he had pleaded guilty?" asked Mr. Mellen. "Had you or had you not reason to believe that he would leave court that day with you?"

"I certainly had that belief," replied Mr. Gallatin. "I believe it was understood between Mr. Swann and myself. No, I guess it couldn't have been Mr. Swann. I don't think I saw him that day. It must have been with Mr. Markevich."

In addition to Mr. Gallatin, the Swann forces, which opened the defense yesterday, called stenographers and lawyers to show that none of the City Club's witnesses had been threatened or coerced by promises of profit or reward, as they had testified. The hearing will be continued today at 2 o'clock.

Chase Mellen, counsel for the City Club, gave out a statement last night, in which he said:

"My attention has been called to a statement in this morning's newspapers by supporters of District Attorney Swann that the object of the charges against him is to bring about the election of a City Club candidate next Fall, and the placing of Assistant District Attorneys on the civil service list.

"We believe that the testimony produced is a sufficient answer to the suggestion that the club is animated by a political or ulterior motive. The only suggestion of politics in the hearings has come from the District Attorney's side.

"The City Club exists, as its charter states, for the object, among other things, of securing honesty and efficiency in the administration of city offices, of procuring the election of fit persons as city officers, and to take such action as may tend to honest, efficient, and independent government for the City of New York. The object of its present activity, and the only object, is to submit evidence upon which the Governor shall determine whether or not Mr. Swann is a fit person to continue in the District Attorney's office."

Aside from the dictates of patriotism, have you considered the new United States Government Loan purely from the standpoint of the careful investor?

We beg to suggest that—

It is probably the safest obligation which the world offers;

Its yield, because of its tax free feature, is relatively high;

FINANCIAL MARKETS

Quick Upturn in Stocks Follows Payment of $100,000,000 to Russian Envoy.

To how great an extent the stock market has been anxious over the political situation in Russia was made strikingly evident in the early afternoon yesterday when word came of the advance by this Government of $100,000,000 to the Russian Chargé at Washington. Up to that time stocks were dull and only slightly above the previous day's closing prices, but the announcement was responsible for one of the most spirited recoveries that has been witnessed since the beginning of the war market. The Street's view of the Administration's action was that it was willing to risk $100,000,000 on the possibility that it would be sufficient to turn the scales at Petrograd and keep Russia firm against any separate dealings with the Central Powers. The effect of the announcement was such as to more than offset the uneasiness caused by the resignation of Milukoff as Minister of Foreign Affairs. It was felt that the Provisional Government had been very much strengthened by reason of the financial recognition accorded it by the only nation in the world in position to loan Russia much money in the next few years. Traders at once jumped to the conclusion that the chances of Russia breaking away from her agreement with the Allies had been lessened very materially by the decision of this Government to include her with Great Britain, France, and Italy in apportioning the $3,000,000,000 meant for advances to Germany's enemies.

The sudden rally in stocks was the more vigorous because of a very considerable short interest that was stampeded into covering. The short position in Steel had become greatly extended, and it was under the violent leadership of that issue that the whole list surged upward yesterday afternoon. Nearly a third of the total dealings was contributed by Steel, which rose from its low of 116⅞ to 120⅝ at the close. Its net gain of 4⅛ was almost equal to the dividend coming off June 1. It was thought on the floor that little of the business suddenly dumped upon the Exchange came from investment buyers, most of it having the appearance of short covering.

Gains were almost universal throughout the list, with the steel stocks in the van in the upward movement. Superior Steel, a newcomer, which has not figured in the market to any extent until this week, added a gain of 7 points in yesterday's session. Sloss-Sheffield advanced 4; Midvale, 2⅜; Lackawanna, 2, and the Bethlehem issues 4 and 5 points respectively. With these advances went gains of 3 points in General Electric, 6 in New York Air Brake, 3 in Ohio Cities Gas and Texas Co. and less striking recoveries in most of the rails. More than a third of the trading occurred in the final hour, and prices closed near the top.

The Russian bonds enjoyed a violent rise, selling at their best prices of the day up 8 and 10 points for the two issues, and closing with a substantial part of that gain. Ruble exchange was likewise very strong. Altogether, the activities of trading were dominated by the single development. If the loan to Russia has the desired effect in influencing her to reject Germany's overtures, it is likely to stimulate greatly the sale of Liberty Loan bonds.

The Iron Age reports in its weekly review that railroad buying, after being held back by increasing uncertainties, is starting again, and Russian inquiries for large rail tonnage, which have received scant attention, are likely to be taken care of now.

LONDON MARKET IS STEADY.

American Securities More Irregular and Close Dull.

LONDON, May 16.—The stock market today, construing the Russian outlook as more favorable, developed a steadier undertone, with a general recovery in Russian bonds and mines, though improvement in British issues was checked by the poor response to the New South Wales loan of £3,000,000. Shipping and Brazilian shares hardened on light support and the leading rubber and oil stocks were in good demand. South American bonds and rails were steadily supported, but Greek bonds were weak. American securities moved irregularly and closed dull.

Prices Steady on Paris Bourse.

PARIS, May 16.—Prices were steady on the Bourse today. Three per cent. rentes, 61 francs 50 centimes for cash; exchange on London, 27 francs 18 centimes; 5 per cent. loan, 87 francs 70 centimes. The Bourse will be closed tomorrow, Ascension Day.

EAGLE TRANSPORT EARNINGS

Advices have just been received by mail from London stating that the Eagle Transport Company, Ltd., a subsidiary of the Mexican Eagle Oil Company, reports net profits for the year ended Dec. 31, 1916, of £304,868. B. C. Pearson, Chairman of the board, in his address to stockholders, said:

"It is of interest to glance at the effect which the growing demand for petroleum products has had upon the production of crude oil. In Mexico production for the last two years has been stunted by the shortage of ocean tonnage available for its export, but in spite of this adverse feature and the internal troubles, which have not yet cleared, the production for 1916, according to unofficial advices, amounted to over 6,000,000 tons, or some three times that of the time when your company was formed and your vessels ordered. Making a similar comparison of the years 1916 and 1912 for the oil production of the world, there has been a growth from 47,000,000 tons to over 60,000,000 tons a year."

Spain to Get $1,100,000 in Gold.

Gold coin to the amount of $1,120,000 was withdrawn yesterday from the Sub-Treasury for export. Of this, $1,100,000 was for Spain and $20,000 for shipment to Mexico.

TOPICS IN WALL STREET.

A New Unlisted Stock.

To while away the time between chores employes of a number of brokerage houses, and latterly, some of the customers, too, have been trading actively in a wholly imaginary security, which is carried on an imaginary tape as "O. B." "O. B." is Organized Baseball, and when a man offers to sell a thousand at 62 he is offering to wager $2.50 that all of the sixteen teams in the two leagues will not score more than 62 runs. As a rule, the man making the market fixes both "bid" and "asked" prices, offering to buy at 60 and sell at 62, or perhaps at 57-60. The game sounds rather simple until it is recalled that games are scheduled each day for eight cities, from which private wires lead into New York brokerage offices. The market in "O. B." is likely to break as much as 10 points on receipt of a tip from St. Louis that the weather looks bad enough to force cancellation of the game there, or 15 points on the arrival of a storm that suffices to end games at New York and Brooklyn before four and one-half innings have been played. Quotations are exchanged by telephone, and a brisk business is sometimes carried on between houses without swelling the office receipts, for no commissions are paid.

Government Bonds Lower.

A sale of $11,000 of United States Government 4 per cent. registered bonds was made on the Stock Exchange yesterday at 105½. This is a decline of ⅞ of a point from the previous low record. The Government 4s are not comparable to the 3½ per cent. Liberty Loan bonds because they carry the circulation privilege, and their maturity is dissimilar, the bonds being redeemable after 1925. Yesterday's price of 105½ compares with a record high quotation of 139¾ reached in 1902. Fifteen years ago Government bonds sold at unusually high figures because of the great demand for the security by national banks desiring to take out additional circulation.

Reserve Bank's Large Debit Balance.

The Federal Reserve Bank of New York had an unusually large debit balance at the Clearing House yesterday. It amounted to $38,614,407. This loss in cash was due to the $50,000,000 payment made to Great Britain on Tuesday, and to the $25,000,000 payment of Monday. Upon presentation of the Treasury warrants, the Federal Reserve Bank paid out its cashier's checks. These checks were redeposited by agents of the British Government with the various banks and trust companies. These items passed through the Clearing House yesterday morning, and the final adjustment showed a debit balance against the Reserve Bank. It was learned yesterday that in making payments to the British Government out of the proceeds of the sale of $200,000,000 of certificates of indebtedness, the Federal Reserve Bank did not disturb the Government deposits held by the local banks, but that the Government's account with the New York Reserve Bank was replenished by the transfer of funds from reserve banks of other districts, the adjustment being made through the Gold Settlement Fund in Washington.

Problems Confronting Bankers.

Gates W. McGarrah, President of the Mechanics and Metals National Bank, in a letter to correspondents, says that many problems confront the bankers of the country in connection with the Liberty Loan, among them the problem of maintaining adequate reserves, of negotiating huge transfers of credit without dislocating business and of maintaining a discount market for the commercial interests of the country. "These problms," he says, "will be met as they arise. They will best be met by those who study now what is going on and prepare themselves for what is ahead." Mr. McGarrah declares that it is perfectly right for the people of the United States to expect that the banking machinery of the country should be used to the utmost to facilitate the Liberty Bond sale.

Italian Exchange Firms Up.

Bankers say they see in the market for Italian exchange a direct effect of the recent $100,000 Government loan to Italy. All this week lire rates have displayed firmness, the check quotation yesterday being 7 lire to the dollar compared with 7.06½ at the close of last week. The funds supplied for the use of the Italian Government removes the necessity for the transfer of an equivalent amount of money from Italy to be used in the purchase of supplies. Such a transfer would be consummated through the sale of lire in this market, a proceeding whose natural product would be a pressure upon rates. With the money made available here without recourse to the exchange market, offerings of lire have declined and buyers have had to bid for their supplies.

Rail Congestion and the Steel Mills.

The steel companies are suffering from a surplusage of business, and to aggravate their position more the yards of many mills are so choked with finished goods that operations are being interfered with. Several weeks ago it was learned that one plant of the Steel Corporation had fully 100,000 tons of goods piled up waiting for cars, and the situation has not improved since. More finished steel is moving to consumers than in February and March, but the check put upon the outflow during the Winter has by no means been overcome. At a time when the shipyards are howling for more and more plates, the congestion at the mills is a matter of serious consideration to the Government as well as to private manufacturers. It is expected in steel-making circles that particular efforts will be made from now on, with the help of good weather, to stimulate the haulage of Government steel.

Old Rails in Great Demand.

Canadian railroads are reported in the American market for thousands of tons of rails, which the inquirers would like to have delivered with the greatest dispatch possible. The unusual feature of this buying is that, in part, it is stimulated by the fact that Canadian roads have suffered from the removal of old rails from the tracks for hurried shipment to the battlefields of France. It is estimated that fully 600 miles of trackage across the border have been torn up to supply the urgent needs of the army transportation system in Europe. To a lesser extent the market in this country has been drawn upon for old rails for military railroads. A product of the extraordinary demand has been the uplift of prices for old rails to a level which might be described as "fancy." Jobbers have paid as much as $34 a ton for rails laid down years ago, as compared with the steel mill quotation of $38 a ton for new Bessemer rails. A factor in this situation is, of course, the fact that old rails are ready for immediate delivery and the mills are unable to take on orders for new ones for delivery before 1919.

STEEL TRADE AWAITS BIDS OF GOVERNMENT

USERS OF PLATES SUFFER

Round Purchases of Shell Material Under Way and Railroad Buying Resumed.

The Government's requirements in steel are still indefinite, and producers are patiently awaiting the development of its plans, says The Iron Age in its issue of today. The publication points out that meanwhile the uncertainty hampers consumers as well as the mills, and that domestic users of plates are finding more rather than less difficulty in supplying their wants. The Iron Age says:

"The estimate of some authorities that eventually the ship plate capacity of the country will be almost entirely taken up by the Government is surprising in view of an output last year of probably 1,750,000 tons of sheared plates over one-quarter of an inch in thickness, besides more than 1,500,000 tons of universal plates and plates under one-quarter of an inch thick. Even if 2,000,000 tons of steel vessels could be built in 1918 that would represent less than 1,000,000 tons of plates and structural shapes, of which the latter would be more than 20 per cent.

"A definite step toward starting the fabricating shops of the country on ship work is the Government canvass now under way to ascertain the extent of available capacity for steel fabrication.

"The letting of Government contracts for big guns, for rifles, and for shells has already put many plants in various lines at work, and several large machine tool contracts have been closed, with others pending. Some round purchases of shell steel to go into Government contracts are under way.

"Railroad buying, lately held back by increasing uncertainties, is starting again. Recent rail sales of the Steel Corporation, in part for 1919, have amounted to 60,000 tons. A Russian inquiry is for 25,000 tons of 67½-pound rails for the Department of the Caucasus, but Russian business under present conditions is getting scant attention. The New York Central is in the market for 300 locomotives and 1,000 cars, and its car purchases are expected to reach 5,000. None of the steel car works is running at more than 50 per cent. capacity, chiefly because of short supply of steel.

"The reported decrease in automobile buying has not yet affected mill specifications and shipments of bars and sheets to that trade continue heavy."

The Iron Trade Review says:

"War needs in steel are piling up at a tremendous rate as the Government unfolds its plans. In a corresponding degree, new business of a non-military character is being set aside and tonnage of this kind already booked is being placed in a more uncertain position, either as to time of manufacture or delivery. Federal direction of production, distribution, and transportation is becoming more far-reaching. Concentration of all buying for the Allied Powers under single authority at Washington is a proposal looking toward greater market control. The large part that the steel industry is expected to fill in the immense shipbuilding program of the Government is becoming more apparent. The fulfillment of this program as now outlined will require the country's entire output of ship plates over a period of at least two years. Bids have been asked on material for building 1,000 locomotives for Russia."

COTTON MORE ACTIVE

The cotton market yesterday was much steadier and trading was more active, especially late in the afternoon. October contracts sold up to 19.37c, or 20 points above Tuesday's final price, and closed at 19.36c. The general list closed very steady at a net advance of 11 to 20 points. The announcement of the loan to Russia, and the stronger tone of the stock market were largely responsible for the late advance.

There was a feeling in some quarters that the money advanced to Russia would be used in the purchase of raw cotton, but at any event the announcement from Washington was interpreted as indicating the Administration's confidence that internal conditions in Russia would work out without detriment to the cause of the Allies. Beyond this, the market was encouraged by a more optimistic view of the submarine situation, and a growing belief that the first official crop report of the season on June 1 would show a condition below the ten-year average.

The market opened steady at an advance of 1 to 15 points, with near months relatively firm in sympathy with the cables and the submarine news. Offerings increased right after the call, with active months selling about 5 to 7 points net lower. The market steadied around 19.10c for October, however, and advanced after the publication of the weekly weather report at midday. The high point was reached in the late trading on coverings, Wall Street, and scattered buying.

The weekly report of the Weather Bureau indicated that unseasonably low temperatures had unfavorably affected the crop over the entire belt. Cultivation had proceeded satisfactorily, however, and buying on the report was restricted by the fact that it reflected past conditions and that warmer weather is now in prospect. It is considered a question by local bulls whether even the most favorable conditions during the next ten days could overcome delays caused by the unusually cold weather so far this month.

The first report of the Government to be issued on June 1 will give the condition of the crop as of May 25, or a week from tomorrow. This report will compare with a ten-year average of 79.1, and with a condition of 77.5 on May 25 last year. A private report published late in the afternoon estimated the acreage at 99.4 per cent. of last year's, the decrease indicated being smaller than that shown by recent advices.

COMMODITIES MARKETS

WHEAT.

The wheat market was again under the influence of the liquidating movement which was brought about by the action of leading exchanges. Restricted trading is to continue indefinitely, and there was a general disposition to even up contracts. The selling was aggressive early in the day by those who had delayed selling in hopes that unrestricted operations would be resumed. Prices broke 22@24 cents early in the session, making a perpendicular decline of 47@56c from the closing figures of last week, which were named as maximum prices. There was a sharp rally from the low point, however, on covering, and net losses were reduced to 12@18c. In the local cash market offers were limited, and prices were largely nominal.

September	2.13	1.98	2.07	2.20	1.16⅝

CORN.

The corn market declined sharply early in the day under liquidation as a result of the break in wheat and owing to very favorable weather conditions for the new crop. There was good buying on this break, however, and prices regained most of the loss, closing with net declines of 1½@2¼c. The Weekly Crop Bulletin said that considerable replanting will be necessary owing to the poor germination as a result of the recent cold weather. In the local cash market No. 2 yellow corn was quoted at $1.78½, cost, insurance, and freight New York.

OATS.

Prices in the oats market followed other cereals, with fluctuations confined to a narrow range. Favorable weather conditions were reported for the new crop, but there appeared to be a fair demand on the declines. The local cash market was easy; standard quoted at 76½c; No. 2 white, 77c; No. 3 white, 76c; No. 4 white, 75½c; fancy clipped white, 80@81c; ordinary clipped white, 77@79c, all elevator.

PROVISIONS.

Moderate early weakness in the provision market, due to scattered selling and the break in grain, was followed by partial recoveries in the late afternoon, and final prices were not far under those of the previous night. Receipts at Chicago were 25,000 hogs, with 18,000 expected on Thursday. Kansas City received 9,000, Omaha 8,000, and Western points about 90,000 hogs.

COTTONSEED OIL.

The market for cottonseed oil again reflected the feeling of insecurity on the long side and prices were easier, closing with net losses of 7@17 cents. Total sales were 31,400 barrels. Range of prices:

COFFEE.

The coffee market was very quiet yesterday. The uncertainty as to just what action may be taken with reference to war taxes, appears to have restricted business to a minimum so far as the spot market is concerned, and there was evidently very little interest in futures from either a trade or speculative standpoint. The market opened at unchanged prices, and closed net 1 point higher to 2 points lower with sales of only 17,750 bags; the bulk of this small business occurring late in the afternoon. The local spot market was dull at 10¼c for Rio 7s and 10½c for Santos 4s. Range of prices:

SUGAR.

The sugar futures market opened quiet, 1 to 3 points lower, with sales on the call 1,350 tons. The weak and unsettled conditions in actual sugar, where offerings were free and refiners not indicating what they would pay, caused general liquidation by tired longs, and prices sagged, the close showing net declines of 5 to 7 points, with sales amounting to 20,800 tons. Range of prices:

The market for refined sugar was steady and unchanged at 7.50 to 8.50 for fine granulated. Raw sugar was barely steady at the close, with operators and local refiners buying about 35,000 bags Cubas, June shipment, at 5c, cost and freight, equal to 6.02c, duty paid. Refiners also bought 10,000 bags Cubas, May shipment at 5 c, cost and freight. Refiners are well supplied for their immediate wants, and the uncertain conditions in the trade generally, due to the possibility of legislation at Washington affecting the situation, keep them from buying for future needs. Spot quotations follow: Centrifugal, 6.02c; molasses, 5.14c; cost and freight, 5c.

BUTTER AND EGG MARKET.

BUTTER.—Receipts yesterday, 9,628 packages. The market advanced sharply on all fresh table grades of butter, but, at the higher rates, trade is backing up somewhat and there was an unsettled feeling at the close. A good deal of activity marked the trading under the call on 'Change, and over 1,300 tubs of various grades were sold. Creamery, higher than extras, per lb., 40@40½c; extra, (92 score,) $39½c; firsts, (88 to 91 score,) 38¼@39c; seconds, (83 to 87 score,) 36¼@38c; thirds, 35@35½c; Creamery, unsalted, higher than extras, 40½@41c; extras, 40c; firsts, 38¼@39½c; seconds, 37@38c; State Dairy, tubs, finest, 39c; good to prime, 36½@38½c; common to fair, 33@36c; Renovated, extras, 37@37½c; firsts, 35½@36½c; lower grades, 32@34c; Imitation Creamery, firsts, 33@34c; Ladles, current make, firsts, 32@32½c; second, 31½; lower grades, 30½@31c; Packing Stock, current make, No. 1, 31¼@32c; No. 2, 31c; lower grades, 29¼@30¼c.

EGGS.—Receipts yesterday, 29,688 cases. Arrivals are moderate, advices from the country are firm, and in northerly sections prices are still above a parity with the rates recently ruling here. Regular trade demands are moderate, and most receivers report rather a quiet trade. Fresh gathered, extras, per dozen, 37¼@38c; storage packed firsts, 36½@37c; seconds, 35½@36c; fresh gathered, firsts, 35@36½c; seconds and lower grades, 31@34½c; dirties, No. 1, 33@33½c; No. 2 and poorer, 30@32½c; checks, good to choice, dry, 32@32½c; undergrades, 29@31½c; State, Pennsylvania, and nearby Western, hennery whites, fine to fancy, 37½@38c; ordinary to good, 36½@37c; gathered whites, ordinary to fine, 35@37c; Western and Southern, gathered whites, 35½@37c.

FINANCIAL NOTES.

The Cleveland Mahoning Valley Railroad has asked the Ohio Public Service Commission for permission to issue $2,851,800 bonds for improvements to eliminate grade crossings.

Application has been made to the Stock Exchange to list S. H. Kress Company $4,000,000 7 per cent. cumulative preferred stock, $12,000,000 common stock, and the Owens Bottling Machine Company $1,500,000 additional common stock.

The California Railroad Commission has approved the application of the San Joaquin Light and Power Company for an indenture securing $4,500,000 ten-year 6 per cent. debentures.

The annual meeting of stockholders of the General Motors Company, practically all the stock of which has been exchanged for shares of the General Motors Corporation, has been postponed until next Wednesday. This meeting is for the purpose of voting on the retirement of the preferred stock of the company.

The Northern States Power Company has offered $1,500,000 new 7 per cent. preferred stock to stockholders at par and accrued dividends. A syndicate has been formed to take any part of the issue not subscribed.

A special meeting of the stockholders of the Havana Electric Railway, Light, and Power Company has been called for today, to consider an increase in the preferred stock from $15,000,000 to $21,000,000. Proceeds of issue will be used to retire outstanding obligations and for other purposes.

At the annual meeting of the F. W. Woolworth Company the resolution of the Directors to retire $500,000 preferred stock on July 1 was approved by stockholders. This brings the outstanding preferred issue down to $12,500,000. Retiring Directors were re-elected.

Otto T. Bannard has been elected a Director of the Pacific Coast Company.

Montgomery Hallowell, formerly an editorial writer on The Chicago Tribune, but more recently Eastern manager of foreign advertising for THE NEW YORK TIMES, has become connected with the new business department of the National Bank of Commerce.

B. F. Wollman, President of the Bleecker Street and Fulton Ferry Railroad Company announces that the sale of the stock of the company to the New York Railways Company has been consummated, over 85 per cent. of the stock having been delivered.

NOTICE OF SALE.

$245,000 SCHOOL BONDS OF THE TOWN OF MONTCLAIR, IN THE COUNTY OF ESSEX, N. J.

Sealed proposals will be received by the Board of Commissioners of the Town of Montclair, in the County of Essex, N. J., until May 29th, 1917, at 4 o'clock P. M., when they will be publicly opened for the purchase of $245,000 School Bonds of said Town. Said bonds will be dated May 1, 1917, will be 245 in number, numbered from 1 to 245 inclusive, of the denomination of $1,000.00 each, payable in order as numbered, eight of said bonds being payable on May 1, in each of the years 1918 to 1942 inclusive, and nine of said bonds on May 1 in each of the years 1943 to 1947 inclusive. Said bonds will bear interest at the rate of four and one-half per centum (4½%) per annum, payable semi-annually on the first days of May and November in each year. Both principal and interest of said bonds will be payable in gold coin of the United States of America of or equal to the present standard of weight and fineness, at the office of the Town Treasurer. Said bonds will be coupon bonds, with the privilege of registration as to principal only or of conversion into bonds registered as to both principal and interest.

The bonds will be sold at not less than face and accrued interest from the date of the bonds to the date of delivery. The right is reserved to reject any and all bids. Proposals should be addressed to Harry Trippett, Town Clerk, and enclosed in a sealed envelope marked on outside "Proposal for School Bonds," and must be accompanied by a certified check upon an incorporated bank or trust company to the order of the Town of Montclair in the sum of $4,900. Checks of unsuccessful bidders will be returned upon the awards of the bonds. No interest will be allowed upon the check of the successful bidder, and such check will be retained and applied in part payment for the bonds, or in case of failure to take up and pay for the bonds in accordance with the terms of the proposal, will be applied on account of the damages thereby incurred.

The bonds will be prepared under the supervision of United States Mortgage and Trust Company, which will certify as to the genuineness of the signatures of the Town officials and the seal impressed thereon.

The successful bidder will be furnished with the opinion of Messrs. Hawkins, Delafield & Longfellow, Attorneys of New York City, that the bonds are binding and legal obligations of the Town.

The Town of Montclair, in the County of Essex.
By HARRY TRIPPETT,
Town Clerk.

TO THE HOLDERS AND OWNERS OF THE OUTSTANDING CONSOLIDATED SINKING FUND MORTGAGE GOLD BONDS OF CITY WATER COMPANY OF EAST ST. LOUIS, ILLINOIS, THE MATURITY DATE OF WHICH HAS BEEN OR MAY BE EXTENDED TO JANUARY 1, 1918:

NOTICE IS HEREBY GIVEN that, pursuant to the provisions of paragraph "Fifth" of an agreement entered into December 1, 1914, between City Water Company of East St. Louis, and City Water Company of East St. Louis and Granite City, the undersigned Companies, intend to and will redeem and pay on the first day of July, 1917, at their par value, plus accrued interest, all outstanding Consolidated Sinking Fund Mortgage Gold Bonds of City Water Company of East St. Louis the maturity date of which under said agreement has been or may be extended to January first, 1918, aggregating in amount One Million Four Hundred Seventy Thousand Dollars ($1,470,000), which bonds are dated January 1, 1894, and were issued under the mortgage or deed of trust made by the City Water Company of East St. Louis to The Farmers' Loan and Trust Company, as Trustee.

To effect such redemption, the undersigned companies, will on July 1, 1917, through their redemption agent, The Farmers' Loan and Trust Company of New York, Trustee under said mortgage or deed of trust, at the office of said Trust Company, at No. 22 William Street, in the City of New York, N. Y., pay to the holder or registered owner of each of said bonds (upon presentation and surrender of such bonds and all unmatured coupons), the principal thereof, together with the interest then accrued and unpaid thereon. All said bonds shall cease to draw interest on July 1, 1917, and the coupons subsequently maturing will be void.

WRIGHT-MARTIN AIRCRAFT CORPORATION

To the Stockholders:

In order to provide the Corporation with additional funds, it has been proposed to increase the authorized number of shares of the common stock from 500,000 to 1,000,000, and for that purpose the Board of Directors have called a special meeting of the stockholders to be held May 24, 1917.

The said 500,000 shares have been underwritten by a number of the larger stockholders at the price of $5 per share, without any commission, subject to an offering of said shares at the same price to the stockholders of the Corporation of record at the close of business May 23, 1917.

If the proposed increase be approved by the requisite number of the stockholders, warrants will be issued to the stockholders of record at the close of business May 23, 1917, covering subscription rights to the additional shares of stock.

Of the present authorized shares of common stock there remain, subject to sale, 43,953 shares, which shares have been sold at the price of $5 per share, without any commission, subject to their being offered pro rata to the stockholders at the same price. The said 43,953 shares will be offered to the stockholders in connection with the offering of the 500,000 shares above mentioned.

By order of the Board of Directors,
GLENN L. MARTIN, Vice-President.

SUIT FOR PROFITS IN COTTON

Transaction Arranged at Private Dinner Based on Peace Rumors.

The details of a transaction in cotton arranged at a private dinner at the Union Club last November because the diners thought that they had advance information that peace was at hand, were told in the Supreme Court yesterday by Edward M. Weld, member of the New York Cotton Exchange and of the firm of Stephen M. Weld & Co., who gave the dinner. Mr. Weld described the operation as a "straddle," consisting of the simultaneous buying of cotton in New York and selling on the Liverpool exchange, between which there was a difference of 400 points.

Mr. Weld, testifying before trial in a suit brought against his firm by Frederick A. DePilis of 22 East Sixty-second Street to recover a balance of $35,729 alleged to be due as his share of the profits resulting from the operation, was examined by Daniel W. Blumenthal, attorney for DePilis, to enable the plaintiff to prove an alleged agreement with the Weld firm by which in return for certain information to be furnished by DePilis the Weld firm was to buy for his account 10,000 bales of cotton and sell on his order. He was not to be held for any loss but was to receive all the profit. DePilis alleges that the cotton was bought for him in November and sold in January at a profit of $40,000. He admits receiving $4,270 and sues for the balance. The cotton brokers deny that the agreement stated by DePilis was made, and contend that he has received all that is due.

CONSOLIDATED EXCHANGE

When the news of the Russian loan reached the market on the Consolidated Stock Exchange early in the afternoon it stimulated a general buying movement, which developed into a rapid advance for many stocks in the subsequent dealings. The heavy trading in United States Steel common was a feature, that stock leading the market upward. Steel changed hands to the amount of more than 107,000 shares. The railroad stocks strengthened with the general list. Commission house dealings in odd lots were on a large scale.

The Consolidated Coal Co. of St. Louis. First Mortgage Thirty-Year Six Per Cent. Sinking Fund Gold Bonds.

Bankers Trust Company, as Trustee, under the First Mortgage, dated September 1, 1911, securing the aforesaid bonds, invites proposals for the sale to it of an amount of said bonds, at prices not exceeding par and accrued interest, with five per cent. premium sufficient to exhaust, as nearly as may be, the sum of $14,945.34 now held in the Sinking Fund. All proposals should be for all or any part of the bonds offered, and should be enclosed in sealed envelopes and delivered to the Trustee at its office, 16 Wall Street, New York City, not later than 12 o'clock noon, on May 23, 1917, after which notices will be mailed to holders of such bonds as may be accepted. Bonds so accepted must be delivered to the undersigned on or before May 25, 1917, with all coupons maturing on and after September 1, 1917.

BANKERS TRUST COMPANY, Trustee.
By H. F. WILSON, JR., Vice President.
May 3, 1917.

DISSOLUTION NOTICE.

YOU WILL PLEASE TAKE NOTICE THAT the firm of Blanck & Co. has been dissolved and that Messrs. Felix Meyer and William Kallmann of New York and Theodore Gerber of St. Gall, Switzerland, have acquired all of the assets and business of said copartnership as a going concern, and have assumed all of the liabilities of said copartnership, and they have incorporated under the laws of the State of New York, Blanck & Co., Inc., which has taken over and will continue at No. 118 Fifth Avenue, New York City, the business formerly conducted at that address by Blanck & Co.

FELIX MEYER, President.
THEODORE GERBER, Vice President.
WILLIAM KALLMANN, Treas. & Sec'y.

344,436.

The average net paid circulation of The New York Times for the six months ended March 31, 1917, as reported to Post Office Department, was 344,436 copies.—Adv.

EXPRESS RATE QUESTION UP

Companies Study Figures with a View to Asking Increase.

The express companies are studying their rates in relation to operating costs with the possible purpose of applying later to the Interstate Commerce Commission for permission to charge an increase. A dispatch received in the financial district from Washington yesterday, saying that such an application had already been made, was denied at the local offices of the companies. In explanation of its position, the Adams Express Company issued this statement:

"It can be stated positively that no application for increased rates has been filed with the Interstate Commerce Commission. The rates are being considered in connection with the increased cost of conducting business as it affects all transportation companies. We are analyzing the rates."

At the American and Wells Fargo Express Company offices it was said that higher costs had been reflected in the operating results of recent months. In January, it was stated, several concerns had reported a deficit, and more recent months would probably make an adverse showing when the reports were made public. Gross business is running on a greater scale than ever before, but the rapid expansion of wages and the cost of maintenance and supplies were declared to be cutting down profits steadily.

The Adams, the American, the Southern, and Well Fargo Companies have prepared a memorandum requesting the Committee on Taxation of the House of Representatives to grant them a hearing on the War Tax bill. The bill provides an impost of 10 per cent. of the charges paid on packages sent by express. This would be difficult to collect, the memorandum states, because of intricate rates, which would necessitate the splitting of odd cents in case the 10 per cent. clause should be strictly applied. The memorandum sets forth that unless a tax should be applied also to packages sent by parcel post, goods now shipped by express would be switched to the postal service. The proposal is made that a straight charge per package be levied as a war tax instead of using a percentage basis.

Costa Rica Meets Obligations.

SAN JOSE, Costa Rica, May 16.—The Government today paid $200,000 on the English loan and 1,000,000 francs on the French loan, thus covering its obligations on both debts until the end of the year. Most of these securities are held by American investors. The police have captured three wireless plants in Heredia, the home city of former President Gonzales, who was deposed in January.

THE REAL ESTATE FIELD

Several good deals gave a creditable show of activity to the realty market yesterday, among them being an apartment house trade in the upper Manhattan section and the high price for a small Bronx plot, in the "hub" of that borough, being $45,000 over the assessed valuation.

In the upper Manhattan residential centre the five-story apartment structure at 659 West 171st Street, on plot 71.8 by 95, between Broadway and Fort Washington Avenue, was purchased by the Merritt-Ferguson Construction Company, Charles F. Merritt President, from the Martinique Realty Company, John J. Bockar. In part payment the Merritt Company gave two vacant plots in the Dyckman section, one being at the northeast corner of Vermilyea Avenue and 204th Street, 100 by 100, and the other at the northwest corner of Post Avenue and Academy Street, 100 by 100.

The properties in the deal aggregated in value about $175,000. Byrne & Baumann were the brokers. The Dyckman parcels will be resold to builders for apartment improvement.

$107,500 for Small Bronx Plot.

The most important auction sale of Bronx property in a long time was the offering in the Bronx Salesroom of the plot at 2,858 Third Avenue, extending through to 149th Street, surrounding the northeast corner of those thoroughfares. On the property are a three-story and a one-story building. The frontage is 26 feet on Third Avenue, 62.3 feet on 149th Street, containing about 2,110 square feet. It is at the busiest corner in the Bronx, being the junction of Third, Melrose, Westchester, and Willis Avenues and 149th Street. Over seventy bids were made, and it was bought for $107,500 by the defendant in the partition proceedings, Augusta Dorn. The price averages about $50 a square foot, making it one of the best selling parcels for its size in the borough.

The interesting feature about the sale, apart from the keen competition, was that it went far beyond the assessed value, an unusual case in auction property today. The assessed value is $62,000. The auctioneer, George Price, said that two years ago it was assessed for $42,000. The corner is owned by the same interests. Both parcels are under lease to John Haffen.

Two Harlem Apartments Traded.

Charles Wynne has resold the five-story apartment 523 West 123d Street, on a plot 33.2 by 100.11, located between Amsterdam Avenue and Broadway, taking in part payment the country residence of Joseph Black at Ronkonkoma, L. I., consisting of a dwelling and four acres of parked land.

The Queen Mab Realty Company gave forty-two acres of land at Nepperham Heights, Yonkers, N. Y., in part payment for The Lyndon Arms apartment, at 524 Riverside Drive, purchased Tuesday, from the Marcy Realty Company.

Resale on West 116th Street.

Mayer S. Auerbach has resold the five-story building, 112 West 116th Street, on a lot 20 by 100, to a buyer, who has given the property to the Institutional Synagogue, of which Dr. Herbert S. Goldstein is President. Extensive alterations will be made to the building.

Buyers for Private Dwellings.

Shaw & Co. sold for Ethel M. Stearns 103 West 119th Street, a three-story and basement dwelling, on a lot 16.8 by 55 by 100.

Tenement Sales.

John Lucker sold the five-story double flat, 1,604 First Avenue, with stores, on a lot 25 by 100, for Ludwig Rosenberg to Henry L. Thoet.

Jacob J. Talbot sold, in conjunction with Theodore Ortmann, for Benjamin Rosengarten to Margaret M. and Beatrice G. Fitzgerald, the five-story single tenement, 319 West Twenty-eighth Street, on a lot 20 by 98.9.

The Martonbert Realty Company sold the five-story and basement apartment house at 232 West 122d Street, 34 by 100 feet, held at $37,000, to the Linwood Realty Company.

Outside Buyers in Auction Room.

Among the large number of parcels sold by Bryan L. Kennelly in the Vesey Street room, several went to outside buyers. Edward J. Daniels bought the five-story building at 147 West Broadway, southeast corner of Thomas Street, for $27,750. The three-story building at 323 Fourth Avenue, northeast corner Twenty-fourth Street, went to H. G. Soltzsieder, a party in interest, for $85,500. Frederick Thies paid $22,500 for 772 and 774 Eleventh Avenue, southeast corner of Fifty-fourth Street, and George R. Read & Co. bought for a client the dwelling at 324 West 108th Street for $24,500. Oscar Wagner paid $55,500 for two apartments at 146 and 148 East Thirtieth Street.

The Sturges estate plot, 97.9 by 100, on the south side of Eighty-eighth Street, just east of Fifth Avenue, was bought in for $202,000.

Bronx Sales.

Henry Bruderer purchased the one-story taxpayer, 2,330 and 2,332 Hoffman Street, on a plot 41.8 by 119.1, from the City Real Estate Company, who took the property over in foreclosure proceedings sale Tuesday. The two similar structures at 2,334 and 2,338 adjoining were purchased by the same buyer at the sale Tuesday.

The 2,333 Creston Avenue Company sold to W. F. Gunnench 572 East 166th Street, a five-story tenement on a plot 37.6 by 138.8 by irregular.

Brooklyn.

I. Salzberg sold for the Connelly Investing Corporation to L. Brinberg 1,571 Forty-sixth Street, a two-family stucco house on a plot 40 by 100.

Long Island.

In the Corona section Thomas J. Daly, a builder, sold to John McDevitt a two-family brick house at 16 Forty-third Street; to John Dujovich a two-family brick house at 28 Forty-third Street; to John Melboom a two-family frame house at 111 Forty-first Street.

Dr. Walter Stickles has purchased the property, 67 by 135, on Newtown Avenue adjacent to the Briel property, Long Island City.

J. Jensen sold to H. Weimer the brick building on the north side of Flushing Avenue, thirty feet west of Hallett Street.

Syndicate Buys Apple Tree Farm.

A syndicate headed by S. Morrill Banner has purchased the old Apple Tree farm in Westchester County adjoining the Heathcote Station of the New York, Boston & Westchester Railroad. It lies within the Townships of Scarsdale and New Rochelle, containing eighty-seven acres, with buildings. There is a frontage of 2,000 feet on Wilmot Road and 1,400 feet on Drake Road.

The property was owned for many years by the Potter family, and was recently bought in at foreclosure by the Metropolitan Life Insurance Company, which was the seller in the recent deal. The buyers plan to cut the property up into fine residence plots of four acres and upward.

Westchester County.

The receivers of the American Real Estate Company sold to M. H. Petiger a tract of about forty acres at Mamaroneck, adjoining the Blossom Heath Inn property, fronting on the Boston Post Road. The buyer will develop. McCarthy & Fellows negotiated the sale.

New Jersey.

The Commercial Trust Company of New Jersey has sold for the Fredericka Zeugner estate to Harry Goldowsky and David Newman the Belvidere House, a frame hotel on plot 181 by 169, at the northwest corner of Old Bergen Road and Danforth Avenue in the Greenville section of Jersey City.

Commercial Leases.

Cammann, Voorhees & Floyd have leased for J. Archibald Murray the five-story building, 30 by 85, at 49 Water Street, to the American Trading Company.

Pease & Elliman leased for the Schulte Realty Company for twenty-one years at an aggregate rental of $175,000, at 384 and 386 Broadway, the ground floor store to the Horn & Hardart Company.

Huberth & Huberth in conjunction with Messimer & Carreau, Incorporated, have rented for the Smith Form-A-Truck Company the store at 1,875 Broadway to the Pathfinder Automobile Company. The Smith Form-A-Truck Company has leased about 35,000 square feet in the New Service Building on Sixty-fourth Street, near Broadway.

Henry Hof leased to James Butler, Incorporated, for John B. Harrison the store and basement at 612 Third Avenue for a term of years; also, to the Sheffield Farms-Slawson-Decker Company, the store at 558 Third Avenue.

Henry C. B. Stein leased 206 and 208 Allen Street, southeast corner of Houston Street, a three-story building with store, to Samuel Katz for five years. Also 173 East Houston Street, a four-story building with store, to Samuel Ershowsky for a term of five years.

William A. White & Sons leased for Mary E. Green to Harry M. Greenberg for a long term of years the three buildings, 589 to 593 Eighth Avenue, and the building at 304 West Thirty-ninth Street, situated at the southwest corner of Eighth Avenue and Thirty-ninth Street.

Eighth Avenue Association.

The Eighth Avenue merchants and property owners in the section between Thirty-fourth and Fifty-ninth Streets held an enthusiastic get-together luncheon yesterday at the Parisien Restaurant, 945 Eighth Avenue, and made a definite organization of the Eighth Avenue Association. John C. Forster was elected permanent Chairman, A. Bickelberg Vice Chairman, and David Robinson Managing Secretary. The headquarters are at 662 Eighth Avenue, near Forty-second Street.

THE WEATHER

WASHINGTON, May 16.—Light, scattered showers fell in New York and Southern New England, Southern Kansas, and Oklahoma, and snows and rains over northern districts west of the Rocky Mountains. Elsewhere the weather was fair, but with considerable smoky and hazy atmosphere in the lake region, the Middle Atlantic States, and North Carolina, due prodably to forest fires reported to have occurred in Minnesota.

Except over a limited area in Eastern New York, Northern New Jersey, Western New England, and Upper Michigan, there has been a general rise in temperature over the eastern half of the country, and in the Southwest, and they are now above the seasonal average over much of the greater portion of the country east of the Rocky Mountains.

In the Northwest, Wyoming, and Utah there was a decided fall in temperatures and to somewhat below normal conditions, except in the Dakotas.

The weather will continue generally fair Thursday and Friday east of the Mississippi River, except in Upper Michigan, where showers are probable Thursday night or Friday.

It will be warmer in New York and New England, but elsewhere temperatures will change but little.

Winds for Thursday and Friday along the North Atlantic Coast will be moderate west, fair; Middle Atlantic Coast, moderate, variable, mostly west, fair; South Atlantic Coast, moderate southwest, except east off the Florida coast, fair.

FORECASTS—TODAY AND FRIDAY.

New Jersey, Eastern Pennsylvania, and Northern New England—Generally fair Thursday and Friday.

The temperature record for the twenty-four hours ended at 11 P. M., taken from the thermometer at the local office of the United States Weather Bureau, is as follows:

3 A. M.	51	47	4 P. M.	51	57
6 A. M.	50	48	6 P. M.	52	53
9 A. M.	50	51	9 P. M.	57	51
12 M.	54	54	11 P. M.	56	50

This thermometer is 414 feet above the street level. The average temperature yesterday was 54; for the corresponding date last year it was 53; average on the corresponding date for the last thirty-three years, 59. The temperature at 8 A. M. yesterday was 51; at 8 P. M. it was 51; maximum temperature, 61 degrees at 4:15 P. M.; minimum, 46 degrees at 5 A. M. Humidity, 46 per cent. at 8 A. M., 68 per cent. at 8 P. M.

The barometer at 8 A. M. yesterday registered 29.79 inches; at 8 P. M. it stood at 29.63 inches.

Education Notes.

The teaching staff of the Murray Hill Evening Trade School will give a dinner to Morris E. Siegel, the Principal, this evening at Lorber's restaurant, 1,420 Broadway.

At 8:15 P. M. tomorrow, five one-act plays will be given at the Washington Irving High School, under the joint auspices of the Inter-Settlement Dramatic Association, and the Dramatic Committee of the Civic Club. "Maker of Dreams," will be given by the Madison House; "Campbell of Kilhmore," by the Richmond Hill House; "'Op o' Me Thumb," by the Christodora House; "A Family of Three," by the University Settlement, and "Spreading the News," by the Greenwich House. A silver trophy will be awarded to the settlement giving the best production. The judges are Mrs. A. O. Ihlsing, Chairman; Mrs. A. Dreyer, Miss Grace Griswold, Hiram Moderwell, Miss Kate Oglebay, and Mrs. James M. Vallantine. This is to be the first of a series of competitive dramatic productions among the settlements comprising the Inter-Settlement Dramatic Association. The aim of the association. The aim of the association is not only to stimulate interest in dramatics among settlement members, but to encourage the participation of the settlements in co-operative activities.

Graduates of P. S. 180, Manhattan, prior to February 1915, are requested to attend the meeting of the Alumni Association on the evening of May 28 in the school building. There will be an election of officers.

Students, who will graduate in June from the normal art and manual training course in Pratt Institute, are being placed more rapidly than in any previous year and at better salaries; notwithstanding the serious condition of the times about one-fourth of the entire graduating class being assured of positions. An exhibition of small paintings in oil, made by the late Irving Heitkamp, will be on view in the art gallery on May 28.

The Parents' Associations of P. S. 85, Brooklyn, and 186, Manhattan, have been admitted to the Federation of Parents' Organization of the Public Schools.

The forty-six public school district representatives will elect at the Board of Education Hall today the three teacher-members of the new Retirement Board.

The different methods of teaching spelling will be tried at the Jamaica Model School on Thursday.

Premier

The Aluminum Six with Magnetic Gear Shift

Take five minutes right now, between your grape fruit and your coffee or on your way down town, and give this new Premier push-button gear shift a little of your best thought. It is without doubt the greatest fundamental advance in motor car development since the electric starter put the hand crank in the discard.

Premier is the only woman's gas car in existence—because it is the only gas car with an automatic push-button gear shift and therefore the only gas car that a woman can drive as easily as she can an electric. It is ideally adapted to a woman's needs. Your wife or your sister can drive Premier in her white gloves and party dress, without once taking her hands off the steering wheel—and she can negotiate congested traffic in safety, because Premier's push buttons give her a new, confident control of her car that she could never acquire in any hand shifted car.

Premier Plays With the Rest of New York Traffic

This Cutler-Hammer magnetic gear shift makes the old style hand gear shift—laughable. By means of it, Premier simply cuts rings around any car in New York traffic. In a Premier you can get away and be gone before any hand shifted car can get into second.

You have never driven traffic as it should be driven and can be driven until you play your way through the thick of it on Premier's push buttons.

Now, if Premier is so immeasurably ahead of other cars on this one gear shift, traffic solving advantage, since so much of your motoring must necessarily be through traffic, why in the name of common sense don't you check up on these claims?

Off With the Old—On With the New

Why go on riding in a hansom when you can get limousine service? Why write letters long hand when you can hire a stenographer? Why live in a dug out with the prairie dogs when you can have elevator service, and soft water, and everything—right here in little old New York? And why scuffle with the old fashioned hand gear shift, when you can float through New York traffic, perfectly sure of the "edge" which Premier's advanced type of gear shift gives you?

You will concede that anybody would rather shift gears with push buttons than shift them by hand—if he knew that the push buttons would always and invariably do their work. So our job, it seems, is to settle, in your mind, right here and right now all doubt as to the absolute dependability of Premier's push-button gear shift.

In the first place, Premier's gear shift is made by the Cutler-Hammer Manufacturing Company, recognized as the biggest and greatest manufacturers in the world specializing on electrical controlling apparatus.

Right in New York, under your very nose, is positive proof of the dependability of Cutler-Hammer equipment. The big talking sign at the Lloyd docks, the biggest of its kind in the world, is operated by Cutler-Hammer equipment. It has "shifted gears," so to speak, one million five hundred thousand times in the past eight years—without a single miss. That's dependability enough for you.

Over in the Brooklyn navy yards at this very moment are American battleships equipped with Cutler-Hammer apparatus. Cutler-Hammer controls their gun turrets. Cutler-Hammer apparatus steers them. United States submarines are Cutler-Hammer equipped. If there is the slightest doubt about the efficiency of Premier's Cutler-Hammer gear shift—heaven help the American Navy.

You are taking no chances on C-H electrical controlling apparatus of any sort—and you are taking no chances on Premier's Cutler-Hammer gear shift.

We have never heard of the Premier gear shift failing to work in a single instance—and we have had hundreds and hundreds of these new model Premiers in the hands of users for months.

Here, though, is your big protection. The Premier Motor Corporation unqualifiedly guarantees this push-button gear shift to perform its function without fail, and so does the Cutler-Hammer Manufacturing Company.

Remember, Premier has done to gear shifting precisely what the first car with an electric starter did to motor cranking. Would you crank a motor by hand now? Do you think you will shift gears by hand very much longer? If so, you are going to have some difficulty in finding a good car to shift them on, because the general adoption of some form of automatic gear shift by other cars is inevitable.

Meanwhile, call me up personally at Columbus 4395, and I will see to it that everything you want to know about Premier is carefully explained. I will also see that you get a chance to drive the new Premier and to become initiated into the new, advanced way of motoring.
